Herrs' Nottingham Pasture Project Saves Fence, Improves Stream

Octoraro Riverkeeper Award Winners Share Experience

NOTTINGHAM (Lancaster Co.) — A meandering creek elbowing its way toward a pasture fence began a 12-year project that is ongoing at Herr-Hope Farms, Nottingham.

"The creek was eating toward the bank, and we got a plan together to save 50 feet. Now we're going to have the whole thing done," said A. Dale Herr Jr., op-

Jeff Myers Named York CED

YORK (York Co.) — Jeff Myers has recently been named York County Extension Director (CED).

Working in the York County Extension office, Myers will serve as CED and dairy agent.

After graduating from the University of Maryland, Myers received his master's degree in animal science from Michigan State University.

He owned and operated the family farm, Del-Myr Farm, Westminster, Maryland, for 10 years. The 70-head dairy operation consisted of 70 milk cows.

He has experience working with the Maryland 4-H program as part of the 4-H faculty in animal science and recently as assistant executive director of the Maryland 4-H Foundation.

In the past, he also worked as an appraiser for the American Jersey Cattle Association. Additionally he has judged dairy cattle shows in more than 20 states and South America. He coached the winning collegiate team at Michigan State.

Myers is anticipating "the challenge of serving in an administrative role," he said.

"I very strongly believe in the land grant system, which was established originally to empower farmers with a knowledge base and to give them skills so they could be more successful. It is a philosophy that I believe in, and the mission of the organization is always something I've been directly tied to," he said.

The leadership position is "a huge draw," providing coaching and mentoring opportunities within the office, in addition to managing a budget, or doing networking, according to Myers.

"I view administration as the chance to empower a whole group of people," he said. "As extension director, I want to make sure that I'm serving and helping to challenge and mentor staff to

SB 1413 Expires, Dialogue Continues

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Since the Pennsylvania legislature ended its term last week without a final vote on Senate Bill 1413, agribusiness leaders "may need to try another avenue" to address the issue of townships passing ordinances that place limits on corporate livestock operations, according to Amy Van Blarcom, public liaison with PennAg Industries.

PennAg, along with the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB) and the State Grange, was a major supporter of the bill, first introduced by state Sen. Roger Madigan (R-23).

Farm Show Wins Four IAFE Honors

Grumbine To Chair Ag Committee In 2004

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Staff and volunteers who number in the thousands during Farm Show should stand up and be applauded.

They would be happy to know that on Tuesday morning, the Farm Show Commission was honored with four major awards, a first.

According to Dennis Grumbine, Farm Show director, the International Association of Fairs and Expositions (IAFE) presented four awards to Farm Show for excellence during a breakfast ceremony at the Hilton Hotel in Las Vegas.

Grumbine attributed the work of 350 Farm Show people on staff, including 60 full-time, and thousands of volunteers during the eight-day Farm Show to receiving the recognition from IAFE.

"Staff and volunteers make the Farm Show what it is," he said.

Judging for the honors took place a month ago in Springfield, Mo. The awards were presented during day three of the weeklong IAFE convention.

The award categories are:

- Outstanding Media Commitment Devoted to Agricultural Programming. This award was due in large part to the efforts of PCN and its television broadcast of Farm Show events.
- Newsletter. The Farm Show Happenings Newsletter, produced by the staff at Farm Show, won for excellence in this category.
- Agriculture Photo Series. Farm Show won for their five-photo collage of the Sheep-to-Shawl contest using only photos.
- Specific Agriculture Event Benefiting Agriculture and Agribusiness. This award goes to the International Day and Agro programs at the opening of Farm Show Week. International Day provides guests from all over the world a chance to see Pennsylvania's Farm Show and to promote cooperation between suppliers, farmers, and governments.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The ribbon-cutting ceremony for the new Farm Show Complex is scheduled here Tuesday, Dec. 17, at 9:30 a.m.

The event, with state agricultural dignitaries, will take place in the New Foyer at the Cameron Street entrance.

For more details, see the Building for the Future column on page A22 this issue.

CATTLE Compared to Thursday s light run, slaughter cows sold 50-1 00 lower, with most of the decrease on the fleshier cows Buyer attendance and activity were only moderate early in the week, even with only a little over 150 head on hand Boneless beef values were steady on Friday, with local packer buyers regrouping early in the week as their inventories are still pretty good Slaughter bulls sold 1 00-3 00 lower, although the quality of the light supply was very good Receipts for all classes of livestock at Monday's sale were reduced dramatically due in part to the opening day of deer season, as many hunters have been waiting for months to fill their freezers with venison and figure their stock can wait until later in the week Slaughter cows made up nearly 60 percent of the run

Compared to Thursday, a fairly light run of slaughter steers sold steady to weak Mondays run included around 100 head of fed steers, although Tuesdays supply tapered off to only around 80 head, and bids were definitely supported by the light numbers Even though there were a few lots of fancy steers on offer, there was definitely a noticeable increase in over and under-finished stock Local producers are about to get all of their finished steers cleaned out as another round of 5-6 weight feeders hit the barns, and historically this time of the year translates into lighter runs However, it is very noticeable that some producers are keeping their steers too long, and others are shipping them to town too soon, to try and get in on the current hot market And in some instances it is panning out if the finish is off, as some of the heavyweight stock is bringing upwards of 71 00, even the under-finished stock is in demand as some brave souls are willing to procure the 1100-1200 pounders to go back to feed with in hopes there is still some fire under the market this winter, with the February live cattle contract at the CME well above 78 00 Holstein steers and fed heifers were in very short supply, and a trend was not established Lean slaughter cows sold firm to 1 00 higher with fleshier cows trending fully steady A run of nearly 400 cows on Tuesday lent to a good selection and bidding was moderate to good throughout the sale with increased buyer attendance Slaughter bulls sold with a lower undertone on a light run The supply included 27 percent steers, 10 percent heifers, 60 percent cows, 2 percent bulls, with the balance feeders Note The Vintage Sales Stables will be holding a special feeder cattle sale after the slaughter steer run on Monday December 9th, to begin around 12 30 There are already over 200 head consigned, which includes a couple loads of Charolais steers and heifers

CATTLE Compared to Tuesday's very light run, the bulk of the Choice slaughter steers sold with a higher undertone, although it is a light comparison as Tuesday's run was under 80 head Heavy snows moved into Lancaster County early Thursday morning and fell well into late afternoon, dumping several inches However, over 500 head of fed steers made there way to town despite the wayward road conditions, as even the heavy snow could not keep producers from the current market Bidding was fairly active throughout the sale even though weigh ups were not ideal as cattle hit

National Broiler Market At A Glance

Atlanta, Ga.
Report Supplied By USDA

Trade sentiment was irregular, ranging weak in the West, mostly steady to about steady elsewhere Retail demand was light to fair, best for scattered feature activity. Food service covered the full range with best movement into catering services preparing for holiday parties Severe winter weather in parts of the Fast and South increased buying activity in some areas, but also created some delivery problems Supplies were sufficient to at times closer balanced due in part to production cutbacks, while in the West, heavier weights were ample and often discounted. In the parts structure, trading was light and selective. Breast items were in good balance to available, and the remaining items were at least adequate. In production areas, live supplies were moderate with weights light to heavy, mostly desirable

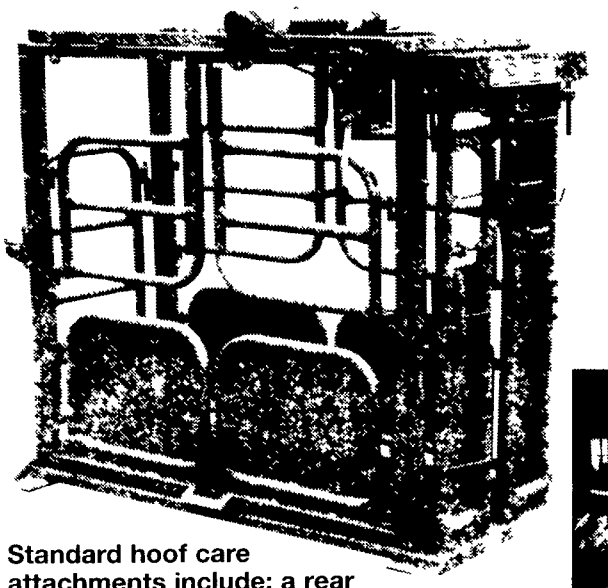
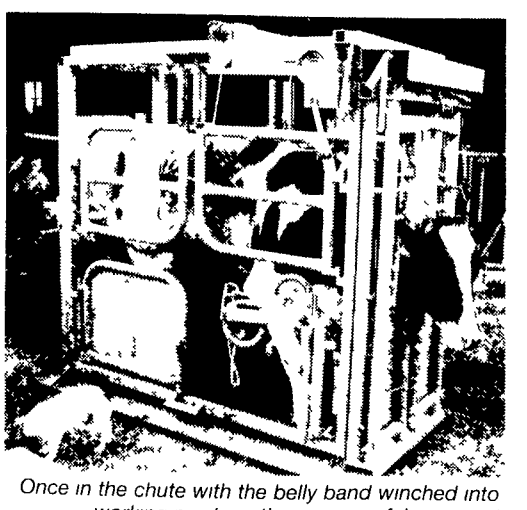
Combination Hoof Care/Vet Chute



This highly versatile equipment can be used to secure a cow safely and efficiently for foot care or veterinary services.

Side panels and gates easily replace hoof care accessories to create a vet chute where almost any common vet procedure can be performed.



Once in the chute with the belly band winched into working position, the cow is safely secured for foot treatment

Standard hoof care attachments include; a rear splatter board, rear foot winch, two front foot winches and a full width belly band and winch to lift the animals weight off their feet. All winches have heavy duty friction brakes providing constant, positive holding action.

ALL STEEL PARTS ARE POWDER COATED USING THE PBZ FIVE-STEP PROCESS.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

FIRST QUARTER MOON, DEC. 11

FIRST DAILY NEWSPAPER

On December 9 1793, Noah Webster established the first daily newspaper in New York City A graduate of Yale and one of the early trustees of Amherst College, Webster was better known for his lexicography, but he went to New York to edit the American Minerva (later the Commercial Advertiser) as a way to support Washington's administration News was powerful stuff However, Henry Austin Dobson (1840–1921) later wrote in "A Pleasant Invective Against Printing, that "The Press is too much with us, small and great, / We are undone of chatter and on dit [one says], / Report, retort rejoinder, repartee / Molehill and mare's nest fiction up to-date."

Though it be honest, it is never good to bring bad news.

TIP OF THE WEEK

Don't forget to feed the birds! Put a barrel of sunflower seeds in a handy place, and dip some out every morning.

OPINION

Blue Ribbons Or Not, Support Our Farm Show Youth

Champion Sale Tuesday, Jan. 14, 9 a.m.

It's sad, sometimes, when the reports we provide for our outstanding 4-H individuals in the state literally look at only the blue-ribbon winners and their blue-ribbon efforts.

Sometimes little or no attention is paid to the white-, yellow-, or even red-ribbon winners. How unfortunate.

Perhaps we can be accused of spending too much time on farm family kids who allow mom or dad to spend a lot of money and go visit the Midwest in search of the best genetics to show at fair and Farm Show events. Naturally, the judge is going to pick the best. Sometimes you can literally buy your way into a champion at many fairs and at Farm Show, too.

That's too bad. It would be nice if all our champions were homebred.

But what can be really distressing is when the family and friends and the businesses that are supposed to back those families and friends at major livestock sales are "no shows."

We've seen many petitions from our 4-H youth for buyers to come out to the events. Many business leaders show up. Some should show up. Of those who do attend and get a bid number, often (except in rare cases) the price is flat.

The children work hard. If they don't get the blue ribbon, their own self-esteem suffers. How many kids fought long and hard through 4-H exhibit season, winning many whites, yellows, and reds, and never the blue? And then failing to see even mediocre bids for their animals?

Where was the industry to support them?

Businesses provide direct financial support of fairs and exhibitions throughout the year. We provide features of Farm Show families in our annual issue. We provide the listings of the names of the top three winners during major livestock contests — a policy we adopted long ago because of the huge volume of fairs we cover and the limited space we find ourselves to run results in. We'd like to list all the winners, even to last place if we could — but space limits us.

I myself attend many fair sales throughout the season, as many as I can physically get to. Perhaps I don't cover enough.

The Penn State extension agents are there to take care of things, which we are thankful for, when we simply cannot be two places at once.

Like many of you, we are striving to give the youth the recognition they deserve. This should be especially true as we enter a new era of Farm Show, a show that once again will focus completely on farming.

It's a brand-new Farm Show, folks, with a new day and time. The sale, instead of Thursday as in years past, is Tuesday, Jan 14, at 9 a.m.

Make plans to bid, and bid high and often.

Don't forget the local fairs, too! The support doesn't end with Farm Show. Because only then — despite maybe having a less-than-perfect ribbon — can our youth regain a feeling of accomplishment for their hard work.

Now Is The Time

Lancaster County Extension Director

To Protect Your Cows' Udder Health

Beth Grove, extension dairy/environment agent in Lancaster, reports the chilly weather throughout our area has many dairy farmers thinking about udder health, specifically chapped teats and teat problems.

Dramatic temperature changes and post-dipping in very low temperatures can easily lead to more chapped and frozen teats as well as teat-end lesions. Many studies have shown cows with chapped and damaged teat ends are more vulnerable to infection by Staph Aureus and other organisms. Frostbite is also a risk with very cold weather, particularly in sick cows or cows with udder edema.

For these reasons, many producers, especially those with freestall or loose housing barns, dislike post-dipping cows after milking for fear of frozen teats and additional problems. Farmers in tiestall barns often keep the cow herd inside rather than allowing them outside for exercise and heat detection. Before you lock the barn door and keep your cows inside all winter, try these cold-weather tips to prevent teat end damage during the winter months.

In the cold winter months, try predipping instead of a water wash. Washing removes the natural oils from the teat, increasing the incidence of chapped teats in winter weather. Check teat-end conditions often so that you can detect problems early. Don't stop post-dipping in very cold weather! This will give bacteria a fighting chance to colonize teat ends in the herd. After post-dipping, allow a 60 second "kill time," then blot the teat dry with a paper or cloth towel. (Try warming the teat dip before use to reduce drying time.)

Use a post-dip with 5-10 percent "skin conditioners" to reduce the incidence of chapping in windy cold weather. There are "winter" postdips available, some that are dry or powdered, and others that contain high amounts of emollient these have shown varying amounts of success in on-farm trials. It is recommended that you always use products that have been proven to be effective in reducing new cases of mastitis. Make certain they have been well tested! Carefully use salves, ointments, and creams during wet, freezing weather. Some research has shown that these products will actually increase bacterial growth at the teat end.

It is best to store teat dip in a heated room if possible during the winter months. In very cold conditions, some teat dips may "separate" and will not have as effective a bacterial kill if not remixed before use. Before refilling the dip cup, thoroughly mix contents of the storage container.

To Learn About Tomato Pith Necrosis

High tunnels can provide ideal environmental conditions for the growth of tomatoes.

According to Andy Muza, extension agent in Erie County, these environmental conditions can also be conducive to organisms which cause diseases. One little-known disease, which was observed on tomatoes in a high tunnel this season, is tomato pith necrosis.

Tomato pith necrosis, also called black pith, is a disease caused by the bacterium Pseudomonas corrugata. It can be a serious disease of greenhouse-grown tomatoes. In the field, infection rates have been reported as high as 10 percent.

This disease was first reported from greenhouse-grown tomatoes in England in 1978. About the same time, Dr. Felix Lukezic, Department of Plant Pathology, Penn State, isolated the bacterium from symptomless roots of greenhouse-grown alfalfa plants. This was the first report of the occurrence of P. corrugata in the USA. In the early '80s, the occurrence of tomato pith necrosis was reported from field-grown tomatoes in both California and Florida.

A combination of factors seems to favor the development of this tomato disease. These factors include excessive plant vigor, conditions of high humidity, and extended periods of cloudy weather. The first symptom of infected tomato plants is often yellowing of young leaves. More severe leaf symptoms include wilting and chlorosis.

Infected stems have brown external lesions. Stems cut lengthwise may show internal symptoms, such as brown discoloration of the pith and vascular system. (Pith is spongy tissue in the center of tomato stems. The vascular system is the conductive tissue, xylem and phloem, which transports water and nutrients throughout the plant). Progression of the disease causes a breakdown of the pith, which results in hollowing of the stem.

There is no effective treatment for infected plants. However, plants that are not severely affected can recover if environmental conditions improve (that is, the arrival of warm, sunny weather). Preventive measures to minimize the occurrence of this disease in high tunnels include adequate ventilation to avoid high humidity levels, especially during periods of cloudy weather and avoiding excessive nitrogen applications to prevent overvigorous plant growth.

Remember that different fungi and bacteria can cause similar disease symptoms on plants. Therefore, correct identification of diseases is important to avoid unnecessary or ineffective fungicide applications. Contact your county extension agent for assistance in identification of diseases.

Editor:

There are many people who make any event run successfully. That is no exception with the fairs conducted this year by the Lancaster County Dairy Committee.

This year, the committee entered the Denver, Solanco, Ephrata, New Holland, and Manheim parades. Our float could not have been half of what it was if we didn't have local companies and individuals who believed in us and the importance of dairy in everyone's life.

These individuals and companies helped us with materials, drivers, and encouragement we needed while waving through the cold and windy parades. A big "thank you" goes out to our drivers Andy Augsburger, Gene Nolt, Darlene Groff, and Ken Scott. I say to them, without your commitment to drive, we could not have gotten started. Thanks!

We also had companies involved that donated the use of their tractors or wagons. I am so glad that year after year these companies have made a commitment to help us. Not only did we have people donate their driving skills and transportation, but

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

BLESSED TO BLESS

Background Scripture:
Luke 1:26-56.
Devotional Reading:
Psalm 146.

Stories about babies usually evoke a sense of tender miracles. It is difficult to be hard-nosed and cynical in their presence. We clothe them in pastel blues and pinks and their nurseries are usually the happiest, brightest rooms in the house. Nothing un-hardens a hard heart than a baby.

So, much of the story of the coming of Jesus and John in Luke 1 basks in joyous expectation. Mary's holy fear is overcome by Gabriel's assurance that her son, Jesus, "will be great, and will be called the Son of the Most High; and the Lord will give to him the throne of his father David. . . ." (1:32).

This same mood prevails when she goes to visit her kinswoman, Elizabeth, who also is expecting a divinely conceived child. As Mary enters Elizabeth's house, she calls her greeting and at this, her unborn son, John, leaped in her womb, inspiring Elizabeth to proclaim: "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb! And why this granted me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me? . . . And blessed is she who believed that there would be a fulfillment of what was spoken to her from the Lord" (1:42-45).

Call Her Blessed

Mary is also inspired and, in a moment of ecstasy, she proclaims, "My soul magnifies the Lord, and my spirit rejoices in God my Savior, for he has regarded the low estate of his handmaiden. For behold, henceforth all generations shall call me blessed. . . ." (1:46-498). Mary was correct: all generations since then have called her "blessed" and honored this simple peasant woman. Mary is blessed so that she herself may be a blessing.

This blessing, however, is not about honor, but about the purpose of God, and it is at this point in the story that Luke paints, not in pastel shades, but dramatic, arresting, and shocking colors that fairly leap off the page of his gospel. The little baby sent by God is a blessing, but his coming will transform forever the meaning of "blessing."

In this baby God will have "scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts," he will have "put down the mighty from their thrones and exalted those of low degree," he will have "filled the hungry with good things," and "the rich . . . sent away empty" (1:51-53).

This does not sound like an invitation to a baby shower, but a manifesto to revolutionize the world. It calls for the powerful to be put down, the rich impoverished, and the poor in possession of God's great bounty. God is calling for a world that was quite opposite that of the one into which Jesus was born, a world almost totally different from the one which we inhabit today.

William Barclay says that the "Magnificat" of Mary is a call to moral, social, and economic revolution. And if we do not hear that in Mary's song, we do not hear it at all.

A Marching Song

These revolutionary pronouncements in Mary's "Magnificat" will not permit this story to be merely "cute." The "Magnificat" of Mary (1:46-55) is not so much a lullaby as it is a militant marching song, except that we are called to take up alms instead of arms.

The advent of Jesus Christ is a time for awareness of the injustice and corruption that infects the world that hides behind lavender paraments and Christmas decorations. It is a time to be aware of the appalling human need that exists wherever we turn. Jesus comes to bless us and make us to be blessings for others.

Christmas is a family event, so long as your family is big enough to include the man who falls victim to robbers on the road to Jericho. No road to Jericho in your neighborhood? It's there, but under a different name. Look for that road and that person and you will find it and him. There are people on every road you travel who need you to stop and bind up their wounds.

The coming of Christ will be for us a blessing only if we also will be a blessing to others.

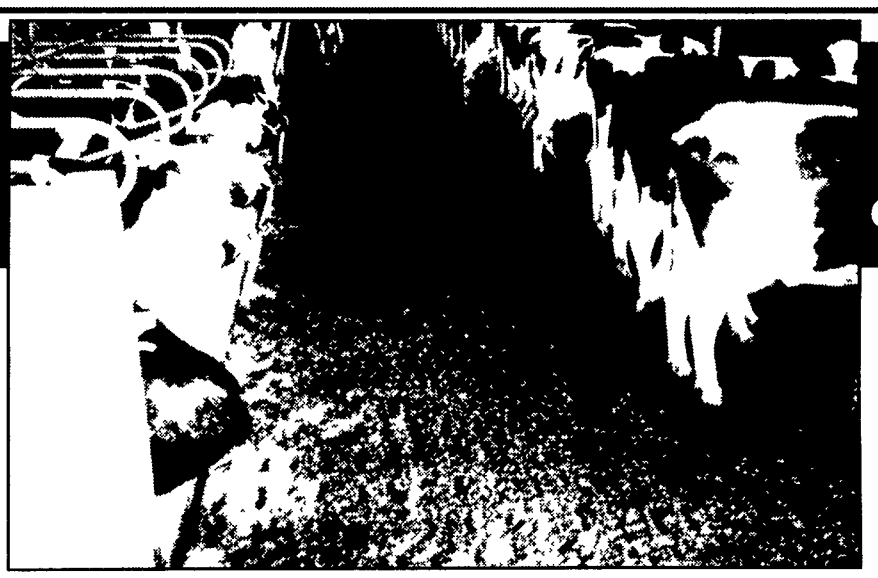
"WAFFLE SLAT" Syri-Con Corporation



"We would use slats again if doing it all over!"

Harold Keeney, David, Nancy & Mark Wolfskill

Our original plan was to install scrapers. But after 10 minutes in a slatted barn in Somerset County, we changed our minds. Some people stay away from slats because of the initial cost, but that extra cost is made up for in the first couple years.

The one thing I like the most about slats is that there is no expense I don't have any scrapers or drive units to maintain. I don't have to run scrapers every day or haul manure like we did in our previous tie stall barn The cows' foot health has been a lot better, and the cows stay much cleaner. Our milk production is up and the somatic cell count has gone down. I give at least some of the credit to the slats because with less moisture on the floor, there is less bacteria.

Match A Spreader To Your Needs

Without Spreading Yourself Too Thin

Get Unmatched Flexibility At A Great Price.

With eight sizes to choose from and a wide variety of options, it's easy to see how the New Idea® 3700 Series Spreaders meet the needs of any operation. Their aggressive, main beater paddles are strategically spaced and angled to shred a wide range of material while giving you a consistent spread pattern.

Culvert-grade galvanizing over one-piece, copper-bearing steel sides provide a barrier against rust and corrosion. And for hauling long distances, the truck-mount option proves to be the safest, most economical way to transport large amounts of material.

To see how simple it is to customize your spreading operation, contact your AGCO® New Idea dealer today. You'll be surprised how much time and money you'll save with the New Idea 3700 Series Spreaders.

East Fluid Milk And Cream Review

Madison, Wis.
December 4, 2002
Report Supplied by USDA

Spot prices of class II cream, dollars per lb. butterfat: F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: 1.4065-1.5284 Delivered Equivalent: Atlanta: 1 4287-1.5284 mostly 1.4398-1.4619.

PRICES OF CONDENSED SKIM, dollars per lb. wet solids, F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: Class II, includes monthly formula prices. .9850-1.0300; Class III - spot prices - .8700-.9400

SPOT SHIPMENTS OF GRADE A MILK: FLORIDA: This week: In - 26, Out 0; last week: In 55, Out 0, last year In 25, Out 0. SOUTHEAST STATES: This week: In 0, Out 0, last week In 0, Out 0; last year In 14, Out 0

The following are the November 2002 Class and component prices under the Federal Milk Order pricing system Class II $11 26 (up $0 14 from October), Class III $9 84 (down $0 88), and Class IV $10 58 (up $0 08) The following are the product price averages used in computing Class prices butter $1 0107, NDM $0.9177, cheese $1 1111, and dry whey $0.2223. The Class II butterfat price is $1.0993 and the Class III/IV butterfat price is $1.0923.

Milk production is steady to slightly higher in the Northeast, generally higher in the Southeast. Florida's output is reported to be rising rather significantly and their need for milk is easing enough that they may be balanced in the next week or two. Also, Florida's bottled milk sales are not as brisk as they were last week.

Fluid milk supplies are still reported as light, occasionally tight. Class I demand is improving in much of the Middle Atlantic and Northeast parts of the region. Bottlers there are very busy. Not only did they have to refill the school lunch pipeline, but the threat of a major snow storm has retailers adding to their orders and bottlers are having a hard time keeping up with all the new demand In instances, bottlers ran out of milk and others may not get all they have ordered Storm-induced panic buying is a recurring phenomenon for this part of the country Sales of bottled milk bread and other food staples spike prior to predicted storms and then usually drop to almost nothing while the pre-storm purchases are consumed. Surplus milk volumes are lighter and most contacts report little or no difficulty clearing the Thanksgiving milk. The balancing plants in the Southeast are back to little pre-Thanksgiving levels and some are again shut down.

The condensed skim market is steady with prices unchanged. Demand for wet solids is steady. The fluid cream market is getting back to normal. Demand is fair to good and multiples range from steady to slightly higher. Cream prices are moderately higher due to a 2.33-cent increase in last week's CME butter average. Ice cream producers are getting back on line, but a few continue to be down this week. Others are running rather heavy so they can shut down during the year-end holidays. Eggnog production is starting back up at some locations and most producers will be back on line this weekend Bottled cream, dips, and sour cream output is increasing to meet anticipated holiday needs Cream cheese production is moderate and some producers are taking a few spot loads in addition to their contracted volumes Churning is moderate to heavy, heaviest over the holiday weekend Cream suppliers are getting outlets lined up for late-December and early January

National Feeder Cattle Weekly Review

St. Joseph, Mo.
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL FEEDER & STOCKER Summary for week ending Nov 29, 2002 Total Receipts 184,900, last week 443,100 Direct 40,500, last week 79,700 Video/Internet 26,000 head, last week 2,700 Auction Receipts 360,700, last week 390,000 This week's reported auction volume included 39 percent over 600 lbs and 43 percent heifers

Compared to last week, feeder cattle traded steady to firm on a light Thanksgiving Holiday test Many Monday and Tuesday auction markets were open for business, but receipts were much lighter than normal Most salebarns in the Plains and Midwest states quoted prices near steady Some areas of the Southeast reported sharply lower prices on limited offerings as most order buyers took the week off Even early-week purchases were difficult as they would have resulted in a late-week delivery for receivers However, several major auctions in the Mountain States reported very good demand for calves and a 2 00 spark in the market

Direct trade was very slow this past week, but many prospective sellers raised their asking prices when they heard about this week's direct feedlot sales Packer buyers jumped out on Tuesday and started trying to cover their needs before heading to Grandma's house for Thanksgiving Trading became even more active on Wednesday morning and when the smoke cleared, live sales closed 1 00-2 00 higher at mostly 73 00 and dressed sales gained 3 00 from 114 00 to mostly 115 00 This should give next week's feeder markets another shot in the arm, since prices didn't get a chance to react to it this week Buyers will be ready to get back to work after getting their fill of turkey dinner, turkey sandwiches, and turkey casserole Although, they will be wary of those cattle that can't finish in time for April as the CME Live Cattle Futures drop off around 6 00 from April to June

To Blanket Or Not To Blanket: That Is The Question

Glenn Michalak
Equestrian Center Manager
Delaware Valley College

Now that the days have become colder, the discussion for many horse owners revolves around whether or not to blanket.

If you allow your horse to grow in its natural winter coat, you may not need a blanket, but blanketing can be useful even with a natural coat.

If you are winter riding, showing, or own an older horse, a blanket is a must.

Winter blankets will keep your horse warm and during the cold winter months, but they will not stop your horse from growing a winter coat.

Blanketing must always go hand in hand with body clipping a horse. You are removing a horse's natural insulation when doing so. Body clipping makes it easier for grooming and reduces sweating in the winter.

If nights are going to drop below 40 degrees, use a medium weight turnout blanket. Use them only at night, as the inner lining of sorts will make the blanket too hot for the horse during the day.

These blankets are also waterproof and windproof. These blankets are good for most winter days in this region.

If the temperature drops below 0 degrees, place a polar fleece under blanket on your horse or have a blanket available suitable for colder temperatures. Make sure your blankets have withers protection and a shoulder gusset.

For anyone exercising his or her horse in a cold arena, use a quarter or half sheet until the animal is properly warmed up. Doing so reduces the chance of pulled and torn muscles because the body is unusually cold and is working too quickly. After exercise, place a blanket on the hindquarters to prevent stiffening muscles later.

Stable blankets are important during the winter months if your horse is stalled for long periods. There are good stable blankets available in light, medium, and heavy weights. You will need to watch how the temperature fluctuates in the barn and outside to decide what is best for your blanketing system.

You may have to change blankets when a horse is going out, and when back in the barn. Some days, you may not need a blanket on when going out. Again, please understand this is a time-consuming system for your horse, and one blanket is not going to do the trick.

You need to help your horse as much as you can if you choose this system. You will need to invest in several blankets to make it work well for him or her. Nevertheless, if you are willing to do this, it makes it easier to cool and groom your horse.

Sign-Up For Livestock Compensation Program Ends Dec. 13

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced that sign-up for the Livestock Compensation Program (LCP) for cattle, sheep, goats and buffalo producers will end on Dec. 13.

Sign-up began on Oct. 1 for producers with livestock headquarters operations physically located in counties that have received a Secretarial primary disaster designation for drought between Jan. 1, 2001 and Sept. 19, 2002. A county that had a Secretarial disaster designation request pending for drought as of Sept. 19 and was subsequently approved as a primary county, is also eligible. Counties named as contiguous counties are not eligible for LCP.

Payments are based on standard feed consumption data for each eligible type of livestock. Types of livestock adjusted by these factors and payment rates are:

- Beef Cows — $18/head
- Dairy Cows — $31.50/head
- Stockers — $13.50/head
- Buffalo and Beefalo — $18/head
- Goats — $4.50/head
- Sheep — $4.50/head

As of Nov. 20, applications for LCP benefits have been received from and payments issued to more than 310,000 livestock producers in 41 drought impacted states.

For more information about this program and other drought and weather-related information, visit USDA's Website at http://www.usda.gov.

Farm Show 2003 Exhibitor Spotlight

Exclusive to Lancaster Farming

Marty Campfield of NSIA, Inc. demonstrates a new Pocket PC computer and software used to map fields and keep farming records.

NSIA: Long-Standing Ties To Farm Show

PALMYRA (Lebanon Co.) — The history and rapid growth of Nutrient Solutions In Agriculture, Inc. (NSIA) has strong ties to the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Owner and president Marty Campfield incorporated the business in 1997 after purchasing it from Gro-Mor Plant Food Co., Inc., a longstanding Farm Show exhibitor.

Campfield first joined the Gro-Mor team as an agronomist in 1992 to provide nutrient planning services to the company's clients. While working there, he discovered a software package that allows farmers to make the most of computer technology in managing their crop and livestock operations.

Campfield began to display the computer programs at Gro-Mor's Farm Show exhibit in 1993. As time went on, he found himself focusing on bringing these technologies to an ever-increasing number of ag producers. Today, NSIA, Inc. offers computer hardware, software, global positioning system (GPS) equipment, and onsite training to farmers, growers, and ag businesses in Pennsylvania and the entire Northeast.

Most computer companies have little to offer in the way of ag software and often do not even understand agriculture. But with many of NSIA, Inc.'s employees' backgrounds' firmly rooted in agriculture, he believes his seven-member team offers a unique service.

"Because we know agriculture, we can bring all this technology to today's progressive farmer or ag business in a way they can understand and really use," Campfield said.

Campfield has had a steady presence at the Farm Show, manning booths and representing various companies there since 1981. He said he has watched the Farm Show drift away from its strong focus on production agriculture in recent years, but believes the new exhibit hall, selected farmer days, and the Show's renewed commitment to farmers will reverse that trend.

> "(The Farm Show) was really going downhill. I don't think NSIA, Inc. would be there this year without the changes. It's going to bring a lot of farmers back, so we were one of the very first companies to register for booth space in the new Exhibit Hall."
> — Marty Campfield
> Nutrient Solutions In Agriculture, Inc.

"It was really going downhill," he said. "I don't think NSIA, Inc. would be there this year without the changes. It's going to bring a lot of farmers back, so we were one of the very first companies to register for booth space in the new Exhibit Hall."

NSIA, Inc. is planning to man their booth every day of the show — not just on the three days set aside for farmers.

Overall, Campfield is impressed with the direction of the new show and the dedication of the Farm Show team. "The staff and planning committee have obviously committed themselves to doing an excellent job this year, and we want to be a part of that success," he said.

Preservation Deadline Jan. 10

YORK (York Co.) — The York County Agricultural Land Preservation Board announced that application deadline for farmland preservation consideration is Friday, Jan. 10.

For information about selling your agricultural conservation easement rights, contact the York County Ag Preserve Board for a literature packet and 2003 application.

For landowners who have applied in the past, call for an appointment to review your past application to ensure farm information is current. Call Patty McCandless at (717) 840-7400 to obtain a literature packet or to schedule an appointment to update your past application.

If it works on one thing, it might not work on another.
Roundup, for example. As effective as Roundup® is for soybeans, you should know more before you use it on your corn. Using it every year, weed resistance could become an issue. For some growers it already has. The answer? If you plant RR™ beans, plant non-RR corn hybrids and use a non-glyphosate herbicide with a different mode of action, such as Bicep II MAGNUM.® To get the latest university research on glyphosate weed resistance, visit www.weedresistance.com.

Although at first "the biggest issue was to save our fence," said Herr, the project has provided an educational experience and expanded and improved stream health and fish and animal habitat.

"What started out as a fence-saving thing turned into a fish project," Herr Jr. said.

Herr estimates that the project will be completed in two years.

The Herrs had fenced the heifers out of the stream 15 years ago for herd health reasons, "and we got tired of fixing the fence every time it flooded," said Herr.

Although "anything that helped with the fish was a bonus at the time," the environmental aspect has since proven to be an important part of the project to the Herr family.

Taking advantage of the improved fish and bird habitat, mallards and wood ducks have returned to the stream along with a pair of geese who have nested and raised a brood in the pasture the past several years. Another development is the addition of a pair of beavers joined by two babies this spring.

The project, which began 10 years ago, continues to expand with the help of FFA students willing to provide manual labor and the Pennsylvania Fish and Boat Commission, which has drawn up plans and provided necessary materials.

The area quickly proved useful for studying new stream-saving techniques.

"Back then we didn't know very much, it was a lot of experimentation, but it was a small enough stream that we could manage it," said project coordinator Pat Fasano, project coordinator for the Octoraro Watershed Association, Nottingham.

"We as a watershed association serve as a clearinghouse of information," said Fasano. The organization focuses on educating the public, along with networking or setting up contact information for landowners.

Much of the legwork and coordination came from the Octoraro Watershed Association. The funding came from Pennsylvania's Fish and Boat Commission with Ducks Unlimited also contributing to the project.

What Works Best

"It was like a science project to see which project worked the best," said Herr.

The large "U" curving through the pasture was controlled with a variety of conservation practices.

The first step to stopping the stream's outward movement was the installation of several saw-tooth deflectors. The deflectors — telephone poles and rebars placed in a triangular shape and topped with stones — were placed just before the curve that was inching toward the fence. The poles, which jut into the stream 20 feet, are anchored into the stream bank.

"The deflectors made the stream channel itself out," Herr said. The stream, which used to be 30 feet wide with three inches of water, now flows 15 feet wide with a depth of two feet.

The channeling has not only stopped the creep of the stream but has also built up the opposite side of the bank.

As the silt swirls against the deflectors and slows down near the other side of the bank, topsoil is deposited. Native plants quickly take their place on the newly gathered soil.

The deflectors also create faster-moving water that scatters the silt in the bottom of the stream. This creates a rock bottom and an ideal habitat for fish, besides a place to stand for the cranes, according to Herr.

The steep slope was also graded to create a gentler slope, then lined with rocks.

The first rocks placed into the bank were the size of footballs. However, with the addition of machines, stones as large as boulders have been placed at strategic spots to alter the stream's velocity and course. The Herrs have enough stones to finish lining the stream bank or shore up areas in need of repair already on the farm.

Besides the deflectors, mud sills were installed at the curve. The sills are made up of eight-foot telephone poles dug into the bank. Over top of the poles are oak planks that hold stones. Consequently "when the poles rot out, stones still protect the bank," said Herr. The poles create a four-foot overhang and additional cover for fish.

Since the protective measures were taken, the curve has not made any further progress toward the fence.

FFA students work each summer to help place stones such as these that stabilize the stream bank.

Community Effort

It has been a community effort, said Herr, pointing out the help from the township, which lends backhoes and other large machinery for the heavy work.

Another example of community involvement is the trees "planted" in the stream that came from the nearby fairgrounds. Eighteen-foot trees, complete with roots, were dug into the bank, with the root ball in the middle of the stream, "a new practice to deepen the stream and protect the streambank," said Herr.

Also, FFA students have come to the farm for years to either help shore up the banks by placing rocks or by taking water quality samples as part of class work.

"It has been a great cooperative project between the farmer, watershed association, Fish and Boat Commission, and Solanco FFA," said Fasano.

"Everyone got behind it locally," said Herr. Former FFA students, in fact, still visit the farm to check the stream's progress.

Stewardship

The Herrs have a history of stewardship with their land. A. Dale Herr Sr. was named the Outstanding Cooperator of the Year in 1989 by the Lancaster County Conservation District.

"We're just trying to save what was given to us — trying to make it better than when we got it," said Herr Sr. "I hope the next generation does that much more."

we also had a large amount of people who helped us with visuals to make our theme this year stand out. Other companies and individuals also helped us gain a "picnic look."

On behalf of the Lancaster County Dairy Committee, I just want to say another giant "thank you" to everyone. I cannot express how much it means to us to know that you are willing and able to share your resources with us. May God bless you. Not only do I want to thank everyone who gave up resources, but I also want to thank all the girls who sat through the cold and, sometimes, very long parades. Your enthusiasm for promoting milk made even the longest waits fly by. It has been an honor to have each one of you part of the dairy royalty team.

Last but not least, I want to thank every committee member, parent, and family member who donated their time and talents to make this year's fairs great successes.

Schweiker Administration Announces 34 Farms In 17 Counties Approved For Preservation

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes announced that 34 Pennsylvania farms totaling 3,545 acres in 17 counties were approved for preservation by the Pennsylvania Farmland Preservation Board at its November meeting.

"Other states look to Pennsylvania's farmland preservation initiative as a national model," Hayes said. "As Gov. Schweiker recently announced, we have surpassed our goal of preserving 2,002 farms in 2002. This effort would not be possible without the support of the governor and state lawmakers committed to saving Pennsylvania's farmland."

Hayes noted that the approval of 34 farms with 3,545 acres brings Pennsylvania's total preservation effort for 2002 to a total of 262 farms totaling 29,054 acres.

Since the inception of Pennsylvania's Farmland Preservation program in 1989, Pennsylvania has preserved a total of 2,048 farms covering 244,352 acres. Pennsylvania continues to preserve farmland at a rate faster than any other state in the nation.

The following 14 farms preserved under the State Easement Purchase Program are listed by county, owner, and municipality.

Beaver County:

• William and Mary Swick and Daniel and Megan Nye, Franklin Township.

Berks County:

• Robert and Glenna Lebo, Tulpehocken Township.

• Glenn Z. and Karen C. Musser, Bethel Township.

• Terry L. Ney, Jefferson Township.

Bucks County:

• Matthew G. and Patricia L. Millen, Durham Township.

Cambria County:

• John and Elizabeth Skebeck, Clearfield and Chest townships.

Centre County:

• R. Dane, Melinda S., Dean R. Jr. and Karyn L. Hooper, Potter Township.

Cumberland County:

• Mary Ann Brymesser, Monroe Township.

Dauphin County:

• Wayne and Kimbra Landis, Mifflin and Washington townships.

Lancaster County:

• Alice H. Carter, East Drumore Township.

Luzerne County:

• Jean S. and Jay K. Balliet, Butler Township.

Union County:

• Aaron and Susan Zimmerman, Buffalo Township.

Washington County:

• William and Donna Lowry, Hopewell Township.

Westmoreland County:

• Naomi Costello, Mount Pleasant Township.

Twenty farms totaling 1,612 acres in Chester, Franklin, Lebanon, Lehigh, and York counties were preserved at the November Farmland Preservation Board meeting through the County Easement Purchase Program.

This year Herr-Hope Farms was recognized with the Octoraro Riverkeeper Award presented at the association's banquet at the end of April.

The award is part of two or three given each year at the banquet. A variety of projects are usually recognized, such as an elementary school's wildlife habitat, according to Fasano.

The recognition is "long overdue" said Fasano. Herr Sr. is one of the founders and past president of the Octoraro Watershed Association.

Being conservation-minded began years ago, when A. Dale Sr. and did a lot of custom work. "I'd get around and see how other farms were being contoured and how things were being plowed," he said. "When I got home and had to plow over gutters, I said to my father that we had to do something about this."

Contours, however, were only a first step in changes on the farm. In 1970 Herr put first terrace in, a practice that is continued today, as Herr is working on installing more terraces on the farm.

"I think conservation has come a long way in the last 25 years," he said. "Farmers in the area are really doing a great job. There are a lot of farms around where they're doing a beautiful job doing conservation terraces and no-till fields."

To combat the hilly fields of their area, the Herrs "do as much no-till as we can," said Herr Sr.

Herr Jr., who speaks of "being conscious of our own practices," and "showing the way," is enthusiastic about the management practices put in place on the farm.

Other farm management practices at Herr-Hope Farms include no-till corn and grain fields, plus many pipe outlet terraces, which direct the water into a pipe that trickles underground.

The farm includes almost 300 acres of tillable ground and 50 acres of woods. The Herrs plant more than 100 acres of corn, almost 100 acres of beans, with the balance in wheat, timothy hay, and tobacco, besides 20 acres of pastures that includes a stream. The Herrs pasture bred heifers for their neighbors.

The Herrs have not regretted fencing the heifers out of the stream. "I can't understand why every little stream in Lancaster isn't fenced in," said Herr Jr. "The money is available."

"I knew the time was coming when we would have to keep the cows out of there," said Herr Sr. Since money was not available, the Herrs put the fence in themselves.

"A lot of people that have done it (fenced the cows out) realize that their cows do much better when they're not in the steam," he said.

Fencing animals out, said Scott Reinhart, program biologist for Ducks Unlimited Inc., provides not only better habitat for wildlife but also health benefits to the herd, decreasing mastitis and hoof problems, among other illnesses.

Besides decreasing herd health problems, the plants that begin to grow between the fences are beneficial. "The vegetation serves as a huge grass waterway that slows flooding and helps take out nutrients such as nitrogen and phosphorus," said Reinhart.

Since 1937 Ducks Unlimited Inc. has worked to protect and restore wetland areas. The organization can provide money to assist landowners to restore wetlands.

For example Ducks Unlimited will pay the full cost of fencing and plantings. The landowner is responsible for the cost of installing stabilized crossing or watering access points.

If a producer would like to install other practices such as grass waterways, barnyard curbs, barnyard roofing, or diversions, they can earn cost-share credits (at $1,000 per acre) by installing larger-than-minimum buffers. Minimum size is 15 feet.

Contact Scott Reinhart at (610) 824-2678 for more information.

The west branch of the Octoraro River no longer curves toward the fence, thanks to several stream bank management practices put in place in recent years at Herr-Hope Farms.

LABOR MANAGEMENT
Philip E. Wagner
Extension Agent — Dairy
Franklin County

Many dairy farm businesses have labor needs beyond those supplied by the owner/operator. This labor may be provided by family members, nonfamily employees, or a combination of the two.

Workers differ in their capabilities, work habits, attitudes, personality traits, ambitions, and willingness to accept responsibilities. For these reasons, labor management is a difficult and often neglected job.

However, workers — both family and nonfamily — want and respect a good boss. He can make their work easier, more productive, and more rewarding. A good boss creates a wholesome attitude, a desire to work, and a pleasant but businesslike relationship between himself and his employees.

The purpose of this article is to suggest ways of making hired labor a more profitable investment in your farm business.

• Hire capable, dependable help. The dairy farm business requires people with skill, intelligence, dependability, and willingness to work. To get reliable help, farmers must compete with other employers in the community. Usually, farmers pay lower cash wages than industry, but make up some of the difference by providing housing, farm-produced food, job security, and pleasant working conditions.

Usually, hiring the lowest cost help does not result in the lowest labor cost per unit produced. It is better to hire help in which you have confidence, and through good management make the worker productive and profitable.

• Tell and show workers what to do. Failure to properly instruct an employee is a frequent cause of misunderstanding and often wastes time and materials.

Don't assume that a worker knows how to do a job — be sure. Time spent explaining job assignments means more work accomplished, better quality work, and greater satisfaction for both worker and farm operator.

Recognize that each worker is different. Some are more skilled at certain jobs than others. Some understand and follow instructions better than others.

A good manager explains, and, if necessary, shows workers how jobs are to be done.

• Supervise the work. A good manager helps the worker develop good work habits and methods. He tells workers if the job is not being done satisfactorily, what is wrong with it, and how to correct the mistake. He should also praise workers for a job well done. A pat on the back will improve the worker's attitude and performance.

Philip E. Wagner

Supervision must start when the work starts. Don't waste time by permitting a worker to continue to do unacceptable work. Careful supervision enables you to develop a competent work force.

• Schedule your farm work. Make weekly and daily work schedules. List the jobs to be done. Tell workers about your plans. If the schedule calls for overtime work, let them know ahead of time. If a worker must have time off, it should be worked into the schedule. Impress workers with the importance of getting critical jobs done on time.

Make a list of "odd jobs." It will help keep workers productive during periods when planned work is delayed or between job assignments.

Posting a work schedule and a list of odd jobs is a good idea. If forces you to plan ahead, and it gives workers an idea of what is expected of them.

• Have an understanding about working conditions. Have a clear understanding about working hours, including starting time, quitting time, time for meals, amount of and rate of pay for overtime, days off, and vacation time.

Be sure the wage rate, the payday, and any withholdings from the pay are understood at the time the worker is hired. Have a well-understood policy and enforce it, but make it flexible enough to fit individual situations.

• Set an example for your employees. Workers tend to adapt the habits of their boss. You can expect your employees to have good personal habits and work habits if you set a good example.

Workers resent having all the undesirable jobs to do. They may get careless and lazy if left to work alone for long periods of time. They need supervision, but also they want some responsibility and a word of praise for the success of the farm business.

• Create a feeling of pride in the work. Good quality livestock and well-kept buildings and grounds give workers a sense of pride and personal satisfaction.

Workers want modern machinery that is in good working order. Old, worn equipment means harder work and longer hours. Labor-saving equipment enables the owner to increase labor productivity and attract competent help.

Pay adequate wages. Low wages are frequently given as the reason a worker changes jobs. But behind many wage disputes is dissatisfaction with other things.

• Provide satisfactory housing. When housing is furnished it should enable the worker's family to live comfortably and with dignity. Frequent complaints by the spouse and family of the employee about unsatisfactory living conditions destroy morale and job satisfaction, causing the employee to seek more desirable living and working conditions. It should be understood at the time of employment that the worker is responsible for keeping the home and grounds clean and respectable.

• Be a good boss. In summary, here are some characteristics of a good boss. Check yourself — what kind of a boss are you?

1. Make the work rules clear and positive. Be sure workers understand them. Enforce the rules fairly on all workers, family members included.

2. Teach workers — tell, show, supervise, reward.

3. Be firm, fair, and consistent in dealing with all employees.

4. Praise a job well done.

5. Reprimand if work is not up to standard. Make criticisms constructively.

6. Set an example for your workers, and apply the Golden Rule in managing people.

Md., Pa. Youth Receive Honorable Mention At National Dairy Bowl

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Youth teams from Maryland and Pennsylvania tied for fifth place overall and gained honorable mention in the 4-H Invitational Dairy Bowl Competition conducted here Nov. 8 and 9 during the North American International Livestock Exposition.

Virginia had the top team, with teams from New York, Illinois, and Minnesota placing second through fourth.

Maryland quizzers were Christopher England, Frederick County; Amanda Greene, Howard County; Joseph Stowe, Cecil County; and Tracy Webb, Harford County. April Hall of the University of Maryland Cooperative extension was their coach.

The Pennsylvania team consisted of Lebanon Countians Brad Hoover, Daryl Maulfair, Jared Zimmerman, and Hannah Bomgardner.

Twenty-one teams from across the nation participated in the quiz bowl, which tested the 4-H'ers dairy knowledge in a format similar to the game-show "It's Academic".

National Dairy Shrine Seeks Applicants

COLUMBUS, Ohio — National Dairy Shrine has simplified and shortened its application for the Progressive Dairy Producer (PDA) Award, according to Dr. Chris Woelfel, chairman of the PDA committee.

This revised and shortened application was developed to increase contest participation.

The award was started three years ago to recognize and reward outstanding young dairy producers (21-45 years old) who have introduced and applied effective management and business practices to help achieve a more profitable dairy business. An anonymous selection committee will pick three winners in the following herd size categories: small herd, 150 milking cows or less; mid-size herds, 151-500 milking cows; or large herd, 501 milking cows or more.

The winner in each size category will receive an educational travel award to use out of state in the value of $2,000 ($1,500 at time of the trip and $500 when the evaluation form is submitted after the trip).

For additional information and/or application, visit the Website, www.dairyshrine.org. It will be necessary for you to use Acrobat Reader to download an application. If this isn't possible for you, contact National Dairy Shrine at (614) 878-5333 or e-mail shrine@cobaselect.com. Deadline for applicants is March 15.

LOL Commends PMMB's Pooling Regulation

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — After four years of advocating support for a more fairly distributed Pennsylvania over-order premium system, Land O'Lakes, Inc., commends the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board for issuing a new pooling regulation. If approved, the regulation released Nov. 18 would pool 45 percent of the over-order premium dollars collected on all Class I milk produced, processed and sold in the state among all Pennsylvania dairy producers.

"When the over-order premium was established in 1988, it was intended to alleviate some of the economic burden that producers face in times of low milk prices, adverse weather conditions and poor market conditions," said Dennis Schad, Land O'Lakes director of Mid-Atlantic marketing and regulatory affairs. The board never intended the premium to benefit only a small group of producers, those shipping to Class I markets in Pennsylvania.

Land O'Lakes and other organizations representing dairy producers in the state called for the PMMB to issue a pooling regulation so more farmers in the state would benefit from the premium dollars. The initial regulation was drafted in the spring of 2001. After 18 months of Land O'Lakes members writing, calling and visiting with PMMB board members and state legislators in support of pooling, the final regulation's release is a victory for the farmer-owned cooperative.

"Land O'Lakes supports this new pooling regulation, even though it pools the premium at a lower percentage than we requested, because our members need those pooled premium dollars now more than ever," said Schad, adding that Land O'Lakes represents more than 2,000 dairy producers in Pennsylvania. "With the current drought situation and low milk prices, this regulation will enable the over-order premium to do what it was originally intended to do — ease the financial burden that all Pennsylvania producers face."

The final regulation has been sent to the state House and Senate Ag Committees. The committees will have 20 days in session to approve the regulation. Then it will be sent to the Independent Regulatory Review Commission and, finally, to the Attorney General's office for approval. Implementation is expected sometime between March and May 2003.

Reintroducing a similar bill in the next legislative session in January might not be the best solution for agribusinesses and producers seeking to operate large-scale facilities in the state, according to Van Blarcom.

"The ag community needs a solution to this problem, and it may not be amending the Right to Farm Act," she said.

In the future, supporters of the bill might decide to approach the issue from a local zoning and comprehensive planning viewpoint rather than introducing another state bill, Van Blarcom said.

SB 1413 expired Nov. 27 after an amended version passed the Senate by a vote of 45-3, but stalled in the House before the session adjourned in the wee hours of Thanksgiving morning. The amended version contained "essentially the same language" as SB 1413, but eliminated references to the Right to Farm Act, Van Blarcom said.

At the heart of the bill was language which would allow farmers to be reimbursed for legal fees when bringing lawsuits against townships for ordinances ruled illegal in court.

According to Jayanna Kopp-Yeakle, PFB communications specialist, a new bill similar to SB 1413 will likely be introduced during next year's legislative session.

"Obviously, this issue isn't going to go away," Kopp-Yeakle said. "We're discussing all that happened during this legislative session. We expect a new bill to be introduced."

Brian Snyder, executive director for the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) and SB 1413 opponent, said one of the main reasons he and other PASA members opposed the bill was because it sought to protect large-scale livestock operations by intimidating township officials. 'In our view, the bill was all about intimidation," Snyder said. "Our members are in favor of giving farmers freedom to farm, but are careful of creating rifts. We're not technically against big farms. Our main goal at this point is to promote dialogue that would represent all views of ag.

"One thing everybody would agree on is that we want farmers to have choices," he said.

Snyder pointed out that during the months following SB 1413's introduction, some state representatives learned that not everyone in the ag community was in support of the bill.

"Every representative I talked to over the year said they had no idea that there were farmers in the state who didn't agree with the Farm Bureau's position," he said.

Van Blarcom of PennAg said that SB 1413 supported both small and large farms and would not have taken away local government control.

"There's been a lot of negative and misinformation about SB 1413," Van Blarcom said.

According to Brenda Shambaugh, legislative director for the Pennsylvania State Grange, opportunities in the farming industry have often been limited or prohibited by local governments discriminating against a particular agricultural business.

"The bill was written to help protect our farmers — all farmers," Shambaugh said. "From the small family farm to the larger operators, we must fight to protect our state's most important commodity."

Farmers Eligible For Small Business First Loans

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes announced that for the first time, the Small Business First Loan Program will be available to Pennsylvania farmers to purchase equipment, technology, land, and buildings.

"Our agricultural community must continue to have access to capital in order to compete in today's market," Hayes said. "The Small Business First Loan Program will help stimulate farm enterprises, by providing low-interest loan financing to agriculture."

Loans are available to agricultural production enterprises having 100 or fewer full-time employees. For agricultural enterprises there is no job creation requirement, as for other businesses.

To qualify as an agricultural enterprise, the business must be involved in the management and use of a normal agricultural operation for the production of a farm commodity. Such operations consist of, but are not limited to, the production, harvesting or preparation for market of poultry, livestock and their products (including bee products); agricultural crops; timber; horticultural crops (including flowers, fruits, vegetables and shrubs); and aquaculture operations (including fish and plants grown in water). The farm enterprise must be at least 10 contiguous acres or, if less than 10 contiguous acres, have anticipated yearly gross income of at least $10,000.

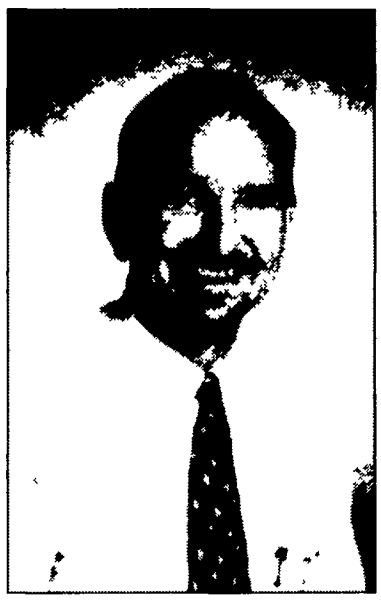
go ahead and fulfill their roles."

He is also looking forward to "making sure that as a whole program we're meeting the needs of the community. I think that's the challenge. We have family and youth components, we have an agriculture component, and all those pieces help to meet the needs.



Jeff Myers

"Also, from program standpoint, I hope to make sure that we're broadly encompassing everything and do it well, to make sure that we're not spreading ourselves too thin in the process."

Another aspect of the position that Myers would like to emphasize is "making sure that as may people in the community know who we are," he said.

"I think extension has always been a challenge in that people look at us because of one aspect of what we are, and don't recognize what all aspects of what we can do in the community."

Agriculture Secretary Announces New Crop Insurance Plan

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes announced that the Pennsylvania agriculture community will have the opportunity to purchase whole-farm revenue protection with the new Adjusted Gross Revenue-Lite (AGR-Lite) insurance program.

"Pennsylvania farmers are faced with increasing market and weather-related risks and need access to a risk-management program that reflects production aspects unique to Pennsylvania," Hayes said. "AGR-Lite reflects Pennsylvania agriculture's unique diversity and has the potential of providing meaningful crop insurance protection for virtually all types of crop and animal production for the vast majority of Pennsylvania farmers."

Pennsylvania farmers for the first time will be able to cover their entire farming operation with one policy.

The plan was developed by the Department of Agriculture and approved as a new insurance product by the USDA Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

"Pennsylvania farmers asked for a whole-farm policy that covered all their production, and we developed one," Hayes said. "This is the first time a state Department of Agriculture ever developed a new insurance product."

Under AGR-Lite, all crops and animal production can be protected with one policy and only one set of historical records. This increased simplicity, compared to other insurance programs, will make it easier for producers to understand and improve their risk-management decisions. The policy is limited to a maximum protection of $100,000 annually. Therefore, the target market will be farms with a five-year average of $200,000 or less of gross farm income.

As part of the recent crop insurance reform movement, the Department of Agriculture seized the opportunity to raise awareness of the need for crop insurance. Before the agency's involvement, national insurance policies were not inviting for Pennsylvania's diverse agriculture.

To help guide the needed changes, Hayes formed a Pennsylvania Crop Insurance Task Force and worked with farmers, agricultural leaders, national insurance companies and the Risk Management Agency to forge a crop insurance program more reflective of Mid-Atlantic cropping systems. AGR-Lite is the result of Pennsylvania's mission to develop a crop insurance program reflective of its crop insurance needs.

AGR-Lite will be made available for producer sign-ups in mid-December with Jan. 31, 2003 as the enrollment deadline. Purchase will be made through crop insurance agents.

Grumbine To Chair Ag Committee

Grumbine also noted that he was elected international vice chairman of the Ag Committee for the IAFE. In 2004, Grumbine noted he will be chairperson of the Ag Committee.

Last year at the event, the Farm Show won in three categories at the convention: overall competitive ag program, overall program for commercial ag exhibitors, and nonevent agriculture program (for All-American Dairy Show).

Grumbine noted that about 5,000 fair and exposition representatives throughout the world attended the convention.

Dairy Organizations Unite To Honor Youth, Adults

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

BAIR (York Co.) — Three York County dairy organizations have teamed up to host a joint honors program, recognizing achievements of youth and adults in the dairy community.

"Celebrating the accomplishments of York County's dairy families" was the theme of the first annual combined dairy banquet and awards program Nov. 22 at the York 4-H Center. Participating were the county's 4-H dairy clubs, the York Holstein club, and the DHIA program.

Special guest of honor was Raechel Kilgore, county dairy princess and reigning Pennsylvania state dairy princess, who offered a milk toast to the industry. In addition to being the county's first state dairy princess, Raechel was recognized for her achievements in the 4-H leadership program and the accomplishments which have earned her the opportunity to participate in the nation's highest 4-H achievement, the annual Congress.

Outstanding 4-H dairy member for the year was Susan Richardson, daughter of Ruth and Charles Richardson, Fawn Grove. Susan, whose award marks her final year in the 4-H program, was not able to attend the honors program. She is a sophomore in dairy studies attending the University of Wisconsin. Susan has also been very active with the Ayrshire association's shows and youth programs through her junior showing career. Selections for the honors were based on entry books, personal interviews, and participation in the programs.

Runners-up for the 4-H outstanding award were Cory Thompson, Wellsville, and Trisha Knight, Airville. Both are longtime youth program members and active with the county's dairy activities, including junior dairy judging team. Cory was first-place individual in reasons at 4-H State Achievement days and Trisha was first high individual in placings. Also recognized for being on the first-place dairy judging team were Josh Miller and Shane Hall.

Each of the county's three dairy clubs honored outstanding individuals in several age groups. In the Central club, Amanda Thompson was the junior age winner; Amy Baumgardner, intermediate winner; Cory Thompson, senior winner; and Cloverbuds awards were presented to Katie Baumgardner and Helen Smith.

Airville's Milk-N-Money club honored Kyle Miller as its junior winner; Trisha Knight, intermediate; Susan Richardson, senior; and Trevy Dehoff, Cloverbud award.

Rookie award winner in the Southwest club was Wren Anderson. Sayde Anderson was named junior honoree; Lydia Eddinger, intermediate; Michael Bosley, senior; and Aaron Doll and Amber Thoman, Cloverbuds.

Two county 4-H'ers were honored as recipients of the Justin LoBianco scholarship, awarded annually to a dairy and/or livestock member for expanding their animal breeding base or knowledge. Two awards were presented this year, to dairy club member Christi Knight and beef club member Beth Baer.

Several junior Holstein members received recognition for production awards on their project animals. In the yearling category, Christi Knight's Woodbine Shark Rebel was named high individual, with a 305-day lactation of 21,528 pounds milk, 691 pounds fat, and 648 pounds protein. Two-year-old winner was Woodbine LM Elissa, owned by Trisha Knight, with a 305-day lactation of 23,642 pounds milk, 693 pounds fat, and 698 pounds protein.

Christ Knight also took 3-year-old honors with Woodbine Rudolph Ellie, completing a 305-day lactation of 28,751 pounds milk, 930 pounds fat and 911 pounds protein. The record also earned Christi her first step toward the National Holstein Association's junior progressive breeder award, presented to a junior member after five breeder-owned animals attain established levels of production and classification. Ellie is classified VG-86.

In the 4-year-old category, the winner was Stormi Greek with Ridge Hill Charles Landa and her 305-day lactation of 38,950 pounds milk, 1,133 pounds fat and 1,101 pounds protein. Shane Hall earned double honors in the 5-year-old division, with a pair of cows high in milk and in fat and protein. Woodbine NBA Shaq was first in milk, completing her 305-day lactation with 24,876 pounds milk, 789 pounds fat and 702 pounds protein. Fat and protein winner was Woodbine Starbuck Eva, in 305-days tallying a lactation of 23,738 pounds milk, 924 pounds fat and 716 pounds protein.

Topping the 5-year-and-over class was Coredale Chairman Toola, owned by Cory Thompson, and finishing her 305-day lactation in 30,481 pounds milk, 1,066 pounds fat and 881 pounds protein.

Three directors were elected to three-year terms on the county Holstein board. They are Bridgette Bortner, Daphne Doll, and Greg Perry.

In the annual DHIA awards presentations for the testing year just completed, the Smyser family's Richlawn Farms swept top herd honors in milk, fat, and protein with a herd average of 27,843 pounds milk, 1,010 pounds fat, and 813 pounds protein. Others in the top five for milk were Rutter's Holstein, 27,086 pounds milk, Earl Fuhrman, 26,888 pounds milk, Walk-Le Holsteins, 26,789 pounds milk, and Leonard Greek, 26,297. In the protein category, Walk-Le Holsteins was second with 809 pounds, Leonard Greek third with 803 pounds, Rutters Holsteins fourth with 801 pounds, and Fuhrman fifth with 785 pounds.

High cow for milk in a 305-day lactation was "Kinsley," a member of the herd of the Earl Fuhrman family, Hanover, with 41,340 pounds of milk production. In the high 305-day protein category, Scott and April Cooper's "Mist" took honors with a record of 1,118 pounds protein.

High 2-year-old Holstein producer was "Bert" in the herd of Leonard Greek, Delta, with a 305-day lactation of 35,737 pounds of milk. High 2-year-old in the colored breed category was "Clancy," a Lineback from the herd of Glen and Dawn Anderson, Glen Rock, finishing her 305-day lactation with 22,305 pounds of milk.

Low somatic cell herd was My-T Farm, owned by the Pomraning family, Delta. Other top herds with low somatic cell averages included Tayacres Farm, 178,000 average; Leaspring Farm, 208,000 average; Glen and Dawn Anderson, 234,000 average; and Wayshar Farm, 248,000 average.

Top five herd management award winners were Earl Fuhrman, 103 points; Rutters Holsteins, 97 points; Smysers Richlawn Farm, 89 points; Leonard Greek, 89 points; and Wayne Myers, 83 points.

An auction of dairy-related crafts and items wrapped up the annual banquet, with proceeds of $965 donated to the exhibit arena under construction at the 4-H center.

Recipients of the Justin LoBianco scholarship were York 4-H'ers Christi Knight and Beth Baer, center left and right. Presentation of the cash scholarships, awarded annually in memory of the young man killed in a farm accident, were made by his father, Rick LoBianco, and his grandmother, Gilda Stitely.

Honored for outstanding achievement in the Southwest dairy club were Amber Thoman and Aaron Doll, front; rear, Michael Bosley and Lydia Eddinger.

Cory Thompson and Tricia Knight were named runners- up for the county's outstanding 4-H dairy member award. Winner Susan Richardson was absent because she is pursuing dairy studies at the University of Wisconsin.

Recognized for top milk production honors in York County's DHIA program were the herds of Scott and April Cooper, represented by April Cooper, and Smyser's Richlawn Farm, represented by Brian Smyser.

Lebanon County 4-H Dairy Banquet Honors Members

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The annual Lebanon County 4-H Dairy Banquet was conducted Nov. 15 at the Midway Church of the Brethren, with approximately 135 attending.

Jared Zimmerman served as the master of ceremonies with Audrey Hoover and Derek Hostetter leading the group in the pledge of allegiance and the 4-H pledge. Mark Balmer gave the invocation.

The introduction of guests and sponsors was completed by Jessica Rose and Laura Blauch. Blauch, Lebanon County dairy princess, gave a speech about the dairy industry in Pennsylvania and thanked the group for their support. Jared Zimmerman recognized all the leaders from the four 4-H dairy clubs in the county. Janelle Arnold, Cedar Crest Dairy Club; Kelly Horning, Elco Dairy Club; Jessica Bross, Norlebco Dairy Club; and Janelle Zimmerman, NoSoAnn Dairy Club completed recognition of members.

Outstanding member awards were:

• Rookie of the Year: Royell Bashore, Norlebco Dairy Club; Becky Wenger, Cedar Crest Dairy Club; and Jesse Hostetter, NoSoAnn Dairy Club.

• Outstanding Level I: David Maulfair, Norlebco Dairy Club; Kelly Reist, Cedar Crest Dairy Club; Ethan Himmelberger, NoSoAnn Dairy Club; and Chad Horst, Elco Dairy Club.

• Outstanding Level II: Kole Reist, Cedar Crest Dairy Club; Jessica Rose, NoSoAnn Dairy Club; Jessica Bross, Norlebco Dairy Club; and Chelsea Horst, Elco Dairy Club.

Hoard's Dairyman Contest: Micah Heagy, NoSoAnn Dairy Club.

Alan Hostetter gave comments on the dairy judging team and Galen Kopp congratulated the Lebanon County 4-H dairy quiz bowl team for placing fifth out of 22 teams in Louisville, Ky. at the National Competition in early November.

Cornell Program Strengthens Northeast Sheep/Goat Industries

ITHACA, N.Y. — The Northeast Sheep and Goat Marketing Program at Cornell University was established in January 2001 to improve the marketing infrastructure for sheep and goats in the 12 northeastern states: Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, and West Virginia. The program is funded by the Lamb Meat Adjustment Assistance Program, which resulted from legal actions taken by the American Sheep Industry Association to limit cheap lamb imports to the U.S.

Bob Melchior was highly effective in the marketing coordinator position for the program until his unexpected death in early August.

To continue to serve producers in the Northeast and fulfill the obligations of the grant, Cornell University elected to fill the marketing coordinator position. Susan Schoenian, a University of Maryland (small ruminant) Extension Agent and sheep and goat producer assumed 50 percent of the responsibilities of the position and concentrates her efforts in the southern half of the 12-state region.

Chris Parsons, a goat producer and custom processor from Pine City, N.Y., performs 50 percent of the duties and focuses his efforts on the northern half of the region. Susan can be reached at (301) 432-2767 ext. 343 or ss80@umail.umd.edu. Chris can be reached at (607) 732-4987 or cgparsons@prodigy.net.

The Northeast Sheep and Goat Marketing Program has accomplished many of its stated objectives. Regional Marketing Summits were held in the northern, middle, and southern parts of the region at the beginning of the granting period to publicize the program and get feedback on methods to improve marketing infrastructure in our region.

Program staff and an advisory board with representatives from each of the 12 states have implemented several pilot marketing projects. Graded tele-auctions have been organized at various locations in New York State.

A successful marketing pool has been established whereby a group of a half dozen producers, representing 1,200 ewes on accelerated lambing programs, is supplying 10 to 20 "premium quality" lambs per week to a retail market in New York City.

A marketing pool to sell animals direct to New York City live animal markets will undergo its trial run for the Thanksgiving holiday season.

Development of a Kosher/Halal kill floor for small and medium sized plants has also been a goal. A safer slaughter knife for Halal slaughter successfully underwent testing at several sites and a "humane" restraining system for ritual slaughter (Kosher and Halal) was also successfully tested at a plant in southeastern Pennsylvania.

One of the primary accomplishments of the Northeast Sheep and Goat Marketing Program is the establishment of a sheep and goat marketing Website at www.sheepgoatmarketing.org.

The site includes program information, news, links, calendar of events, links to regional auction prices, an ethnic calendar, articles on marketing, and a directory of producers, feeders, dealers, buyers, sellers, auction houses, retailers, wholesalers, and processors.

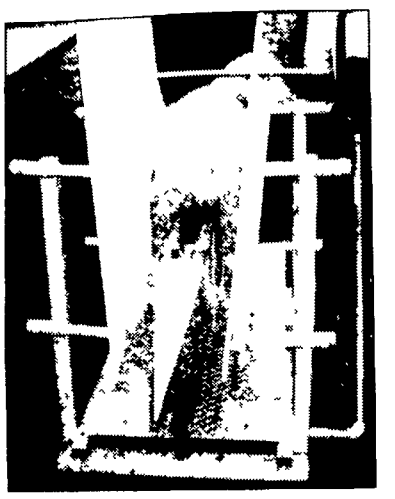
The grant providing funding for the Northeast Sheep and Goat Marketing Program will expire on January 21, 2003. Regional Marketing Summits are planned in Fall'02/Winter'03 to determine how the program can continue to serve producers in the Northeast region and discuss the formation of a Northeast Sheep and Goat Marketing Association.

Additional funding is being sought to continue funding for a marketing coordinator. Producers can help extend the efforts of the program by participating in the Regional Marketing Summits, by adding their names to the program mailing list, and by providing input to Cornell University, Susan and Chris, and/or the advisory board, all of which have contacts on the Website.

The dates and locations for the Regional Marketing Summits are as follows:

- Saturday, Dec. 14, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Chichester, New Hampshire, Town Hall. For more information contact Bruce Clement at bruce.clement@unh.edu or Mike Thonney at (607) 255-2851 or mlt2@cornell.edu.
- Friday, Jan. 10, 2003 at Harrisonburg, Virginia in conjunction with the Virginia North Carolina (Mid Atlantic) Shepherd's Symposium. The marketing summit will consist of a marketing panel followed by an open discussion with the NESGMP as the focal point. Both sheep and goat producers are urged to attend. For more info contact Susan Schoenian at (301)432-2767 ext. 343 or ss80@umail.edu.
- Saturday, Jan. 18, 2003 at the Cornell Sheep Farm, Harford, New York in conjunction with the Quinterly Cornell Sheep Farm Field Day. Both sheep and goat producers welcomed. For more info contact Dr. Michael Thonney at (607)255-2851 or mlt2@cornell.edu.

For more information about the Northeast Sheep and Goat Marketing Program contact Dr. Michael Thonney, Cornell Animal Sciences Department, (607)255-2851 or visit the Website at www.sheepgoatmarketing.org. Additional information about sheep, goats and many other topics can be found at Cornell's Small Farms Program Website: www.smallfarms.cornell.edu.



The Halal/Kosher restraining device developed by the Northeast Sheep and Goat Marketing Project. Note that the feet of the lamb are off the ground and the lamb is supported by the double rails and the sides of the chute. Animals held in this manner remain very calm.

SPOTLIGHT ON FAMILIES IN ANNUAL FARM SHOW ISSUE

The new and expanded Farm Show opens to the public on Saturday, Jan. 11. And one of our largest, and best issues, is soon to hit mailboxes. The Jan. 11 issue will be Lancaster Farming's own Farm Show Issue, which highlights the newly expanded, largest indoor agricultural event in the country. Included that issue: Farm Show family highlights, Keystone Degree recipient biographies, events schedule, and maps. It's a brand-new Farm Show this year. We hope to see you there!

Agway Announces Sale Of Agronomy, Seedway Businesses To Growmark

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Agway Inc. announced the completion of the sale of its agronomy and seedway businesses to Growmark, Inc., a Bloomington, Ill.-based agricultural cooperative.

The transaction includes Agway's stock interest in CF Industries, a fertilizer manufacturing cooperative, and Allied Seed LLC. The sale was approved on Nov. 13 by the U. S. Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of New York in Utica, N.Y.

Agway reported that the transaction resulted in proceeds to Agway of $57 million at closing and is valued at up to $80 million. The total transaction value includes an estimated $40 million in notes and outstanding accounts receivable payable to Agway under terms specified in the sale agreement.

As part of the agreement, Growmark assumes control of substantially all of Agway's currently operating retail fertilizer facilities, wholesale fertilizer terminals, and seed plants. These facilities are predominantly located in Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, and Ohio.

Pa. Vegetable Production Up

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Contracted production for Pennsylvania processing sweet corn in 2002 is estimated at 6,750 tons, up 38 percent from last year's 4,880 tons, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service.

This increase is due to harvested acres increasing from 650 last year to 1,500 acres. Expected yield is 4.50 tons per acre, down from last year's yield of 7.51 tons.

Contracted production for Pennsylvania snap beans in 2002 is estimated at 9,180 tons, compared to 22,690 tons in 2001. Area for harvest is estimated at 3,600 acres, down from 7,900 harvested acres in 2001. Expected yield is 2.55 tons per acre, down from last year's yield of 2.87 tons per acre.

United States' sweet corn processing plants expect to take in 3.06 million tons, down three percent from last year Area for harvest, at 428,800 acres, is down four percent from 2001. The average yield is projected at 7.12 tons per acre, up from last year's yield of 7 04 tons per acre.

Tomato canning contracts call for 11.2 million tons of tomatoes this year, up 23 percent from last year. Area for harvest, at 304,900 acres, is up 11 percent from last year. The average yield is 36.87 tons per acre, a 10 percent increase from last year's yield.

Snap beans contracted production totaled 739,270 tons, up 13 percent from last year's comparable States. Area for harvest, at 192,300 acres, is down less than one percent from last year. The average yield is expected to be 3.84 tons per acre, eight percent above last year's yield of 3 56.

National Junior Hereford Association Elects New Leadership

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Members of the National Junior Hereford Association (NJHA) assembled in Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 25-27 to celebrate "The Places You'll Go" during the 2002 PRIDE Convention.

PRIDE, the "Program for Reaching Individuals Determined to Excel" featured the NJHA annual meeting and election of officers. Other weekend highlights included leadership seminars, junior contests and an awards banquet recognizing outstanding juniors and state organizations.

During the event, the NJHA conducted their annual business meeting and director elections. The five newly-elected directors will serve three-year terms and include: Emilie Miller, Womelsdorf, Pa.; Andy Mrnak, Bowman, N.D.; Cameron Price, Opelika, Ala.; Kyle Perez, Nara Visa, N.M.; and Kristi Bishop, Basehor, Kan. Shellie Moore, Modoc, Kan., will lead the organization as the 2002-2003 president.

The National Association of Farm Broadcasters at their annual meeting in Kansas City, Mo. honored Ed Slusarczyk, Ag Radio Network farm broadcaster, by entering his name and a permanent plaque into the Farm Broadcasters Hall of Fame in Bonner Springs, Kansas.

He launched the Ag Radio Network in 1976. He started with 11 stations and built it to 55 in two months. The network has now grown to 136 stations with reports heard all over New York, New England, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware.

PMMB Lowers Over-Order Premium

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Dairy farmers face further milk price declines because of a decision by the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB) to lower the price they receive for milk, the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB) predicted recently.

The PMMB has announced that they will lower the over-order premium, from $1.65 to $1.25 per hundred pounds of milk, over a six-month period beginning Jan. 1, 2003.

The over-order premium is paid to dairy producers for Class I (fluid) milk that produced, processed, and sold in Pennsylvania.

"We're surprised and disappointed with the Board's decision," said Joel Rotz, PFB's dairy specialist.

"The PMMB's decision comes at a difficult time for our dairy producers because milk prices haven't been this low this long since 1979. Farmers are also struggling with the effects of a summer drought, which means higher production costs this winter," Rotz said. "We may need to have the Milk Marketing Board revisit the issue in the future."

Rotz said, "Pennsylvania Farm Bureau believes the decrease is unwarranted and sends the wrong signal to our dairy producers, whose exasperation level is already high. Even the State's Association of Milk Dealers supported the continuation of $1.65."

Angus Foundation To Sponsor NCBA Young Cattlemen's Conference Participant

ST. JOSEPH, MO. — The Angus Foundation will sponsor one Angus breeder to participate in the National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA) 2003 Young Cattlemen's Conference (YCC), which is an industry-wide program that develops young leaders for the beef business.

"We're excited to extend this opportunity to one of our Angus breeders," says Abbie Nelson, Wilton, Calif., chairman of the Angus Foundation board of directors.

The purpose of the YCC program is to develop leadership qualities in young cattlemen and expose them to all aspects of the beef industry. The tour, which begins in Denver and proceeds across the country to Washington, D.C., helps young leaders understand all areas of the beef business, ranging from industry structure to issues management and from production research to marketing. The program is limited to a small number of producers each year and all participants must be nominated by one of NCBA's affiliate organizations.

"We hope our participation in this program will encourage Angus breeders to become more active in not only their state cattlemen's organization and the NCBA, but also their local and state Angus associations," says Nelson.

The Angus representative for the program will be chosen by an appointed committee and selections will be made by an application process. All applicants must be between 25 and 45 years of age, an active member of the NCBA and an active member in good standing of the American Angus Association. Expenses, including travel to and from the event and registration costs for the program, will be covered by the Angus Foundation.

Applications are available from the American Angus Association and must be submitted by January 1, 2003.

For more information, contact James Fisher, director of activities and junior activities for the Association, at (816) 383-5100 or jfisher@angus.org.

Insurance Seminar Dec. 11

YORK (York Co.) — All growers (fruit, vegetable, and field crop) are welcome to attend a free crop insurance seminar on Dec. 11, 1 p.m.-3 p.m., at the York extension office.

AGR insures the revenue for your entire farm rather than individual crops by guaranteeing a percentage of average gross farm revenue (AGR-Lite product is subject to limitations), including a small amount of livestock revenue. A crop insurance specialist from Rain and Hail Insurance Company will conduct the seminar.

Also, Rita McMullen, agent with Stine, Davis, and Peck Insurance will be available to answer your questions on the local level.

This is a timely meeting. Sales deadline for AGR is Jan. 31, 2003.

There is no cost to attend. However, if you plan to attend the seminar, call the Penn State Cooperative Extension office at (717) 840-7408 by Dec. 10.

Bird Control Workshop Dec. 10

WELLSBORO (Tioga Co.) — Speakers for the Bradford/Potter/Tioga Bird Control Workshop Dec. 10 are Jason Sucko, USDA Wildlife services and J. Craig Williams, Penn State Cooperative Extension.

Birds can be a disease carrier and a feed spoilage problem on many dairy farms. Jason Sucko and J. Craig Williams will cover bird control techniques, trapping and baiting options, and effective methods and their costs.

Two workshop locations are 10 a.m.-11:30 a.m., meet in Potter County, Ulysses at Rick VanEtten Farm, and 1 p.m.-2:30 p.m., meet in Bradford County, Troy, Ron Kline Dairy Farm.

Call the Tioga County extension office to register for this workshop at (570) 724-9120. Both workshops will be held outside — dress accordingly.

House, Senate Pass Water Resources Planning Act

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The House joined the Senate recently to send the bipartisan Water Resources Planning Act to Gov. Mark Schweiker's desk, ending a more than 20-year effort to adopt water resources legislation in Pennsylvania.

"For three decades, Pennsylvania has relied on a water plan that provided little or no help in battling drought conditions," said Schweiker. "By their overwhelming bi-partisan approval, members of the General Assembly have joined this Administration to ensure that Pennsylvania will no longer sit back and wait for the next drought to occur."

Votes in the House, 140 to 56, and the Senate, 43 to 6, showed strong support from not only both parties, but from all parts of Pennsylvania. A broad coalition of watershed, conservation district, local government, farm and business groups supported the legislation, marking the first time groups like these worked together on a water resources bill.

"This legislation will allow the commonwealth to measure how much water we're using and where water resources are in jeopardy. Those are tools we must have in order to protect one of our most important natural resources," said Schweiker.

"Passage of this Act is a real milestone in Pennsylvania's environmental history and shows we listened to what people told us in the 15 Water Forums we held all over the state last year," said DEP Secretary David E. Hess. "This is a major victory for those of us who really care about water resources."

The Act requires DEP to develop a new State Water Plan over the next five years working with both regional and statewide water resources advisory committees whose membership includes environmental, local government, technical and water user interests.

The plan will help answer three basic questions: How much water do we have, how is the water being used, and where will the demand for water outstrip the supply.

The Act, contained in House Bill 2302, specifically preserves the existing authority of DEP and local governments to regulate water resources and protects DEP's ability to control water pollution under the Clean Streams Law.

For more information on the bipartisan Water Resources Planning Act, visit www.dep.state.pa.us (directLINK "water resources").

UNCOVERING FAMILY MEMBER'S FEELINGS

The process of family farm succession is about family, people, relationships, ownership, management, and what is equitable. It is driven by your family's values, wants, and concerns.

To actively engage your family in this process, you need to begin by exploring each member's expectations for the farm. You want to know: What does the family farm mean to you? What do you expect to happen to the farm? What are your hopes and dreams for the future of the farm? What do you want from the farm business? What are your expectations regarding ownership and management of the farm?

You can begin this process by scheduling family meetings to discuss each member's wants, needs, and expectations for the farm. These discussions will reduce assumptions and guesswork and thus potential problems. For example, I have observed family meetings that revealed previous assumptions as to who would take over the farm were misplaced on one child, when in actuality another child wanted the opportunity.

It's easy to make assumptions. Dad may assume that everyone knows he's going to quit someday and pass the farm along. He may assume that knowing that is enough to satisfy everyone and that how and under what conditions doesn't really matter. The son may assume that the farm may be his someday but is fearful of asking when it will happen. Everyone may assume that the daughter-in-law should have no input even though she may be a key player in the smooth functioning of the farm. And the daughter that left the farm 10 years ago may still have a keen interest in the farm, even though everyone may assume she doesn't.

By exploring expectations from the outset, we can increase cooperation and efficiency among family members in putting a plan together, increase overall family satisfaction, and reduce conflict. All family members need to be considered. Only if everyone is involved can we uncover family member's feelings and bring forward all of the expectations. To avoid hard feelings and conflicts that can last a lifetime, it is essential to consider every family member, listen to them, and involve them in the process.

To get you started, have each family member write down in private their wants, needs, and fears for the farm, including the above-listed questions. Then meet and share your answers, giving each person a chance to speak without comment from others. It will not be easy, but in the long run getting people to express their feelings and expectations will help you establish your succession planning on sound footing. Once you know family members' expectations it will help you determine the options that need to be put in place to address the needs of your family.

For more information on family farm succession planning, call the Pennsylvania Farm Link office at (717) 664-7077 or attend our Passing on the Farm workshop Dec. 17 at the Lycoming County Extension Office or on Jan. 22 at the Sunset West Restaurant in Pleasant Gap.

Junior Holstein Convention Feb. 7-9

The theme this year is "Holsteins are Key in 2003."

Friday, Feb. 7 activities will include the prepared Public Speaking Contest, the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association, along with a mixer complete with dancing and a few special surprises and activities. There will also be plenty of food and drink for everyone to enjoy while they renew old acquaintances and meet some new friends.

Saturday is packed full of contests and activities that begin with Dairy Bowl and extemporaneous speech contests. Juniors are encouraged to get their entries in for both of these state contests. There will be an opportunity to ski for the day or snow tube in the morning or afternoon at the Blue Mountain Ski Resort. The convention hosts also have tours set up to the Discovery Science Center and the Crayola Crayon Factory, both local highlights in the area. Watch for more information on these activities.

On Saturday evening a buffet dinner will be served followed by the winners of the prepared speech contest delivering their winning speeches for all to hear and enjoy. Following the meal and speeches a dance and again some special surprises will be enjoyed by all.

Sunday morning will conclude with the awards breakfast, where many juniors will be recognized for their achievements over the past year.

There will be a well-stocked dairy bar along with commercial exhibitors who are available to share their industry knowledge with the juniors. There will also be the photo contest, display contest, and plenty of opportunity to visit with your friends from across the state.

Make sure to get your hotel and ticket order information in by Jan. 15.

Organic Vegetable Systems From Seed To Market Workshop Set

BALLSTON SPA, N.Y. — The Regional Farm & Food Project (RFFP) is offering a workshop called Organic Vegetable Systems from Seed to Market, scheduled to take place in this Saratoga County, N.Y. town from Jan. 31 to Feb. 2.

The workshop will feature the teaching and shared experiences of three fulltime organic farmers: Dave Colson of New Leaf Farm, Durham, Maine; David Hambleton of Sisters Hill Farm, Stanfordville, N.Y.; and David Marchant of River Berry Farm, Fairfax, Vt.

Topics will be of value to newer farmers developing whole farm practices as well as experienced growers seeking to refine and improve aspects of their operations. Topics will include soil, weed, and pest management, starting and transplanting, cover cropping, harvest systems, post-harvest handling, marketing, and finances.

Winter Dairy Grazing Conferences Set

ITHACA, N.Y. — There will be a series of grazing conferences for dairy farmers around New York State the week of Jan. 13-18.

These conferences will feature Larry Shearer, a dairy farmer from western Massachusetts, and Dave Surprenant, a dairy farmer from Illinois, as keynote speakers.

Larry Shearer transformed his small dairy farm from confinement to pasture-based and then to seasonal calving and found that each step resulted in improved profitability and way of life. Dave Surprenant, a regular adviser to the Graze newspaper, farms in the midst of corn and soybean country, yet has found grazing to be a key component to his successful farm. He has also begun experimenting with irrigating his pastures. Both will share how their farms have changed and how grazing has helped get their farms to where they are now.

In addition to the two keynote addresses, there will be talks and/or panel discussions designed by farmers that address issues of local concern at each of the individual conference sites. The conferences will take place Jan. 13 in Delhi, Jan. 14 in Cobleskill, Jan. 15 in Cortland, Jan. 16 in Belfast, Jan. 17 in Carthage, and Jan. 18 in Clinton County.

There will be a modest charge to cover the cost of lunch and conference materials. These conferences are made possible by the Cornell Small Farms program, the New York State Grazing Lands Conservation Initiative, and the New York Pasture Association. For more information, call Dan Demaine at (607) 753 5213.

Dan Demaine is a grazing specialist with the South Central New York Cornell Cooperative Extension Area Dairy Team, serving Cortland, Chemung, Tioga, Tompkins, and Schuyler counties.

For more information about the Cornell Small Farms Program, contact R. David Smith, (607) 255-7286, or visit the Website at: www.smallfarms.cornell.edu.

THIS WEEK	1899	1504
LAST WEEK	2015	1417
LAST YEAR	2325	1738

Compared to last week, slaughter steers sold steady to weak early with closing prices as much as 1 00 higher Steer receipts failed to break 200 head the first two days of the week, however Thursday receipts were well over 500 head The opening day of deer season was partly to blame for the light early week receipts, although this time of year historically means lower numbers as old crop supplies are about cleaned up A major snowstorm moved into Lancaster County on Thursday morning, dumping several inches by late afternoon, and even though the snow was piled high local producers forged their way into town to get in on the current hot market On the good late week run, bidding was fairly active even though cattle were relatively full Despite the weigh-ups buyers are still actively procuring steers as supplies are expected to get light this winter Light numbers, combined with a 73 00 direct market last week out west, and live cattle contracts at the CME moving above 79 00 Thursday, one could easily say its lined up to be a wild winter The fed Holstein and heifer supply this week was very light, and a trend was not established, although the heifer and Holstein supply did included some well finished stock Slaughter cows were strapped onto a roller coaster this week, although once the dust settled prices trended weak to 2 00 lower There was a little fire under the cow market on Tuesday, but was quickly extinguished by the heavy snow on Thursday Slaughter bulls sold as much as 3 00 lower to open the trading week, however trended sharply higher late in the week on a run that included over 90 head This week's reported supply included 35 percent steers, 8 percent heifers, 43 percent cows, 7 percent bulls, with the balance feeders SLAUGHTER STEERS High Choice and Prime 2-4 1270-1480 lbs 74 00-77 00 Choice 2-3 1125-1490 lbs 71 75-74 75, full 69 75-73 75, high dressing Charolais-X 74 50-76 50, Yield Grade 4-5 68 00-70 75, heavyweights 1505-1575 lbs 66 00-71 00 early in the week Select and low Choice 2-3 1150-1465 lbs 70 25- 72 75 Select 1-3 1045-1430 lbs 68 75-71 25, with a few going back on feed 70 00-73 50

CALVES Compared to last week veal calves sold about steady Holstein bull calves returning to feed kicked off the week 10 00 higher, then hit a glitch on Tuesday as they trended sharply lower However on a very light run late in the week prices trended sharply higher Bids did exceed 150 00 for bulls this week, as buyers are actively trying to fill their immediate needs Holstein heifer receipts were light for the second consecutive week, although trended with a higher undertone early, with the snowstorm late taking its effect on heifer numbers Even though receipts were hampered on all classes late in the week, there were still plenty of calves around early as Tuesday's supply included nearly 1000 head VEALERS Standard and Good 90-115 lbs 30 00-35 00, few up to 40 00 Utility 45-95 lbs 15 00-25 00, weaker 10 00-15 00 CALVES RETURNING TO THE FARM

Farmers' Market Manager Training Workshop Jan. 27-28

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. — In a recent survey of New York State's farmers' markets, it was shown that a strong market manager is considered a key ingredient to a successful farmers' market. A strong market manager will possess the leadership, communication, and "people" skills necessary to make a market run smoothly, cooperatively and efficiently, enhancing the market as a community asset for both farmers and consumers.

The Farmers' Market Federation of New York provides a support structure for the growth and promotion of farmers' markets in New York State. Part of their mission is to develop and implement training for farmers' market developers, market management and market sponsors.

This winter the Farmers' Market Federation will be conducting a two-day workshop to assist market managers, sponsors, and developers to plan for and grow successful community farmers' markets. The seminars will be Jan. 27-28 at the Sheraton Saratoga Springs in conjunction with the 2003 New York State Farmers' Direct Marketing Conference.

The workshop features Vance Corum, a nationally recognized farmers' market specialist and consultant. Corum will bring his knowledge of market management to help market managers and sponsors to understand their role in the farmers' markets and how their management can build the success of the market for the farmers and for the community. He'll cover the duties of the market manager, the importance of vendor mix and recruitment strategies and how to deal with uncooperative vendors at the market.

For more information and registration, call the Farmers' Market Federation of New York at (315) 475-1101 or e-mail to diane99@dreamscape.com.

Nov. 1 Cattle On Feed 9 Percent Below Year Ago

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market in the U.S. for feedlots with capacity of 1,000 or more head totaled 10.7 million head on Nov. 1, 2002. The inventory was 9 percent below both Nov. 1, 2001 and Nov. 1, 2000, according to the National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS).

Placements in feedlots during October totaled 2.39 million, 12 percent below 2001 and 16 percent below 2000. Net placements were 2.30 million.

During October, placements of cattle and calves weighing less than 600 pounds were 809,000, 600-699 pounds were 638,000, 700-799 pounds were 521,000, and 800 pounds and greater were 420,000.

Marketings of fed cattle during October totaled 1.98 million, 4 percent above 2001 and 3 percent above 2000.

Penn State Grape Research Center In Erie County Marks 50 Years

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — 1952 was a leap year. The Korean War was raging, the New York Yankees beat the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series, Dwight Eisenhower was elected president, birth control pills were introduced, and the first hydrogen bomb was detonated.

Many Pennsylvanians might have missed the small headlines that announced Penn State's purchase of land and facilities for $1 from local grape growers for the Erie County Agricultural Experimental Station, 15 miles east of Erie along the shore of Lake Erie. But it was an important development for the state's grape industry all the same. Over the years, grape and other fruit research at the station has resulted in many significant findings and improved growing practices.

The 43-acre facility, under the direction of manager John Griggs, will hold a modest ceremony and field day Aug. 3 to mark its anniversary. Now called the Lake Erie Regional Grape Research and Extension Center, it conducts research on grapes under conditions similar to those on farms where the research results might be applied.

The field laboratory is part of the research division of Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. In addition to providing site-specific conditions for research, the facility increases opportunities for growers, consumers and students to observe experiments and to consult with scientists. Extension specialists apply experimental findings to local conditions and, in turn, make suggestions to scientists about new research needs.

Penn State research involvement in Erie County dates back to 1918, when a field laboratory was established at Girard to study onions and potatoes. In 1937, the Erie County Horticultural Society established a field laboratory in North East to continue fruit research on private lands in the county.

Nine years later, an organization of fruit growers known as the Erie County Agricultural Research Corporation purchased 20 acres of land, and on July 28, 1948, the Erie County Field Research Laboratory was opened. The lab, which provided an area for conducting fruit research, was purchased by Penn State four years later.

Because of its proximity to Lake Erie, Erie County enjoys climatic and geographical features favorable to fruit production. Although livestock and other crops also are produced there, the fruit industry is perhaps the region's most prominent agricultural asset. Erie County is the primary producer of grapes in Pennsylvania. Local grape crops are sold as fresh fruit in season and are processed as juices, jellies, jams and wines.

Some of the research highlights of the Lake Erie Regional Grape Research and Extension Center include:

- A long-term study showing that when organic matter in the soil is properly maintained, Concord grapevines need little or no fertilizer.
- The Single Curtain Cordon training system for Concord grapes.
- Bench-grafting studies with numerous rootstocks and several vinifera cultivars that have increased the percentage of grafting success from less than 20 percent to more than 70 percent. The field laboratory was instrumental in introducing the Penn Concord strain.
- Entomological studies on grapes that have focused on the biology and importance of the grape berry moth, grape leafhopper, grape cane girdler, rose chafer, Japanese beetle, redbanded leafroller, grape erineum mite and European red mite. Chemical controls were developed and incorporated into an effective spray program for control of these pests.
- In-depth studies into the biology and life cycle patterns of the eastern grape berry moth that yielded controls of this primary grape pest.
- Studies are under way that focus on the resistance of the grape berry moth to the insecticide Carbaryl.
- Disease management studies.
- Trials on the effects of compost applications to vineyard floors.
- Surveys to monitor the grapevine decline occurring in some areas of Pennsylvania and New York.
- Development of an expert system for grape culture (called VITIS) that can be accessed by a grower or extension agent via personal computer to obtain information on standard cultural practices or to assist in solving a special problem.
- Studies on the grape cane gallmaker to determine its biology and impact on Concord grapes. A statewide survey of grape root borer distribution and seasonality is being conducted because this insect may pose a substantial threat to developing viticultural areas in southeastern Pennsylvania.
- Experiments to control the eastern grape leafhopper and grape berry moth are in progress on Concord grapes.

The Value of Deadwood
Rance Scott Harmon
Penn State
Forest Resources Extension

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Most of us recognize the importance of living trees: they provide wildlife habitat, oxygen, timber, beauty, and many other assets. However, a common belief is that when a tree's vigor deteriorates, so does its ability to provide benefits. In fact, my American Heritage Dictionary defines deadwood as "anything burdensome or superfluous" — certainly not the qualities of something a landowner would want to have around.

However, dead and deteriorating trees are actually vital elements of healthy forests; they release nutrients, prevent erosion, store moisture, protect seedlings, and supply food and shelter for wildlife. Despite their importance, the number of dead and dying trees in many forest lands has declined due to timber salvaging, fire prevention, firewood cutting, and worker safety regulations. Good forest stewardship, then, requires us to consider both living trees and deadwood as vital, interacting components of the forest ecosystem that we can manage to meet sustainable forestry objectives.

As a tree's health deteriorates, it begins to lose the battle against invading organisms and the wood becomes weaker and softer — ideal for the work of cavity excavators such as woodpeckers. Many wildlife species use tree cavities for sanctuary against predators, extreme temperatures, and unfavorable weather conditions; and for nesting and brooding. Cavity nesters play a significant role in forest ecosystems by preying on harmful insects and helping to disperse seeds. Wood ducks, bluebirds, woodpeckers, owls, chickadees, squirrels, raccoons, bats, and mice are among the 35 species of birds and 20 species of mammals that use tree cavities in Pennsylvania.

Standing dead trees (snags) not only provide cavities but also are favorite perching sites for flycatchers, hawks, and owls. Along the water's edge, snags are excellent places to find perching kingfishers, ospreys, and bald eagles. Nuthatches and some bats and salamanders use spaces between loose bark and tree trunks for roosting. Woodpeckers and grouse produce audible reminders of the importance of deadwood for wildlife by using the resonant qualities of deadwood for drumming — a communication technique used to indicate territorial boundaries and attract mates.

Dead trees retain their ability to benefit wildlife and contribute to forest health even after they fall to the ground. Downed, decaying wood provides cover, foraging habitat, and egg laying sites for salamanders; and secure winter travel corridors and thermal protection for small mammals and mustelids, such as weasels. Twenty-three species of amphibians and reptiles take refuge in decaying wood in the northeastern United States, including box turtles, salamanders, and snakes.

By providing habitat and nutrition for organisms such as fungi, centipedes, beetles, and ants — which, in turn, provide food for larger animals such as skunks, bears, and woodpeckers — deadwood plays a key role in forest food webs. Besides directly benefiting wildlife, deadwood plays an important role in forest health by promoting soil fertility. As they decompose, rotting logs slowly release nutrients that help nurture future tree growth and prevent erosion by holding soil in place. The branches and tops of fallen trees help enable the regeneration of forests by protecting new tree growth from animal browsing.

Woody debris also plays a critical role in aquatic environments. Logs and branches that fall into steams and rivers help diversify habitat by creating deep pools, shady areas, and shelter. Consequently, aquatic habitats with sufficient woody debris support a greater variety of fish, invertebrates, algae, and other organisms than habitats devoid of woody debris. Besides habitat, logs can protect stream banks and lake shores from erosion and trap leaves, which, together with deadwood, are the major source of nutrients and energy for small streams.

In conclusion, good forest stewardship involves regarding dead and deteriorating trees as vital elements of healthy forests to manage for sustainable forestry objectives. For more information about deadwood, request the free publication, Pennsylvania Woodlands Number 7: Deadwood for Wildlife from the Forest Stewardship Program by calling 1-800-235-WISE, sending e-mail to RNRext@psu.edu, or writing: Forest Stewardship Program, Forest Resources Extension, Pennsylvania State University, 7 Ferguson Building, University Park, PA 16802.

National No-Till Conference Slated For January

BROOKFIELD, Wis. — Heading into its 11th year, the National No-Tillage Conference, being conducted in Indianapolis, Ind., from Jan. 8 to 11 promises to provide hundreds of new ways to reduce costs and increase profits.

Planned exclusively by no-tillers for no-tillers, the National No-Tillage Conference features 54 no-till experts, 18 informative no-till classrooms, seven general sessions and 80 no-till roundtables in a four-day stretch. Best of all, it's all no-till, all the time, with 125 hours of intensive no-till learning

In a much-anticipated Thursday morning session, Jill Clapperton, a rhizosphere ecologist for Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada at the Lethbridge Research Centre in Lethbridge, Alberta, will explain how microscopic animals in no-tilled soils stabilize soil aggregates while helping build a better soil habitat and improve soil structure, tilth, and productivity Conference organizers have fulfilled a three-year quest to get this speaker, who has a worldwide reputation, on the program.

"Thursday morning speaker Jill Clapperton is years ahead of anyone else when it comes to analyzing the microbiology of no-tilled soils," said Les Seiler, a no-tiller from Fayette, Ohio. "She'll have answers for things happening in no-till fields that you can't explain."

Another session that is sure to be a hit among no-tillers is the Wednesday evening panel discussion dealing with the 2002 Farm Bill and how it's going to affect no-tillers. Four reputable no-tillers will take the stage, break down the effects of the Farm Bill, and answer questions dealing with this important topic.

Aside from all the valuable knowledge and networking, no-tillers also will receive six no-till books and reports valued at $148.70.

No-tillers can also save money by registering other members of their farm at a $50 discount. For more information on this, to request a copy of the 12-page conference program for your self or neighbors, or to register for the conference, contact Alice Musser at (800) 645-8455 (U.S. only) or (262) 782-4480.

Also, check out No-Till Farmer's Website, www.notillfarmer.com to find a printable file of the entire conference program and registration form.

Turn a discarded piece of wood into a checker gameboard, which also makes a nice decorating accent when hung on the wall. Use pieces of old shutters or old wood to create shelves and hanging racks.

Gifts From The Barn

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — those who live on a farm, no doubt can find odd pieces of wood, wooden shutters, paint, and other discarded items from years past in the barn and other outbuildings.

These pieces of "junk" can form the basis for gift giving and for home decor if you follow the example of Judy Kurtz, Bowmansville, and Cindy Wegaman, Berks County.

It's true that Judy and Cindy are adept with using a drill, jigsaw, and sander. But they claim that "it takes no talent" to use many of their ideas.

Old tins and clay pots can be given a new look with a bit of paint. If you can't paint freehand, many stencil designs are available. The star motif is especially popular not only at Christmas but year-round. Craftmakers can even stencil with the word "joy" or other words.

Old doors with original peeling paint or made to look that way are in vogue in home decor. Prop doors upright in a corner or hang horizontally on a wall. You can even cut out parts of the door to use for a variety of shelves or other craft ideas.

Fill a painted aluminum bucket with cookies, teatowels or variety of other little gifts.

Use an area rug (new or clean) beneath a table centerpiece.

Turn old porch posts into candlesticks.

Update old clay flowerpots and saucers.

Have some old mason nails? If they aren't already rusted, leave

Judy Kurtz, left, and Cindy Wegaman used an animal skin stretcher for this snowman. After painting the snowman, they hung a few finishing touches on it.

Ruth Frantz said that the foundation for this cedar and pepperberry swag is formed using a bent wire clothes hanger.

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Items to transform into stunning decor and gifts can be found in your backyard, in the field, or in the woods.

With a little bit of know-how, a set of instructions, and the leniency to adapt and substitute what you have, Ruth Frantz demonstrated just how easy it is to create a "natural holiday."

Frantz, master gardener with Penn State Lebanon County, used greens, birch branches, boxwood, and a crafts person's staples of hot glue, floral foam, and floral wire for several projects.

Can't make a perfect wreath? Frantz is reassuring: "Nothing is straight in nature. It doesn't need to be perfect."

However, do make sure that you wire wrap things tightly. Natural materials shrink as they dry.

Here are directions for three projects. Frantz adapted them from "Nature Crafts for Christmas" by Dawn Cusick and Carol Taylor.

Remember, you can use materials you have on hand. Make wreaths and swags as full and as thick as preferred.

OBLONG WREATH

This three-foot-long wreath can decorate the largest fireplace without looking skimpy. The base is heavy, galvanized clothesline wire shaped into an oval with the ends overlapping about 3 inches and taped together with duct tape.

Bunches of boxwood — 3-4 branches about 12 inches long — are wired together and to the base, starting at the bottom and working up one side, overlapping the bunches to cover the stems of the previous bunch. The other side is covered in a similar matter.

Three-inch burgundy cockscomb heads (or yarrow, rose hips, or whatever else you have on hand) are hot-glued at random to the branches: White strawflowers, sprigs of baby's

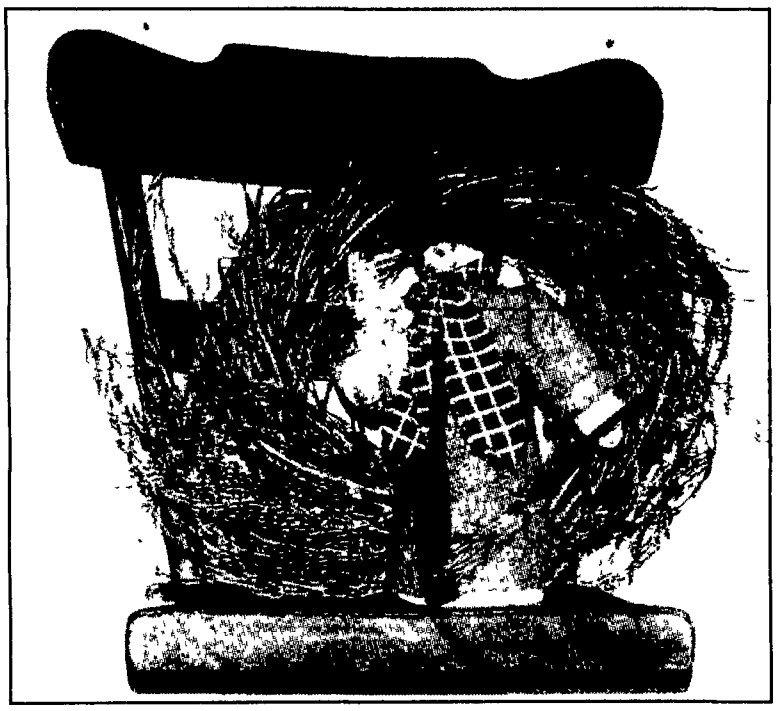
Old shutters can be painted and used a variety of ways, from hanging on the wall to using as a cupboard door.



The top of an old chair finds a new life as a shelf when hung on a wall.

Fay Strickler, Berks County home economist, serves soup in a pumpkin and offers many ideas for packaging soup mixes for holiday gift giving. She also stresses the importance of washing hands often and thoroughly to prevent spreading germs when cooking and serving food. Turn to page B6 for recipes by Strickler and others.

Women Involved In Farm Economics

COLUMBIA, S.C. — With the hope of laughter, love and tears of joy, motivational speaker Jim Mathis closed the 26th National Women Involved in Farm Economics (WIFE) Convention in Columbia, S.C. on Saturday, Nov. 16.

Mathis offered thanks to WIFE on behalf of a well-fed America for being providers of safe, nutritionally-sound food. Farm producers and agri-business women had gathered to establish policy, elect officers, and educate themselves on agricultural issues.

Dr. Guido Schnabel, Dr. James Rathwell, and Powell Smith from Clemson University introduced WIFE members to strawberry production and marketing. Moving from matted row production to an annual hill culture system, strawberry production has grown into a thriving pick-your-own and/or pre-picked industry. Diseases and marketing were discussed. Many of the theories related can now be applied to other specialty crops grown across the nation.

Wearing black armbands, WIFE members "mourned" the loss of family farms and ranches due to natural disasters that attacked agriculture this year.

"Agricultural security is vital to national security," stated President Cindy Cruea, Cottage Grove, Minn. WIFE members united in urging the immediate implementation of disaster aid as a means of protecting the vital U.S. food supply.

Cruea went on to say, "America is only as secure as its food supply. It is imperative now to improve the Homeland and Food Security through standardization of environmental regulations with our trading partners."

Leading the organization in 2003 will be President Ina Selfridge, Burdett, Kansas; First Vice President Marlene Kouba, Regent, North Dakota; and Second Vice President Pam Potthoff, Trenton, Nebraska.

On Being a Farm Wife

Joyce Bupp

Almost, it was too late.

Most of the garden was already history, scruffy dried stalks and stems poking up among thriving, vibrant patches of perky, cool-tolerant weeds. A few turnips, small patch of lettuce, and two half-hearted heads of cabbage hung out with less desirables running rampant following an extended fall with more than the usual amounts of moisture.

As garden years go, this year's was mediocre. Severe drought and heat took their toll, despite heavy mulching. Weed control was tolerable until late August, when a deluge of other things demands allowed no time for garden maintenance.

And the weeds knew it, turning into an unruly, wild bunch almost overnight. By early September, I was resigned to scrounging for late tomatoes among a shrubby forest of redroot and lambsquarters.

To one side of the patch, though, from a raised, plastic-mulched row, grew a tangle of incredibly thick vines, belying the summer's incredibly dry conditions. My guess was that all the energy of these sweet potato roots had gone into leaf production.

Sweet potatoes are not a crop we normally grow, mostly for lack of space. But a few wrinkled, leftover, old-fashioned, yellow-fleshed ones had been left from mother's garden of the year before. Sentimentality nudged me into sticking them into the ground, even as it was already under seige in early summer from lack of moisture.

A sunny afternoon a few weeks ago (after frost nipped the leaves) beckoned me to tackle what lay under the mass of vines. What was there was astonishing.

Poking out and around the mulch at places were the biggest sweet potatoes we have ever seen. I gleefully carried the largest, football-sized root to the barn and bagged up some of the bounty to share. Harvest of the row had filled a lawn cart with sweet potatoes and there was no way we would eat them all before they would begin spoiling.

The first warning that all was not hunky-dory with these monsters came when The Farmer sliced into a fresh one and noted that the whitish-yellow flesh was streaked with gray. Uh, oh; not good.

But it wasn't until I began peeling sweet potatoes for our family Thanksgiving feast that the extent of the potato affliction became apparent. A first, medium-sized one was fine. Then I sliced with a butcher knife through a big one...and another big one...and another big one. And headed to the basement for more, because they were discolored and pithy in the centers.

Suddenly I hoped that no one I had shared them with were counting on these sweet potatoes as a main part of their holiday dinner. Because they were going to likely be disappointed.

To my embarrassment, the shared ones were no better. I intercepted the giant, football-sized sweet potato still in the barn office, tucked it under my arm, did an end run around the house to the kitchen and touched down with a large knife. It, too, got tossed into the end zone across the road for recycling.

The good ones are delicate in flavor, delicious with a syrup of brown sugar, butter, and maple syrup from a Vermont friend. Sadly, those are in the minority. No doubt I left them in the ground too long. But were there other factors? Too dry all summer? Too wet all fall? Too overgrown, since the smaller ones appear to be the better ones?

Gardening is sometimes trial and error. If a few of the good ones store long enough, they'll go into flower pots in spring, to start shoots for next year.

Maybe I can get it right the next time.

Winter Calorie Burners

Did you know that the average American gains between 6-8 pounds during the holiday season?

When you factor in all the holiday goodies such as cookies, pumpkin pie, turkey with gravy, stuffing, and football party foods; you can't help but to wipe the droll from your chin. Also in the winter months most people would like nothing better but to curl up by the fire with a good book or watch the snow fall.

Although these activities are relaxing, they lead to a pretty sedentary winter season with some inevitable weight gain. But there is hope!

Here are some ways to increase your activity in the winter months and burn some calories in the process.

The best way to become active during the winter season is to join a gym or the local YMCA/ YWCA.

Sign up for an aerobics or yoga class, swim in the indoor pool, or just walk on the treadmill. Whatever your choice, be consistent and get your moneys worth!

If cost is a concern, buy an exercise tape to do at home. This is another great way to get active. Make sure to purchase a tape that is at your fitness level. By renting exercise videos at the video store, you can predetermine if a tape is right for you and then purchase it. A tape won't do much good if it is used once and put back on the shelf to collect dust. By working with a variety of tapes, boredom will be prevented. Also multiple muscle groups will be worked with the use of a variety of workout tapes.

If seasonal activities are more your style, here are some activities that burn calories when each are done for one hour at a time. Calories burned based on a 150-pound person:

- Snow activities: Build a snowman: 238 kcals
- Walking through the snow: 340 kcals
- Snowball fight: 544 kcals
- Shoveling snow: 408 kcals
- Raking leaves: 240 kcals
- Splitting firewood: 408 kcals
- Chopping down a Christmas tree (this includes walking to find the tree, chopping it down, and carrying it home): 357 kcals
- Caroling: 129 kcals

In the home and kitchen:

- Rolling out cookie dough: 170 kcals
- Mashing potatoes for 25 people: 170 kcals
- Washing the dishes for those 25 people: 157 kcals
- Vacuuming pine needles off the floor: 170 kcals

Winter sports:

- Cross-country skiing: 612 kcals
- Snowshoeing: 544 kcals
- Ice skating: 476 kcals
- Sledding: 476 kcals
- Holiday shopping: 157 kcals, with bags: 170 kcals

Other holiday activities:

- Wrapping gifts: 136 kcals
- Opening gifts: 102 kcals
- Writing holiday cards: 123 kcals
- Kissing under the mistletoe: 122 kcals

I hope these suggestions help you to get active and stay healthy this holiday season. Get the whole family involved. Have a happy, healthy, and active winter season!

Thanksgiving Day Dinner Costs Less

CAMP HILL (Dauphin Co.) — This Thanksgiving Americans have even more to be thankful for since the cost of the traditional holiday meal decreased from last year, according to the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau.

The annual survey by the American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) of the price of basic items on the Thanksgiving Day dinner table found that the average cost of this year's feast for 10 is $34.56, a 48-cent drop from last year's survey average of $35.04. It marks only the second drop in average price since 1991.

"Pennsylvania's farm families take great pride in contributing to the safest, most abundant and affordable food supply in the world," said Pennsylvania Farm Bureau President Guy F. Donaldson.

The AFBF survey shopping list includes turkey, stuffing, sweet potatoes, rolls with butter, peas, cranberries, a relish tray including carrots and celery, pumpkin pie with whipped cream and beverages of coffee and milk, all in quantities sufficient to serve a family of 10.

Although the survey reveals a decrease in price this year, AFBF economist Mark Jenner said Americans have enjoyed very stable food costs throughout the years.

"The average prices for the same Thanksgiving Day dinner for the last 17 years have increased about two percent per year, which is well below annual increases in the cost of living for the same period," said Jenner. "Based on this year's average meal cost, Americans can enjoy a traditional holiday meal for just $3.50 per person."

The decrease in this year's average price marks the fifth decrease since the survey's inception in 1986. Prices of past surveys include: 1986 - $28.74; 1987 - $24.51; 1988 - $26.61; 1989 - $24.70; 1990 - $28.85; 1991 - $25.95; 1992 - $26.39; 1993 - $27.49; 1994 - $28.40; 1995 - $29.64; 1996 - $31.66; 1997 - $31.75; 1998 - $33.09; 1999 - $33.83; 2000 - $32.37; 2001 - $35.04.

The AFBF annual Thanksgiving Meal Cost Survey is unscientific, but is a gauge of actual price trends across the nation. A total of 135 volunteer shoppers from 30 states, including Pennsylvania, participated in this year's survey. Shoppers are asked to identify the best in-store price, excluding promotional coupons and special deals. Farm Bureau's survey menu has remained unchanged since 1986 to allow for consistent price comparisons.

Consuming Thoughts

by

Penn State Extension Home Economist for Berks Co.

Americans eat far too little fiber in their diets. The recommended daily allowance of fiber is between 20-30 grams a day. However, the average American only eats about 10 grams of fiber a day.

It is important to understand the types of fiber and its food sources in order to lead a healthier lifestyle.

There are two types of fiber, soluble and insoluble. Forms of soluble fiber include gums, mucilages, and pectins.

Soluble fiber slows down the rate that the stomach empties food, which makes your stomach feel full for a longer period of time. This effect could help fight off obesity since the body doesn't feel as hungry. It lowers cholesterol, because its gel-like substances bind to cholesterol and excrete it out of the body and it also helps control blood sugar levels in diabetics.

Forms of insoluble fibers include hemicellulose, cellulose, and lignin. Insoluble fiber absorbs water thereby increasing and softening stools and speeding them through the digestive tract. This is helpful in preventing and treating constipation and has been prescribed for the treatment of diverticular disease. It may also reduce the risk of colon cancer.

Sources of food containing soluble fiber include oatmeal, oat bran, fried beans and peas, squash, apples, citrus fruits, green beans, cabbage, and strawberries.

Sources of foods containing insoluble fiber include bran, cereals, whole grains, whole wheat, Brussels sprouts, peppers, green beans, cabbage broccoli and cucumber skins.

Boost up fiber in your diet by trying the following recipe.

Mom's Molasses Muffins

1¼ cups all-purpose flour
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup molasses
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup shortening
1 cup bran cereal
½ cup raisins

Stir together flour, soda, salt, and sugar. Set aside. Measure bran cereal and buttermilk into large mixing bowl. Stir to combine. Let stand about 2 minutes or until cereal is softened. Add egg, molasses, and shortening. Beat well. Stir in raisins. Add flour mixture, stirring only until combine. Portion the batter evenly into 12 greased 2½-inch muffin pan cups.

Bake at 400 about 20 minutes or until lightly browned.

Per Serving: (1 muffin) 3 grams of dietary fiber, 160 calories, 5 grams of fat. To request a copy of "Filling Up on Fiber," contact your local Penn State Cooperative Extension Office in your county.

Is Chickenpox Vaccine Needed?

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "When I was young everybody had chickenpox and we survived it," is a common refrain from patients as well as many physicians.

Proper immunization protects us from morbidity as well as mortality. It's true that the vaccine may save only about 100 lives per year which is not insignificant but we'll also reduce hospitalizations by almost 10,000 each year and complications in the thousands. In addition nearly 4,000,000 cases of misery can be avoided. Children and adults miss up to two weeks of school or work while ill and in households with multiple children this loss is compounded.

Three independent studies confirm an economic benefit of $100 per vaccine based on cost/benefit analysis. The vaccine is nearly 100 percent effective against severe disease and its complications. Breakthrough cases occur in a fair percentage (15-20 percent of those vaccinated but these are mild and also boost immunity. Enough data is now available to document a decreased incidence of shingles after the vaccine as compared to after the natural disease.

Immunity from the chickenpox shot should be life-long since it is a live vaccine. Experience in Japan of nearly 25 years seems to confirm this expectation. Vaccinating all children will protect those older adults who may be susceptible to both chickenpox and shingles.

In fact, a more potent vaccine may be offered to adults to prevent shingles in the near future. Concern that children will get varicella as adults may be a self-fulfilling prophesy if we do not get 90 percent of them immunized which is needed to prevent epidemics by herd immunity.

Food Gifts From The Kitchen

MARTHA ZEPP
Lancaster Co. Extension

Many foods preserved earlier in the year make thoughtful gifts to be shared with a friend or neighbor.

In addition, easy to make jams, jellies, syrups, ice cream toppings, and mixes can be made from convenient readily available ingredients any time of the year. Use a food gift to express appreciation, as a hostess gift, or to remember a shut-in. Food gifts are especially appreciated by working folks who don't have time to do the extras and by older folks who don't have the energy to preserve foods. Besides, it says you care about them when you take the time to make something from basic ingredients.

Plan the presentation of your food gift to further enhance the enjoyment of the gift. Label jars attractively with the product name and include the list of ingredients in case someone has a food allergy.

Include any needed preparation or storage directions such as "refrigerate and use within two weeks." The label can also include suggestions for use.

Special gift tags can be made from cross-stitched designs, tree-shaped tags, or tracing around cookie cutters. Gingerbread designs remain a favorite of children and adults.

Including a screw band on jars helps to keep opened lids in place. Lids can be made attractive by folding a fabric circle over the cap with a rubber band to hold the fabric in place and then tying it with a pretty ribbon or raffia. Cut the fabric two inches larger than the jar lid and pink it for a pretty edge.

Cutting the raffia 18-inches larger than the circumference of the jar allows for a nice bow. An eight-inch Battenberg lace doily makes a formal wrap over a jar lid. Another attractive presentation is making a jar lid insert that fits over the lid but under the screw band.

Counted cross-stitch inserts are beautiful but time consuming to make. Quick inserts can be made by tracing the lid on card stock and using a marker to write a message or cutting scenes from greeting cards.

Here are some presentation ideas. After placing the food in a bag, fold the top down and staple to hold in place. Glue a button in the center of the fold. This can be used to hold the gift tag in place. (Run embroidery thread through the button holes before gluing to make the button look sewn, if desired).

Flower pots work as containers for a jar of jelly and some muffin mix. An "apple for the teacher" theme can be made by sponge painting a flower pot and gluing dried apple flowers around the top of flower pot. Apple flowers can be make by cutting an apple crosswise into thin slices and drying them in the oven at 150 F or in a food dehydrator. Line the flower pot with shredded paper before adding the food gifts.

A more masculine version of the flower pot idea is to trim a hand painted terra-cotta pot with coffee beans glued to the top rim.

For a snowman paint a terra cotta pot white and draw on the snowman features.

Top the snowman with a stocking cap (made of stretchable knit fabric) and shape the cap with an empty crushed plastic grocery bag.

A quart jar filled with white food (white cookies, popcorn, or candy) can be transformed into a Santa face with felt features and a knitcap.

Quick and easy recipes appeal to the food preserver in the rush of the holiday season. Using apple cider in the following jelly saves the time of preparing apple juice as in the traditional jelly recipe. The cranberry juice cocktail adds a richness of color with a hint of holiday flavor.

CRANBERRY-CIDER JELLY

3 cups apple cider
1 cup cranberry juice cocktail
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 package powdered pectin
5 cups sugar

Combine apple cider, cranberry juice cocktail, and lemon juice in a large saucepot. Stir in pectin. Bring to a rolling boil, stirring frequently. Add sugar, stirring until dissolved. Return to a rolling boil. Boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Skim foam if necessary. Ladle hot jelly into hot, sterilized jars, leaving ¼-inch headspace. Adjust two-piece caps. Process 5 minutes in a boiling-water canner. Yield: about 6 half-pints. Source: Ball Blue Book.

Combining jelly with a muffin mix and some mulling spices creates a nice theme for a holiday breakfast basket. The muffin mix could be packaged in jars or plastic bags and should be used within one month.

OATMEAL RAISIN MUFFIN MIX

1 cup oats
½ cup sugar
½ cup all-purpose flour
¼ cup whole-wheat flour
2 tablespoons buttermilk powder
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon dried orange peel
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup raisins, craisins, or dried currants

Place oats in a food processor or blender, process until coarsely ground. Add sugar, flours, buttermilk powder, baking powder, orange peel, baking soda, and salt; pulse process until just well-blended. Stir in raisins. Store in an airtight container. Give with serving directions. Full recipe makes 2½ cups mix and yields 12 muffins; to make 6 muffins, divide mix into 2 packages of 1¼ cups each.

Gift tag directions: Oatmeal Raisin Muffin Mix for 1 dozen muffins: Preheat oven to 400 F. Combine muffin mix, ½ cup water, ⅓ cup vegetable oil, and 2 eggs, stir just until moistened. Fill lightly greased muffin cups about ¾ full. Bake 15-18 minutes or until a toothpick comes out clean.

Gift tag directions for 6 muffins. Preheat oven to 400F. Combine muffin mix, ¼ cup water, 2 ½ tablespoons vegetable oil, and 1 egg, stir just until moistened. Fill lightly greased muffin cups about ¾ full. Bake 15-18 minutes or until a toothpick comes out clean.

If you have questions about these food gift ideas or about food preservation, a home economist is available to answer questions on Wednesdays 10 a.m.-1 p.m., call (717) 394-6851 or write Penn State Cooperative Extension, Lancaster County, 1383 Arcadia Rd., Rm.1, Lancaster, PA, 17601.

CALICO QUILT SOUP MIX
(in a pint jar)

½ cup lentils
½ cup long grain converted rice
½ cup split peas
½ cup barley

Seasoning packet:

1 teaspoon dried minced garlic
½ teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
½-1 teaspoon sage (optional)
1 teaspoon herb seasoning

Layer first four ingredients in wide-mouth pint canning jar in the order given. Mix seasoning ingredients in small bowl. Place in sandwich bag and tie seasoning into a corner of bag with a piece of ribbon. Attach seasoning packet and gift card.

Gift Card for Calico Quilt Soup

Empty jar into a colander, pick over beans and rinse well. Place mix in large pan with 10 cups water. Chop and add one medium onion and seasoning packet. Bring to a boil. Lower heat, cover and simmer one hour, stirring occasionally. Check after 30 minutes to see if it needs more water.

This is a vegetarian soup, but for a change add two chopped uncooked boneless skinless chicken breasts at the beginning for Chicken Calico Soup.

Sift flour and salt together into a bowl. Make a well in center of flour mixture and add eggs; blend thoroughly. Knead dough on a floured surface, cover, and let stand 30 minutes. Roll to about ⅛-inch thickness. Turn dough over and continue rolling until paper-thin. Allow dough to partially dry, about one hour. Cut dough into lengthwise strips 2½ inches wide and stack on top of each other. Slice into short strips ⅛ inch wide. Separate noodles and allow to dry thoroughly. (Noodles can be stored in refrigerator in a tightly covered container if not cooked immediately.) Yields 2 cups noodles.

To store noodles: The egg noodles should be stored in the freezer. Eggs can potentially cause food poisoning so it is best to either freeze the freshly made noodles or dry them and then freeze. Store in the freezer for up to two months.

FRIENDSHIP SOUP

½ cup dry split peas
⅓ cup beef bouillon granules
¼ cup pearl barley
½ cup dry lentils
¼ cup dried minced onion
2 teaspoons Italian seasoning
½ cup uncooked long grain rice
½ cup alphabet macaroni or other small macaroni (can be put in a plastic sandwich bag to make it easier for the recipient to get out of jar).

Additional Ingredients:
1 pound ground beef
3 quarts water
1 can (28 ounces) diced tomatoes, undrained

In a 1½ pint jar, layer the first eight ingredients in the order listed. Seal tightly. Yields 1 batch.

Gift Card for Friendship Soup Mix

To prepare soup: Carefully remove macaroni from top of jar and set aside. In a large saucepan or Dutch oven, brown beef, drain. Add the water, tomatoes and soup mix, bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 45 minutes. Add reserved macaroni, cover and simmer for 15 to 20 minutes or until macaroni, peas, lentils, and barley are tender. Yield: 16 servings (4 quarts).

STRIPED LENTIL SOUP MIX

½ cup brown lentils
½ cup red lentils
1 cup split peas, divided

Seasoning packet:
1 teaspoon dried minced garlic
½ teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
½-1 teaspoon sage (optional)

Place ½ cup split peas into a wide mouth pint canning jar. Top with ½ cup lentils. Follow with remaining ½ cup of split peas and remaining lentils.

Mix seasoning ingredients in small bowl. Place in sandwich bag and tie seasoning into a corner of bag with a piece of ribbon. Attach seasoning packet to a decorated jar lid.

This recipe calls for 1 cup split peas and 1 cup lentils. If you can find several colors, divide the lentils to make the soup more colorful. If not, just use green split peas and brown lentils. Check at large grocery stores and specialty stores for colored split peas and lentils.

Gift Card for Striped Lentil Soup

Empty jar into a colander, pick over peas and rinse well. Place in large pan and over with seven cups of water. Add one chopped medium onion, and seasoning. Bring to a boil. Lower heat, cover and simmer one hour, stirring occasionally. For a thicker soup remove lid for last 15 minutes. To perk up the soup add one pound chopped ham or smoked turkey.

SPLIT PEA TORTELLINI SOUP

3 ounces dried cheese-filled tortellini (⅔ cup)
¼ cup snipped dried tomatoes
⅓ cup dried split green peas
½ cup dried vegetable flakes
1 tablespoon instant chicken bouillon granules
1 tablespoon dried minced onion
1½ teaspoons dried basil, crushed
1½ teaspoons dried thyme, crushed
½ teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon ground pepper

Packing directions:

Layer ingredients in a clean one-pint glass canning jar in the following order (from bottom to top): tortellini, dried tomatoes, split peas, vegetable flakes and remaining seasonings. Cover jar and attach gift tag with directions for cooking.

Gift Card for Split Pea Tortellini Soup

Empty jar ingredients into a three-quart saucepan. Add 5 cups water. Bring mixture to boiling. Reduce heat; cover and simmer 50 minutes or until peas are tender. (Option: add 1 cup chopped cooked ham or sausage.) Makes 4 servings.

BEAN SOUP GIFT BAG

⅓ cup red beans
⅓ cup lentils
⅓ cup white navy beans
⅓ cup red beans
⅓ cup lentils
⅓ cup split green peas
⅓ cup white navy beans
⅓ cup red beans
1 cup brown rice
1 teaspoon black pepper
1 tablespoon dried crushed basil leaves
½ teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon ground ginger
½ teaspoon cumin
1 bay leaf
½ cup instant minced onion

Layer ingredients in a quart jar. Put rice and spices in a separate bag.

Gift Card for Bean and Rice Soup

To prepare soup: Rinse beans. In a large pot combine beans with nine cups of water. Bring to a boil for five minutes. Remove from heat and soak overnight. Drain and rinse. Combine beans with 12 cups of chicken broth, rice, onion and spices. Bring to boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer three hours or until beans are tender. Add water as needed so the beans are well covered. Remove bay leaf before serving.

Optional: Add a ham hock if desired.

Do You Suffer From Fibromyalgia?

When I was introduced to New Image I was 50 pounds over weight and suffered from fibromyalgia I was so depressed and in pain the majority of the time I was taking steroids and four other medications, one of which made me so 'groggy' I could hardly get out of bed and another gave me ulcers I began taking New Image secretly because I thought my family would make fun of me After a month I discovered I had lost eight pounds and seven inches Wow! Then it dawned on me, I was feeling better, the depression and pain were gone In two months I was off all medications 'I feel SUPERIFIC!" Now, two years later I have lost 43 pounds and 30 inches Thank you New Image for giving me a new life again Judy Swift - Mt Washington, KY

QUESTION — Carrie Sponseller, Gettysburg, wants recipes to make dips of different varieties.

QUESTION — A Narvon reader writes that she accidentally discarded two recipes, which she had clipped from this column, that her family really liked. One recipe was for waffles, and the lady who had submitted it wrote that she sold them at a stand when she was young. The other recipe was for biscuits that used cold butter cut into the flour. Anyone know to which recipes she is referring? Please send in to be reprinted.

QUESTION — A reader writes that when her children were in school, they had a cookie painting day during the Christmas season. She would like a recipe for a paint to paint cookies.

QUESTION — A steady reader is looking for a recipe for Wedding Soup made with chicken broth and tiny meatballs.

QUESTION — Frances Martin, New Holland, would like a recipe for persimmon wine and other recipes using persimmons.

QUESTION — Pat Elligson, Millers, Md., wants a recipe for good, moist old-fashioned fruit cake that is thick with fruit and nuts.

QUESTION — P. Horst writes that this summer she grew a plant called citron, which is in the watermelon family. She would like recipes using citron.

QUESTION — Linda Christman, Greencastle, wants a recipe for apple dumpling syrup made with the little red cinnamon heart candies.

QUESTION — A subscriber wants to know the secret for making flaky pie crust that is not mealy or oily. An exact recipe is desired.

QUESTION — Do you have any unique cookie recipes to share? Recipes for cookies, candies, and other holiday treats are needed. Also needed are recipes to make for holiday gifts.

QUESTION — June Martin, Oxford, N.J., wants a recipe to make venison hot dogs.

QUESTION — A reader wants recipes for a steak sauce or one to use as a marinade. She also wants to know how to make steaks that taste like those served at steak houses.

QUESTION — Frank Bonk, Perth Amboy, N.J., wants to know where to find fresh killed geese and goose livers.

QUESTION — Nina Biddle, Tyrone, has identical recipes for sugar cookies, one using Pillsbury flour and the other Gold Medal. Why do they taste differently if the identical ingredients are used?

QUESTION — A reader would like a recipe to make candy bars that taste similar to Nutrageous.

QUESTION — Gloria Miller, Christiana, lost the recipe for mini upside down pineapple cake, which is made in cupcake pans. Anyone have it?

ANSWER — Melissa Wolfe, SUN Area dairy princess, sent in this recipe for those who froze leftover turkey and want ideas for incorporating it in a meal.

Turkey Broccoli Casserole

1-2 cups cooked turkey (sliced or chunked)
1 pound fresh or 10-ounces frozen broccoli, cooked
1 cup cheese sauce
2 tablespoons grated cheese

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cover bottom of large flat casserole with cooked broccoli. Arrange turkey on top. Cover with sauce. Sprinkle with grated cheese and bake 25 minutes.

ANSWER — Joanne Eberle, Delaware, would like a recipe for apple cider doughnuts. Thanks to Holly Lutz for sending this recipe, which sounds delicious.

Apple Cider Doughnuts With Maple Glaze

3 tablespoons granulated sugar, for preparing pans
2 cups all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
2 large eggs, lightly beaten
⅔ cup packed brown sugar
½ cup apple butter
⅓ cup pure maple syrup
⅓ cup apple cider
⅓ cup nonfat plain yogurt
3 tablespoons canola yogurt

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Coat molds of a mini-bundt pan with nonstick cooking spray or oil. Sprinkle with granulated sugar, shaking out the excess.

In a mixing bowl, whisk together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, and cinnamon; set aside. In another bowl, whisk together egg, brown sugar, apple butter, maple syrup, cider, yogurt, and oil. Add the dry ingredients and stir just until moistened. Divide half the batter among the prepared molds, spooning about 2 generous tablespoonfuls of batter into each mold.

Bake 10-12 minutes, or until the tops spring back when touched lightly. Loosen the edges and turn the cakes out onto a wire rack to cool.

Clean the mini-bundt pan, then recoat it with cooking spray or oil and sugar. Repeat with remaining batter.

Maple Glaze:

1¼ cup confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ cup pure maple syrup

In a bowl, combine confectioners' sugar and vanilla. Gradually whisk in enough maple syrup to make a coating consistency. Dip the fluted side of the doughnuts in the glaze to coat. Set glazed side up on a wire rack over waxed paper for a few minutes until the glaze has set. Yield: 1 dozen doughnuts.

ANSWER — Charles Bierwegh, West Chester, wanted to know how to make homemade mustard (for hot dogs and hamburgers) using dried mustard. He just received three one-pound cans of dried mustard. Thanks to Holly Lutz for sending one.

Mom's Old-Fashioned Homemade Mustard

½ cup dry mustard
½ cup cider vinegar
½ cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1 cup mayonnaise (not Miracle Whip)
Dash salt

Mix mustard with vinegar and refrigerate overnight. Bring to room temperature and cook with beaten egg, sugar, salt, and cornstarch. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until it boils and thickens. Cool. Add mayonnaise. Refrigerate.

ANSWER — An Ephrata reader and also A. Smucker, Kinzers, requested a recipe to make honey mustard pretzels. Thanks to Thelma Eberly, New Holland; Jonas Stoltzfus, Paradise; and E. Horning, Lebanon, for sending in the same recipe — so it should be good.

Honey Mustard Pretzels

2 pounds broken sourdough pretzels

Break pretzels into bite-size pieces into a large bowl. Mix together:

1 cup vegetable oil
½ cup salad mustard
½ cup honey
¼ cup sour cream and onion powder

Pour mixture over broken pretzels and mix thoroughly with spatula to make sure every pretzel is coated. Spread coated pretzels in a pan. Bake at 200 degrees stirring every 15-20 minutes for approximately two hours. Store in airtight container.

ANSWER — S. Jones requested a recipe to make black licorice coal candy like that sold in miniature coal buckets with a little hammer to break it. Thanks to Lee Laverty, Mount Joy, for sending two different recipes.

Coal Candy

3 cups sugar
⅓ cup water
1 teaspoon red food coloring
1½ cups white corn syrup
1 teaspoon anise oil

Boil sugar, water, and syrup to 290 degrees on candy thermometer (10-plus minutes). Remove from heat. Add anise and coloring. Stir well and pour into shallow greased pan. Let cool somewhat. Begin marking it by drawing lines in it. Follow same lines over and over again until it begins to harden. Keep putting pressure on knife to deepen lines. After it gets hard, break into pieces.

Coal Candy

1 cup granulated sugar
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup water
¼ cup light corn syrup
1 tablespoon black food coloring
¼ teaspoon anise extract or pulverized anise seeds

Combine sugars, water, and corn syrup into a pot, set the pot over medium heat and stir. When the batch has boiled for the first time, wash the sugar crystals down from the sides of the pot. Put the thermometer in the pot and cook without stirring to 290 degrees (soft crack stage). Take the pot from the heat and add the food coloring and anise flavoring and stir them in gently.

With a teaspoon, drop round patties about the size of quarters onto a greased baking sheet. If the candy in the pot gets too firm for spooning, reheat it gently until it softens. Cool the drops completely but not in the refrigerator or the pieces will stick. Wrap the drops individually in wax paper or cellophane.

ANSWER — Gloria Mills, Williamstown, N.J., wanted recipes using Clear Jel. Thanks to E. Horning, Lebanon, and to Jackie Swift for sending the following recipes. Clear-Jel can also be used in place of flour to thicken gravy, E. Horning writes.

Danish Dessert

5 cups water
1 package strawberry-flavored Kool-Aid
2 cups sugar

Bring to a boil and thicken with:

½ cup Clear Jel mixed with
1 cup water

Remove from heat and add:

3-ounce package strawberry-flavored Jell-O

Cool, and pour over frozen or fresh strawberries. Garnish with marshmallows or serve with ice cream. Variation: Use orange flavored Kool-Aid and Jell-O, and add peaches, pears, pineapples or oranges.

Canned Apple Pie Filling

6-7 quarts fresh sliced apples
5½ cups granulated sugar
1½ cups Clear Jel
1 tablespoon cinnamon
2½ cups cold water
5 cups apple juice, unsweetened
¾ cup bottled lemon juice
1 teaspoon nutmeg (optional)
7 drops yellow food coloring (optional)

Use firm, crisp apples. If apples lack tartness, add an additional ¼ cup lemon juice for each 6 quarts of slices.

Wash, peel, core apples. Prepare slices ½-inch wide and place in water containing 1 teaspoon ascorbic acid crystals or six 500-mg vitamin C tablets in 1 gallon water to prevent browning.

Place 6 cups at a time in 1 gallon boiling water. Boil each batch 1 minute after the water returns to a boil. Drain, but keep heated fruit in a covered bowl or pot. Combine sugar, Clear Jel, water, cinnamon, and nutmeg in a large kettle with apple juice, and food coloring. Stir and cook over medium-high heat until mixture thickens and begins to bubble. Add lemon juice and boil sauce 1 minute, stirring constantly. Fold in drained apple slices, immediately fill jars with mixture, and process without delay.

ANSWER — Here is a recipe that makes a great holiday gift from Shirley Orfanella, Quarryville. She writes that it is worth the effort.

Biscotti

8-ounces shelled hazelnuts
4 ounces butter
½ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Pinch salt

Heat oven to 300 degrees. Spread nuts on a baking sheet and toast 15 minutes. Remove and wrap in a clean towel. Let steam for 2 minutes. Rub nuts together vigorously in the towel to remove most skins. Chop coarsely — let a few whole.

Set oven to 350 degrees. Cream butter and sugar until fluffy. Add eggs and vanilla. Add remaining ingredients, mix until well blended. Use electric mixer with floured hands to form dough into two strips, about 12x3-inches (will resemble small loaf of French bread). Place on buttered baking sheet and bake approximately 30 minutes (until dough is set and light colored).

Remove from oven and as soon as you can touch — slice dough into ½-inch pieces on the diagonal. Reduce oven to 275 degrees. Each strip should make 20 cookies. Place cookies back in oven for 15 minutes on each side. Will keep several weeks in airtight cans. May dip ½ cooled cookie in coating chocolate.

Facts You Should Know When Heating With Wood

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — The old saying that "firewood warms you twice" has once again been proven true by many this year. If you heat your home with wood, you know the work involved throughout the year and how "warm" you get while cutting, splitting and stacking firewood. You also know about the cozy warmth burning wood provides for your home all winter long.

Wood, utilized as a heating fuel, has played a very important role in our country's history. In 1844, 95 percent of all energy needs in this country were met by wood. But, by the early 1900s fossil fuels — coal, followed by oil and gas — became the products of choice because of their availability and ease of handling. Most homes today are not solely heated with wood. But, since the mid 1970s and the Arab oil embargo, people have been more interested in wood energy as an alternate heat source.

Wood is a renewable and readily available resource that is relatively easy to ignite and will burn rapidly if properly dried. Wood requires no special facilities for storage and is a relatively clean fuel with nearly pollution-free combustion. In addition wood burners or wood stoves are readily available in every shape, size and color. They have become a valuable complement to home heating and home decor.

There is a lot to think about each year when you use wood to heat your home. Of course you need to secure firewood and plan for all the work involved such as cutting, hauling, splitting and stacking. But, there are also other yearly considerations such as...

- How much wood do I need?
- What is the best way to store my wood?
- Is my wood dry enough?
- What species of wood are best?
- Do I need to clean my chimney?
- How can I prevent a chimney fire?

The Penn State Cooperative Extension has a great publication that can answer many of these questions and more that you may have about heating with wood. You may order the free publication by calling the Penn State Cooperative Extension, Cambria County, at (814) 472-7986. Ask for "Returning to Wood Heat," prepared by Walter W. Johnson. The 13-page publication can also be a great resource for someone thinking about installing a new wood burning system.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

We've just had an interesting week. You see our son from Georgia came to visit for a week. We worked and we played.

He mowed the hill behind our house and he raked several wheelbarrow loads of leaves. He picked up a few Stabler black walnuts. Two small trees were transplanted and a high vine was trimmed.

One day he went along to a doctor's appointment and to the drug store. We also picked up some MRI records for other doctors to scan.

Then we went visiting as my husband had not seen a new addition to a relative's home. Their one large room has been turned into a greenhouse, an office, and it has a Jacuzzi too.

Our longest trip was to Palmyra where Allen's brother is now living in a retirement home. He has a beautiful cottage-apartment and was able to take many pieces of his own furniture with him. He treated us to a nice lunch while we were there. On the way home, we drove by the very large Risser homestead that is located between Elizabethtown and Manheim.

Jeffrey was also able to spend two days with our younger son in Tioga County where he is building a large cottage. They worked with one of our grandsons in the snow. As my husband has a camper on the large wooded area, they had a place to eat and sleep.

Now we shall get back to our regular routine of sleeping, eating, and running to the Hershey Medical Center. I know more about doctor's offices than I ever wanted to know.

The "Stream Map of Pennsylvania" was completed in 1965 after a 30 year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible a map that shows every stream and lake He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 by 5 foot map

The map sold extremely well - until it was lost several years later Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to the landfill

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key

The experts had always told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day "

Then, by combining Professor Higbee's knowledge with computer technology -- the STREAM MAP OF OHIO was created.

Talking Turkey: Myth And Truth About The All-American Bird

WOOSTER, Ohio — Today, most of us think of turkeys only as a delicious Thanksgiving meal. But there was a time when the snooded-and-wattled creatures soared above the dinner table to play the role of deities.

Long before becoming an indispensable part of the Thanksgiving tradition and the holiday's most recognizable symbol, turkeys had amassed a popularity and significance of mythological proportions among the many and diverse original cultures of North and Central America.

In fact, the Mayas of southern Mexico and northern Central America were the first to domesticate the colorful bird some 1,800 years before the Pilgrims had a taste of it at Plymouth. Turkeys were served to the Mayan elite and were also used in ceremonies for healing, planting and praying for rain.

The Aztecs of central Mexico also raised turkeys. The bird was held in such high esteem that a religious festival in its honor took place every two hundred days. On the day of the celebration, people arose before dawn to pave the streets with the collected shells of turkey chicks that had hatched during that period of time.

Turkey (huaxolotl in the Nahualt language) was also a hot buy at the markets of Tenochtitlan, capital of the Aztec Empire. Franciscan missionary Toribio de Benavente Motolina, in his History of the Indians of New Spain, tells us that in the suburban market of Tepeyacac alone, over 8,000 turkeys were sold every five days. The royalty also appreciated the turkey's succulent meat —one hundred turkeys were sent daily to the court of the poet-king Nezahualcoyotl of Texcoco, a nearby metropolis.

In the early 16th century, along with tomatoes, peppers, potatoes, chocolate and corn, turkeys were loaded onto Spanish galleons and carried back to Europe. The king of Spain decreed that every returning ship was to bring back 10 turkeys, five male and five female. In what may have been the fastest-rising gastronomical popularity of all New World products, turkey quickly replaced the stringy European peacock on banquet tables.

Much like the Thanksgiving account, the history and mythology of the turkey are full of fascinating tales and plenty of confusion. Here's a platterfull:

What's in a name is not what's on the plate

The turkey (Meleagris gallopavo) bears names, both common and scientific, that have nothing to do with its American origin.

Turkeys didn't come from Turkey. Nonetheless, they were given the name of this Eurasian country because they were at first confused with the guinea fowl, once believed to have originated in Turkish territory. Some sources claim that Columbus decided to call the birds tuka, which was the word for peacock in the language of India. Still, others say that the name turkey came from Native Americans who called the birds firkee, which sounds like turkey, or from the sound turkeys make when they are afraid —'turk, turk, turk."

The turkey is a respectable bird, a true original native of America, Ben Franklin once wrote to his daughter. "He is besides, though a little vain and silly, a bird of courage, and would not hesitate to attack a Grenadier of the British Guards who should presume to invade his farmyard with a red coat on." Photo by Michele Kunjappu, staff writer.

The scientists who named the turkey didn't get it right, either, but added some more mythology into the stuffing mix. The genus name, Meleagris, comes from a Latin word for guinea fowl and from the Greek name Meleager, hero of the Caledonian boar hunt in Greek mythology. The species name, gallopavo, is made up of the Latin words for a cock (gallus) and a peafowl (pavo), meaning a chicken-like peafowl or guinea fowl.

Pavo is the "official" name of turkey in Spanish-speaking countries, but most folks still prefer indigenous names such as guajolote, totole, chompipe and chunto. Another type of turkey, the ocellated turkey (Agriocharis ocellata), still roams wild in the Yucatan Peninsula and Guatemala. The Mayas used to call it cutz.

Blessed bird of abundance

Among Native North Americans, the turkey has a long history of association with spirituality and the honoring of the Earth Mother. It's a symbol of all the blessings that the Earth contains, along with the ability to use them to their greatest advantage.

Turkeys have an intricate mythology among the early inhabitants of the United States and Canada. Among other things, they helped create the world and showed humans how to raise corn and fight off evil spirits. The gobbler is shown outsmarting the owl (a common representation of death and the underworld) and challenging the powerful eagle in combat.

Some stories tell how Indian shamans would turn themselves into turkeys and prowl around other villages. In Hopi creation myths, a male turkey was the first bird to try to raise the sun in the sky —that's how he burnt his head, which remained bald for posterity.

There is also the popular Zuni tale of the Turkey Girl. In it, a ragged turkey herder hears that a Dance of the Sacred Bird is to be held in a nearby village. Her avian friends use their magic to turn her clothes into splendid garments, hawk up silver and jewelry they had collected in their crops for years, and send her off —charging her to return before sunset or prove herself "mean of spirit."

As an animal totem, the turkey is called the "giveaway eagle" or the "life giver." Thus, it is associated with shared blessings, harvest, fertility, grounding and self-sacrifice.

Mesoamerican god of grace

Among the ancient cultures of Mesoamerica —which comprises modern-day Mexico and most of Central America— the turkey occupied a place of honor.

It was, first of all, the most common embodiment of the Aztec god Tezcatlipoca —a powerful warrior, magician and diviner who saw prophetic visions in his mirror of obsidian, from which his name (which means "smoking mirror') was derived.

Tezcatlipoca is typically regarded as a dark and sinister god. However, when the deity manifested himself as Chalchiuhtotolin ('the jeweled turkey'), he conferred good fortune upon people. In Christian terms, Chalchiutotolin's powers can be seen as a type of grace. Although Tezcatlipoca could tempt humans into self-destruction, when he assumed his turkey form he could also cleanse them of contamination, absolve them of guilt, and mitigate their otherwise inexorable calender-based fate. No other god could perform this last function.

To the Aztecs, the deified bird also resided over ritual self-mortification. The ornament he wore over the beak was emblematic of blood sacrifice and the head and neck skin suggested evisceration. The turkey was a walking sacrifice, whose rituals could be copied by humans.

The turkey was also a representation of the Sun God, which takes on different disguises as he travels daily from the east to the west. It has been observed that the color of a turkey's wattle darkens from morning till noon, then lightens as the sun sinks toward the western horizon.

Just like in North America, turkeys were associated with fertility among the Mesoamericans. When describing the animal in his General History of the Things of New Spain, Spanish missionary Bernardino de Sahagn reports that "those people who wish harm on others give them to eat or drink that beak of flesh (snood) the bird has over its beak, which makes them unable to use the virile member."

The Mayas also revered the turkey. In the Temple of Inscriptions of the ancient city of Palenque (Guatemala), there's an image of a sacred turkey, or "Emerald Fowl," to which offerings of maize paste were made.

Eagle out, turkey in

It' true that the turkey became the chosen bird of one of the United States' most significant holidays. However, it's also true that it lost the race to becoming the country's national symbol of pride —an honor that went to the magnificent bald eagle.

In the late 1770s, Benjamin Franklin suggested that the turkey should be the symbol for the fledgling United States. He argued that the bald eagle was no better than a pirate and a fish-eater.

'The turkey is in comparison a much more respectable bird, and withal a true original native of America," Franklin wrote in a letter to his daughter. 'He is besides, though a little vain and silly, a bird of courage, and would not hesitate to attack a Grenadier of the British Guards who should presume to invade his farm yard with a red coat on."

In the end, the turkey lost to the bald eagle by a single congressional vote.

Dear Twig: What's a Canaan fir? I saw some for sale on a Christmas tree lot.
The Canaan (pronounced "ka-nane) fir is a type of balsam fir Balsam firs are evergreens that are very popular Christmas trees People like balsam firs because they're dark green and pretty, hold their needles well and give the whole house a nice balsam smell And Christmas tree farmers like them because they're "high value' trees They sell for more money than other Christmas trees (like pines)
But something makes Canaan firs different Namely they're able to grow in soggy soil and in places that sometimes get late frosts in spring ick Brrr Their roots don t rot and they don t freeze their just opened buds off Ordinary balsams can t say that although they can t talk anyway The Fraser fir another high value tree can t say that e ther So farmers who can t grow other firs are appy to plant the Canaan fir
Canaan firs come from the mountains of West Virginia An Ohio State forestry scientist Jim Brown has worked for more than 20 years to learn more about them and to help farmers grow them Result? The Canaan firs you see for sale
If you happen to buy one think of Jim and thank him as you hang the lights and tinsel

'Tis The Season To Give Homemade Cheese Gifts — Packaging Ideas

Easy, cheesy gifts are simple to create and are ideal for almost everyone on your list:

Mother's Helper — Present a cheese board with wedges of tangy Cheddar, zesty Monterey Jack and savory Parmesan and attach cards with your favorite cheese recipes. Visit ilovecheese.com for a variety of "grate" recipes from baked Brie to Mascarpone fondue.

Dad's Toolbox — Give the tools he'll really use...cheese knives, graters and slicers in a handy toolbox along with a selection of cheeses such as rich Gouda and smooth Provolone.

Kiddie Cut Outs — Share the spirit of the season with kids by giving cheese in fun holiday shapes. Use holiday cookie cutters to cut cheese, then wrap the cheese cutouts in festive plastic wrap.

Family Flavor Favors — You can't go wrong with cheese, America's favorite comfort food. Design coupons for family members good for cheesy meals such as gooey grilled cheese, cheese-alicious pizza and creamy mac and cheese.

Romancing the Cheese — Stay warm by the crackling fire this holiday season with gourmet American-made cow's milk cheeses and a bottle of wine.

Office Treats — Make co-workers merry with goody bags filled with a wedge of cheese like sweet Swiss, smoked Cheddar, and nutty Edam, tie with festive ribbon and attach a cheese knife.

Hostess with the Mostest — Arrive at the party with cheese and wine in hand. Make holiday get-togethers fun — sample pairings with a printer-friendly Cheese and Wine Tasting Kit available on ilovecheese.com.

Guest Goodie Giveaway — Throwing a holiday party? Don't let your guests leave empty-handed. A creamy cheese ball wrapped in festive colored cellophane makes the perfect party favor. Try cookbook author Paula Lambert's Cheddar Cheese Ball with Chutney recipe on ilovecheese.com.

breath, red globe amaranth, and holly leaves gilded with a paint pen.

Finish with a bow made from three yards of burgundy ribbon wired to the top of the wreath with streamers down the sides.

BIRCH LOG ARRANGEMENT

20-inch long birch log
Small handful of Spanish moss
16 sprigs boxwood (two 10-inches long, six 6-inches long, eight 3-inches long)
9 sprigs birch branches (five 9-inches long, four 6-inches long)
20 sprigs white larkspur, 6 inches long
10 dried red roses (three 7-inches long, five 5-inches long, two 3-inches long)
5 sprigs preserved green fern or boxwood, 6-8 inches long
8 pieces white annual statice, 4 inches long
Hot glue gun and glue sticks
1½x1½x1-inch block floral foam
1½ yards red plaid ribbon, 1-inch wide
Medium gauge floral wire
Heavy duty scissors

Hot glue the block of floral foam to the center of the log, positioning the block so that it is 1½ inches long and wide and 1 inch high.

Lay the Spanish moss over the foam, covering completely. Hot glue the moss in place at several points.

Set aside three of the 3-inch sprigs of boxwood and insert the remaining sprigs into the floral foam in an oval pattern, following the shape of the log, hot gluing them in place. Start with two long pieces, positioning them on opposite sides of the bow, and laying them along the length of the log. Arrange the 6-inch pieces next in an oval, and add the five 3-inch pieces.

Hot glue remaining materials to the arrangement, distributing evenly — first the birch branches, larkspur, roses, and fern, ending with statice.

Make a bow with the ribbon and wire the bow at its center with floral wire. Use the scissors to trim the wire ends to 4 inches.

Insert the bow's wire ends into the foam. Hot glue the bow in place at two or three strategic points.

Place a dab of hot glue on the end of a reserved boxwood sprig and insert it into the arrangement through the loops of the bow. Repeat this procedure with the other reserved sprigs.

CEDAR AND PEPPERBERRY SWAG

12 stems cedar, 12 inches long
8 stems boxwood, 10 inches long
12 stems German statice, 6-8 inches long
2 heads cockscomb, 3 inches in diameter
2 stems pepperberries, 5 inches long
Wire cutters
Wire coat hanger
Green floral tape
Medium-gauge floral wire
2 yards green velvet ribbon, 2-inches wide
Fine gauge floral wire
Hot glue gun and glue sticks

Using the wire cutters, clip off the bottom of the wire coat hanger and bend it into an arch. The hook serves as a hanger for the finished swag and will not be noticeable after the greens are attached.

Wrap floral tap around the wire base, covering it completely.

Using medium-gauge floral wire, wire six cedar stems to the center of the arch with their tips pointing to the right.

Wire four stems of boxwood to the left of the swag and four to the right.

Make a bow from the green velvet ribbon and wire the bow around its center with the fine-gauge floral wire. Attach the bow to the center of the swag with the medium-gauge wire.

Hot glue the German statice on both sides of the swag, with all stems pointing to the center.

Hot glue one cockscomb head on each side of bow.

Hot glue a stem of pepperberries or rose hips or holly berries next to each cockscomb head.

Gifts From The Barn

Judy Kurtz, right, and Cindy Wegaman transform "junk" into treasures for home, gift giving, and selling. Recently they presented a workshop on holiday ideas. Some of their ideas for using what you have is to plop a tree or greens into an old tin previously used as a magazine rack, painting snowman on old hat boxes, and painting seasonal messages on pieces of old barn wood.

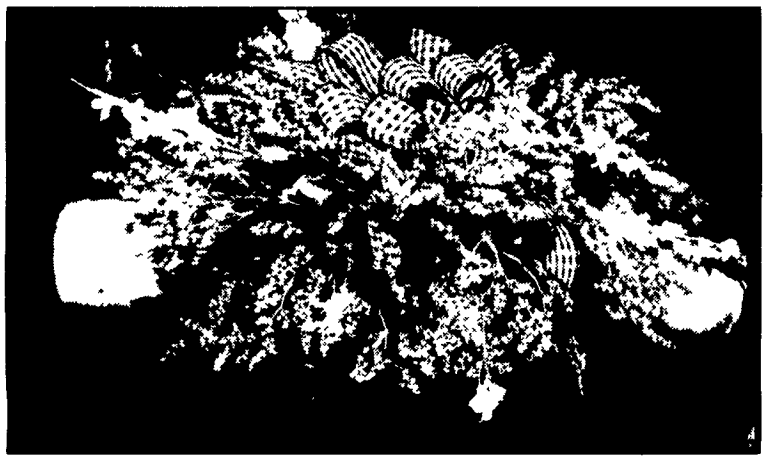
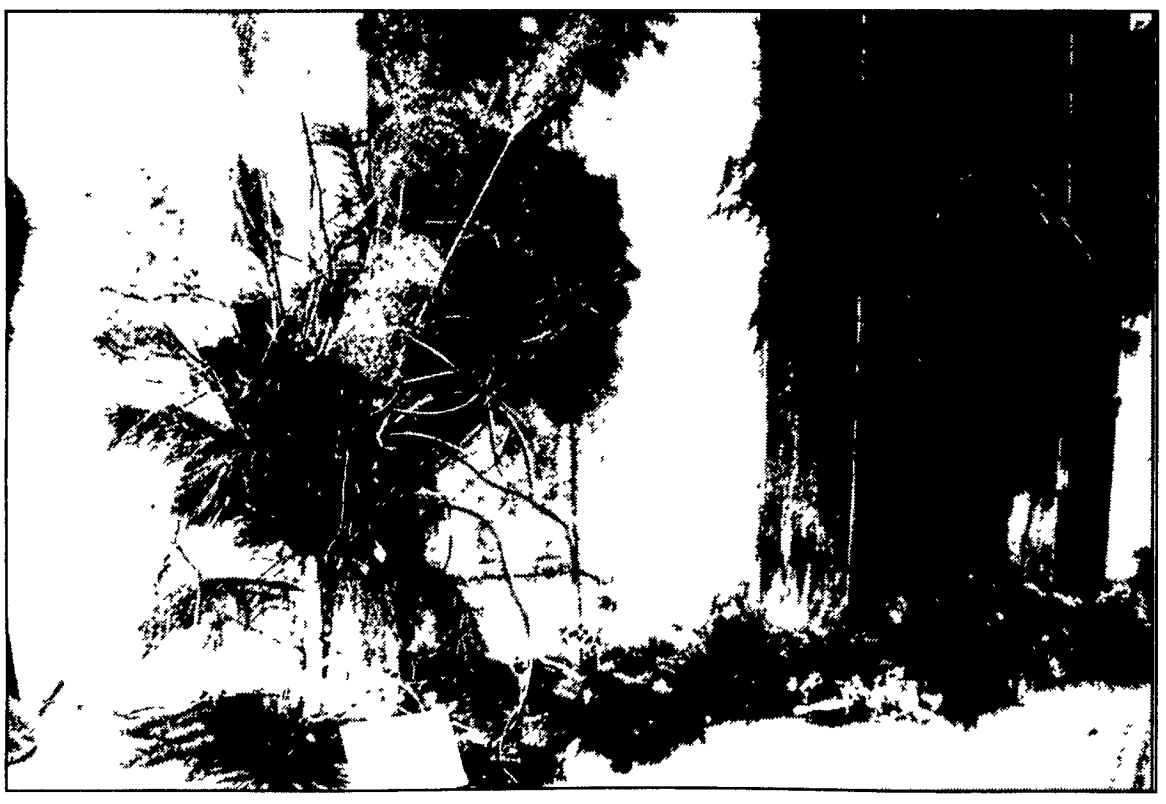
them outside for several days in the rain to rust to duplicate the "rusted" decorating craze. Make a rack by hammering the rusted nails into an old shutter or piece of wood from which to hang candles, baskets, and other things found around your home.

If you'd rather not take the time to use these ideas, but you'd like to have some of these items, they can be purchased from Cindy and Judy at their booth (CJ) in The Mill Property, 2910 Main St., Morgantown. Hours are 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m., seven days a week. Phone (610) 286-8854.



This birch log arrangement can be made by novices.



The Penn State Lebanon County Extension Holiday Program includes many displays by Master Gardeners who also offer tips on harvesting greens and other plants for decorating use. To learn more about the Master Gardener program, contact your county extension office or the Lebanon County office at (717) 270-4391.

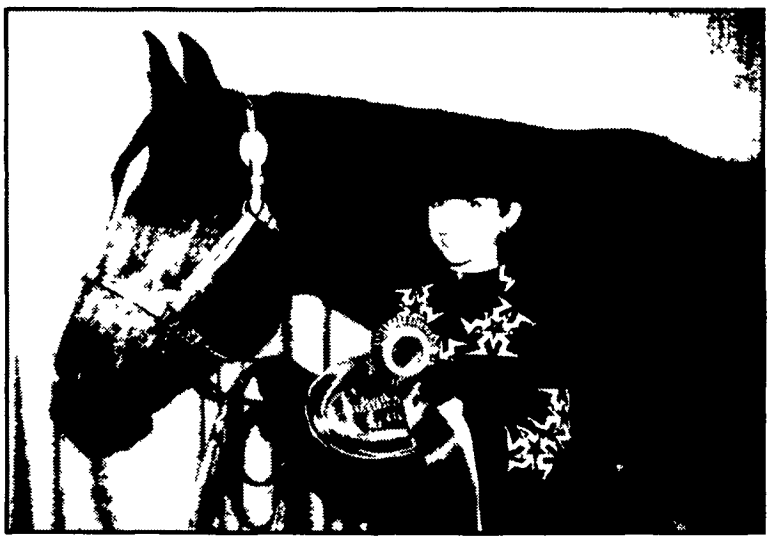
4-H HAPPENINGS



Before being injured, Morgan Fleetwood placed first in the junior division of the western grooming and showmanship at the state 4-H show.

State 4-H Horse Show Winners In Snyder Co.

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Snyder County horse members recently participated in the 43rd annual State 4-H Horse Show, October 25-27 at the State Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Morgan Fleetwood, 12 year-old daughter of Keith and Melinda Fleetwood, was the first place winner in Western Grooming and Showmanship, Junior Division. Several other Snyder County horse club members received recognition in the state contest as well. They were April Beaver, Valerie Blew, Eric Shirk, and Lauren Wagner.

"The members in Snyder County said that the show was a fun experience and they had a great time," says Kathy Weller, Snyder County 4-H Program Coordinator.

Fleetwood had her share of complications earlier this year. Just before the start of the show season her horse Mambo died suddenly. Through the generosity of a local horse owner, she was given a horse named Sweetpea to use during the remainder of the year. However, while riding Sweetpea at the 3-County 4-H Horse Roundup she was thrown and suffered a broken finger. Even though the pair was not able to compete in the remainder of the classes, they had already completed the grooming and showmanship contest and placed first, which made them eligible to participate at districts. The pair performed skillfully at districts, placing fourth and qualifying for the state show.

More than 900 winners from county and district competitions vied for awards. Snyder County had five 4-H'ers entered in the competition. Events tested skills in showmanship, equitation, pleasure, jumping, driving and timed events.

State 4-H Horse Show Winners In Cambria County

Cambria County 4-H horse members received 19 awards at the 43rd Annual State 4-H Horse Show, Oct. 25-27, at the State Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

County winners in 4-H performance classes were: pole bending ponies: Michelle Smith of Summerhill - first place. Clover leaf barrel race ponies: Michelle Smith, Summerhill - fourth place; raised box keyhole ponies: Dana Alexander, Johnstown - fourth place and Michelle Smith, Summerhill - fifth; saddle seat equitation senior: Kara Miller, Ebensburg - first place and Megan Moschgat, Ebensburg - second place.

Saddle seat pleasure ponies: Kara Miller, Ebensburg - first and Kara Simanski - fifth; saddle seat pleasure horses: Megan Moschgat, Ebensburg - third place. Hunter under saddle horse senior: Deanna Wicks, Mineral Point - 10th place. Pleasure pony driving: Ashley Smith, Loretto - seventh place, and draft horse driving, Laekyn Wright, Salix - third place.

In 4-H horse production classes, members breed and raise their own project animal. Local winners were: Haflinger, filly of this year/yearling filly: 1. and 2. Kathryn C. Gagermeier of Loretto placed first and second; half Arabian: 2-year-old gelding, Kara Simansk, of Lilly - third; and yearling filly, Amie Simanski, Lilly - third; miniature horses: filly of this year, Ashley M. Smith, Loretto - fourth and yearling filly, Candice Smith, Loretto - fifth place; western pleasure: 4-year-old pleasure futurity, Jennifer Stossel, Windber - sixth place.

"The competition gave 4-H'ers an opportunity to display their horsemanship skills," said Scott Myers, 4-H and youth development agent in Cambria County.

The Pennsylvania team placed 26th overall in the contest which included classes of beef, sheep and swine, including both market and breeding animals. Donough had the team's high distinction of placing seventh as an individual in sheep judging.

Snyder County 4-H, Extension Recap Year

Snyder County 4-H and Penn State Cooperative Extension-Snyder County held a combined annual banquet on November 14, to celebrate the 100th anniversary of 4-H. The banquet was held at the Freeburg-Washington Community Center with more than 100 people in attendance.

During the evening meal, guests were able to view slide presentations of 4-H events that took place during the last 80 years. Many of the people in attendance were overheard to say that they had seen themselves or someone they knew in the slides.

Current members and retiring members of the boards were recognized for their service to the organizations. Retiring members from the extension board were Jerry Rice, Brad Hawk, Mervin Heimbach, Don Schwalm, and Isabel Zerby. The following 4-H foundation members were also honored for their service: Carrie Bomgardner, Shawn Frantz, and Donald Keller.

Elections of new members took place as well. Elected to the Snyder County Cooperative Extension were Harvey Kreamer, Melinda Fleetwood, Marla Connahan, and Jennifer McWilliams. Elected to a 3 year term on the 4-H Foundation as adult directors were Carrie Bomgardner, Beth Hoover, and Sam Geise. The following teens were elected to serve a one year term on the 4-H Foundation; Caleb Hoffman, Dawn Heimbach, April Beaver, and Lauren Cochran as an alternate.

Each year the 4-H Foundation recognizes a person(s) or business in the community who has demonstrated a tremendous amount of support for the 4-H program. This year's recipient is Carolyn Shirk. Carolyn is the marketing director and vice president at Swineford National Bank. She has actively supported the Snyder County 4-H program for the past seven years. She was a member of the Foundation Board during 1998-2000, has assisted in the auditing of the Foundation records and 4-H books, and has also been involved in the promotional activities of 4-H.

Shawn Frantz, right, presents Carolyn Shirk with the 2002 Friend of 4-H Award.

Carolyn strongly promotes 4-H at the annual Scooper Bowl, which is sponsored by Swineford National Bank and Big Country Radio, and is held during Dairy Days at the Susquehanna Valley Mall. During the past seven years Swineford has donated in excess of $5,000 to the 4-H Program.

Current 4-H volunteers and leaders were also recognized for their years of service. Volunteers received certificates and/or pins for one to 45 years of dedication to the program.

Christopher Swineford and Carolyn Shirk of Swineford National Bank, presented a representative from each of the 16 clubs with a basic club kit from funds raised during this years Scooper Bowl. Each kit contains 4-H and American flags, banners with the 4-H motto and pledge printed on them, a gavel, and also a book on Roberts Rules of Order.

The entertainment for the evening was the Hoffmans Brothers Quartet. Caleb, Aaron, Seth and Michael, sons of Jonathan and Sherrie Hoffman of Mt. Pleasant Mills, entertained the guests with family and patriotic songs. Shirley Bixby, Susquehanna Regional Director of Cooperative Extension and Outreach, was also in attendance.

"I hope that by combining the 4-H banquet with the Extension banquet this year we have shown everyone in attendance just how important 4-H is to our county", said Kathy Weller, Snyder County 4-H program coordinator.

Dauphin County 4-H Horse Club Members Earn Awards At State Show

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Dauphin County 4-H horse members received eight awards at the 43rd Annual State 4-H Horse Show at the State Farm Show.

County winners in 4-H performance classes were: Brandy Lower, Halifax, first — open trail horses, first — western riding, and eighth — stock seat equitation, senior.; Alexa Sonner, Hummelstown, third — western grooming and showmanship, junior; Alex Haug, Hershey, eighth — pleasure horse driving; and Julie Whitehaus, Hummelstown, tenth — miniature horse driving.

In 4-H horse production classes, members breed and raise their own project animal. Local winners were: Brandy Lower, Halifax, first — miniature horse yearling colt; and Todd Hoffman, Harrisburg, second — quarter horse yearling filly.

Several other Dauphin County horse club members received recognition in the state contest. They were: Kara Gunderman, Elizabethville; Alison Frank, Halifax; Ashley Herb, Millersburg; Kelly Quigley, Dauphin, Caitlin Miller, Jonestown; and Megan Deveney, Enola.

Halifax 4-H'er Wins Three State Horse Awards

Brandy Lower of Halifax recently won three state championships at the 2002 Pennsylvania State 4-H Horse Show.

She rode her gelding, Swamp Fox Devil to victory in two classes; open trail horses and western riding.

Her miniature horse, Rowdy Lil Levi, a yearling colt, placed first in his class.

When Time Is Right, Young Bucks Move On — Sometimes A Long Way

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — When scientists from Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and the Pennsylvania Game Commission began tracking young, male white-tailed deer last winter to learn how they disperse, the researchers weren't sure what to expect.

For years it was believed that deer in Pennsylvania don't move around much. But wildlife experts knew that for genetic reasons deer populations should minimize inbreeding, so it made sense that the males would leave the area where they were born. Now, almost a year into the study, a fascinating picture of young buck dispersal is emerging.

"Movement of young bucks is certainly not related to quality of habitat of a deer's home range," says Duane Diefenbach, adjunct assistant professor of wildlife resources with the Pennsylvania Cooperative Fish and Wildlife Research Unit, a joint effort of Penn State, the Game Commission, the Pennsylvania Fish and Boat Commission and the U.S. Geologic Survey. "We see young bucks leaving natal home ranges with good habitat and traveling to other areas of good habitat. It's almost like the doe gives them the message that it is time to go."

Researcher and graduate student Eric Long has been intrigued by the dispersal paths of the young bucks he is tracking. One swam the Allegheny River and crossed several highways during his 15-mile journey.

"We have found that 40 percent of male fawns born the year before leave their mother the following spring at about the time she is ready to have a new litter of fawns," Long says. "Then during the rut in early fall, many of the rest leave. We don't know whether the does somehow tell them they should leave, or if the young bucks get wanderlust from wanting to be involved in breeding activity. Maybe both."

The joint, three-year study — intended to be the most extensive radio-telemetry study of male deer dispersal, survival and the effects of antler restrictions for hunting ever attempted in the United States — started last December when 141 male deer were captured in Armstrong and Centre counties. Those deer — caught using helicopters, drop nets, walk-in traps and tranquilizer dart guns — were radio-collared and released unharmed. Researchers have been tracking their movements ever since.

The two sites offer dramatically different landscapes, Long points out, and that probably accounts for a difference in dispersal rates of young bucks. "At the Armstrong County site near Kittanning, which is mostly rolling hills with patches of forest and open agricultural areas often divided by roads, 44 percent of bucks that were collared left their mothers in the spring. On average they went about seven miles.

"At the Centre County site, which is less fragmented and features continuous forested ridges, 24 percent of young bucks dispersed in the spring," says Long. "They didn't move as far on average — about five miles. The maximum dispersal distance we have seen in Centre County was 13 and a half miles."

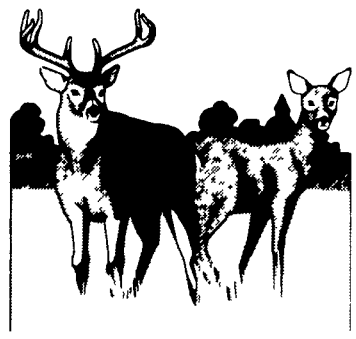
Mortality of animals has been about what researchers expected. At the Armstrong County site, four were killed by vehicles on roads, two were killed by poachers prior to hunting seasons and two were harvested during the first week of archery season. One of those was a 13-point buck — one of the few older bucks included in the study.

At the Centre County site, just one deer in the study has been killed on highways, and so far, archers have killed no deer in the study area. According to Long, the Centre County site has a higher human population, but far fewer miles of road than the Armstrong County site.

"There has been very little mortality and no predation of study animals," Diefenbach says. "Hunting is clearly the big factor in deer management. But we knew that."

Early information yielded by the research dispels some myths about Pennsylvania deer, Long notes. "From a management perspective, we know that we can't manage deer in a small area," he says. "There is a lot of interchange between animals and areas. Landowners should realize that there is a good chance that the bucks they see on their property probably weren't born there. There is a lot more interchange than people were expecting."

This information likely will be of great interest to hunters, Long speculates. "There have been suggestions that landowners could introduce big-racked bucks to pass on their genes to offspring males that will have bigger racks," he says. "But we are seeing now that the young male deer probably won't stay in the area.



They more likely are producing bucks for landowners in the next valley, or even the next county."

Moreover, Gary Alt, deer management section supervisor for the Game Commission, points out that Pennsylvania deer don't need better genes, they just need to live a year longer. "We know from our research that two-and-a-half-year-old Pennsylvania bucks sport a seven- or eight-point rack with an outside spread of 15 inches," he says.

The Pennsylvania Game Commission's Web site, http://www.pgc.state.pa.us, is keeping a running journal of the study. For more information, click on 'Wildlife," then "Deer in Pennsylvania" and then "Antlered Deer Study."

Time To Have Heaters Inspected

As the weather turns colder throughout much of the country, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) urges consumers to have a professional inspection of all fuel-burning heating systems — including furnaces, boilers, fireplaces, water heaters and space heaters — to detect potentially deadly carbon monoxide (CO) leaks.

Under certain conditions, all appliances that burn fuels can leak deadly CO. These fuels include kerosene, oil, coal, both natural and liquefied petroleum gas, and wood.

"Having a professional inspection of your fuel-burning heating appliances is the first line of defense against the silent killer, carbon monoxide poisoning," said CPSC Chairman Hal Stratton.

CPSC recommends that the yearly professional inspection include checking chimneys, flues and vents for leakage and blockage by debris. Birds, other animals, and insects sometimes nest in vents and block exhaust gases, causing the gases to enter the home. In addition, all vents to furnaces, water heaters, boilers and other fuel-burning heating appliances should be checked to make sure they are not loose or disconnected.

Also, have your appliances inspected for gas leaks and adequate ventilation. A supply of fresh air is important to help carry pollutants up the chimney, stovepipe or flue, and is necessary for the complete combustion of any fuel. Never block ventilation air openings. Also, make sure the appliance is operating on the fuel that it is designed to use. To convert an appliance to burn propane, it must be modified by a professional.

These items are needed for the general store at the museum. Call (717) 382-9811.

QUESTION — Victor Chmura, Pottstown, would like to find out how to remove stinging nettles from his flower garden. A previous home owner planted several plants in the garden and now they've taken over the whole plot. Burning, bleaching, and herbicides have killed them for a short time, but they keep coming back stronger than before.

QUESTION — A reader would appreciate if anyone has some Macomber rutabaga seeds to sell. Or is there a seed company that sells them or another variety that they have tried that taste sweeter and milder than Laurentian or American yellow or American purple-top (Golden Neckless).

ANSWER — Ray Calvin Miller Jr., Leesport, is requesting expert information on how to clean the exterior of a brick building. It was built in the 1930s. The bricks are yellow and brown and have been topped with aluminum capping as well as some copper. Over the years, stain runs have formed. Miller has a steam cleaner but needs to know the best chemical solution to use. Thanks to Bob Snyder, Akron, Ohio, for writing that he thinks the best method to clean a porous surface such as brick is to blast with sand, ice, baking soda, etc. Snyder did not include specific instructions or where to find them.

★★ New Products Now Available ★★
~ • The Advantages of the Fiberglass Wheels are: ~ Fiberglass Wheels
• Very Low Maintenance Costs
These wheels are built to last a lifetime and beyond without ever having to replace any parts on the wheels under normal use The only maintenance required will be tightening up or replacing the tire or rubber
• High Performance Regardless of the Elements
Wheels stay tight even in hot, dry conditions -- No more loose rattling spokes -- ever!
• Rugged Heavy Duty Design
It takes a major accident or impact to break or twist these wheels
• Hard Durable Surface
Resists scuffs and scratches paint job stays shinier
• Easier Cleaning
Spokes have all rounded corners no tight spots for dirt to get into ~ • The Advantages of the Fiberglass Springs are: ~ Fiberglass Springs
• Lightweight
A fiberglass spring weighs 22 lbs less than a steel spring, 44 lbs less weight on the carriage
• Durable One Piece Design
No bolts to give out or wear
• Better Performance With Heavy Loads
The more weight, the better the ride will not go flat and bottom out
• No Rusting Ever
Paint will not blister or peel off No rust stains running out between the plys providing a nicer appearance and much easier cleaning
• A Lifetime Guarantee
If these springs ever break under normal use we will replace them free of charge
• Stabilizer Kits – Now Available
For a smoother ride and less bounce
★ Install these wheels and springs on your next new carriage or replace your old ones. ★

Records Set At Fifth All-Dairy Antiques Show

DR. DARWIN G. BRAUND
Pasto Museum Curator

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Records for attendance, exhibitors, states represented, and quality of items were all set at the fifth annual All-Dairy Antiques and Collectibles Show conducted Sept. 21-25 in Harrisburg.

The Jersey breed was featured. Twenty breeders and enthusiasts from Pennsylvania and Maryland provided beautiful displays of rare photographs, paintings, Elsie and Elmer (Borden) items, and porcelain cow models from around the world. Anchoring the central Jersey exhibit were original signed, oil-on-canvas paintings done in 1892 by an itinerant artist. According to owner, Margaret P. Kendall, State College, the prize Jersey heifer and bull belonged to her great uncle, Milton C. Paige, who operated a dairy farm in Manchester, N.H.

Also in the center display case was a "herd" of rare porcelain and other Jersey models (bulls, cows, calves) exhibited by W. Paul Anderson, State College; Patty McMurray, Eighty Four; Dr. Duane Norman, Fulton, Md.; Penn State Department of Dairy and Animal Sciences, University Park; and Jeff and Michele Reasner, Newburg.

Seventy-six exhibitors from 12 states reveal the show's success. Five years ago only 18 exhibitors set up displays.

Fourteen "charter" exhibitors returned for their fifth consecutive year and were awarded special commemorative plaques during the Sunday open house. These included Donald Ace, State College; Darwin Braund, State College; Diane and Martin Brumbaugh, Curryville; Leslie and Elaine Firth, Mercer; Donald Lerch, Camp Hill; Lolly and William Lesher, Bernville; David Morrow, State College; Catherine and Willard Odenwelder, Myerstown; Pasto Agricultural Museum, University Park; Michele and Jeffrey Reasner, Newburg; Martha and James Roberts, Scio, N.Y.; William (Bill) Smith, Lancaster; Ellie and Margin Stout, Tunkhannock; and Arlene and Claude Wambold, Perkiomenville.

These oil paintings were done by M.E.B. Miller, itinerant artist, in exchange for wintertime room and board.

Many rare and unusual things are displayed in this beautiful exhibit of small dairy items. The Dazey glass ice cream freezer sold for $950 and the wooden White Mountain pint ice cream freezer brought $695.

All exhibitors were introduced and presented with certificates of participation by Charles Itle, director of the All-American Dairy Cattle Show.

Martha and Jim Roberts of Scio, N.Y. received very special awards of lifetime memberships in the National Dairy Shrine from Darwin Braund, volunteer manager of the All-Dairy Antiques and Collectibles Show. In making the presentation he emphasized the show committee wanted to recognize the Roberts for five years of dedicated support with Martha's Milk House. This exhibit is for display and education only — nothing is sold.

It consists of a portable 1900s milk house with hundreds of antiques and collectibles with special emphasis on old and extremely unusual items. One of the Roberts' favorites is an 1856 American Cow Company "automatic" milker. Many of the items belonged to Martha's grandparents.

The most unusual item on display by the Roberts is a 1934 deposit bottle return produced by the Bottle Saver Co. of Buffalo, N.Y. It is in mint condition after extensive reconditioning by Jim. Years ago the consumer would return the quart milk bottle to the retail market and receive a nickel in exchange automatically by this apparatus.

Twin brothers Arthur and Alfred Reist and their families from Lancaster provided special exhibits. Their original heavy hitch fifth-wheel milk wagon from Price's Dairy, Cold Springs Farms was a magnificent piece. Their beautifully restored one horse, home delivery wagon attracted much attention. An original condition dog and goat wagon provided an interesting contrast in size.

Advertising and promotional signs were abundant. Of special note were two Jersey signs. They were exhibited by three generations of the Williams family. Grandfather Sam Williams, the patriarch of Pennsylvania Jersey breeders, purchased the farm near Middletown in 1933. Son Tom now owns and operates the home farm and grandson Craig, is an extension dairy agent in Tioga County.

Another unique piece was a porcelain Bull Association sign. Circa early 1920s and was exhibited by the Pasto Agricultural Museum. The first cooperative bull association in Pennsylvania was organized in 1916 in Mercer County. Sponsorship of extension work by Farm Bureau in Pennsylvania ceased in 1924. All of this preceded the introduction of artificial breeding of dairy cows in the early 1940s.

Twenty-five milk bottle collectors were among the total 76 exhibitors and their displays added beauty, variety and additional interest to the overall show. An exhibit of elegant condensed milk jars by Margin and Ellie Stout, Tunkhannock attracted much attention and favorable comments. The background and history on a large count added interest.

The show officially opened at 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 21 although early birds were wandering through as exhibitors finished their final preparations. Among early visitors were Duane and Grace Green from Elsie, Mich. They have been multi-year attendees and always return home with many select items purchases from several exhibitors to add to their extensive collection. Duane said they "might" exhibit in 2003. The "long dis

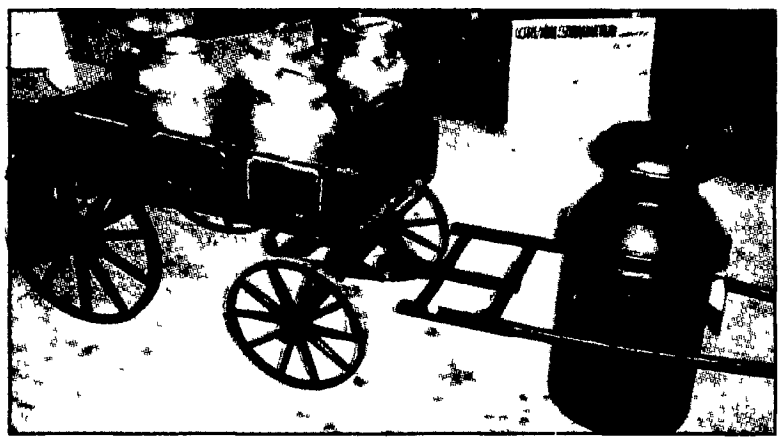
A bull association was a group of farmers owning jointly three or more bulls and organized with written constitution and bylaws. This early 1920s sign had two large holes probably made by high-powered rifle or shotgun slugs — a very common indignity inflicted on nearly all signs on barns and outbuildings.



This original child's Badger Farm Wagon could be pulled by a large dog or goat. The large milk can (11½-gallon or 100-pound) was embossed "Hershey Creamery Co. 1923" and sold for $150.

Early milk equipment displayed by Martha and Jim Roberts.

Beverly Robison Minor (1959 Pennsylvania Dairy Princess) stands beside Jersey milk bottles from dairy of her late father (Clyde Robison) and lovely Jersey prints she and her sister, Connie Robison Lusk, collected.

Antiques Questions And Answers

Could you tell me something about this solid mahogany chair, buffet and dining table? I was told they are Chippendale style.

I.M. - Stanton, Nebraska

From your photo your dining furniture was made around 1910-1920. The style is an adaptation of the Chippendale leg and foot. It was mass produced and possibly sold in a Sears catalog.

A friend gave me this beautiful table that I have been told was made by the Eastlake Furniture Co. and could date to the early 1900s.

The front drawer has a carved vine design. Is my information correct ? What is the value?

T.B. - Apollo, PA

Your small golden oak table has hints of the late Eastlake style (1879s-1890), but the use of golden oak could place it closer to 1900.

Similar pieces sell in antique shops for $600 or more.

This statue of a woman in Grecian or Roman costume holds a cogwheel in the left had and her right hand rests on a hammer and anvil. No markings.

Overall the metal has oxidized to charcoal color. It isn't iron. What can you tell me?

J.G. -Staten Island, NY

Your figure is made of spelter: cast from commercial zinc and coated with a metallic patina. It was done in the late 19th century and could sell for $300 or more at auction.

I have a china cup and saucer, with a picture of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth on both items. It belonged to my grandmother. The bottom of the saucer is marked, Alfred Meakinn, England.

What is the value? It was made in 1939.

T.G. - San Antonio, FL

Your cup and saucer could sell for $85-$95 in a shop.

I would like some information on my Franciscan china. My set, is marked Stangl, in Trenton, N.J. Sculptured fruit. Since 1805.

M.H.M. - Whitfield, NJ

You don't have Franciscan china; it is Stangl. Stangl pottery had its beginnings became Fulper Pottery. Johann Martin Stangl, German-born, became president of the firm in 1928. His name is on the pottery from the late 1920s till the early 1950s. Stangl is best know for bird and animal figures.

You have one of his dinnerware patterns "sculptured fruit," made in the early 1950s. A single 10" plate can sell for $15-20 in a shop.

I've had this bench of carved wood and hand tooled leather for years. It was given to me by Colonel who served in Europe in WWIII. It has a carved dedication on the back and a profile of the German poet Johann Geothe (1749-1832). Any information will be helpful.

D.P. - Oklahoma City, OK

Your interesting bench with carved back and arms was made mid-19th century. It could fetch $2,000 or more at auction.

This bottle has a ballerina figure inside and plays The Blue Danube on its music box. I haven't opened it to know what the liquid is. The bottle says, "Bols Ballerina Bottle." Nobody knows what it is.

V.M. - Sunrise, FL

Your bottle contains some type of liquor made by Bols liqueur Co. It could be of interest to a collector of bottles made after 1960 and could sell for $40.

I have four cups and sauces with the colorful Geisha girls, etc. pattern.

The only markings are in green ink. "Made in Japan." They belonged to my mother years ago. I would like to know something about them and what they are worth.

R.F. - Ford City, PA

Yours is one of several hundred, different patterns known as "Geisha Girl," made in Japan from the late 19th to early 20th century. A single cup and saucer in your pattern could sell in a shop for $25 a pair.

This vase was a wedding present. It it eight inches tall with a "v" indentation on the bottom. It was identified by the shop where purchased as being Chinese, c. 1860. It is porcelain and has the raised figure of a dragon encircling the top and neck. It has a painting of a bird and flowers.

Can you give me a "ball-park" evaluation?

T.T. - Vandergrift, PA

Your vase appears to be Chinese-style, but the lack of Chinese marks and the "v" lead me to believe it is Victorian, mid-19th century, European.

It requires a hands-on appraisal to truly judge the type of porcelain.

I inherited my grandfather's china shaving mug with his fraternal symbol "Odd Fellows" on it. Does it have any value?

S.E. - Atlanta, GA

It could sell in a shop for $50.

tance" award would probably go to Steve and Cheryl Wallace who came all the way from Casper, Wyo.

During its five years this show has developed a well-deserved reputation for attracting a wide variety of high quality, rare and unusual butter churns. made in all shapes, size and materials they were ubiquitous in exhibits. Les Firth seemed to have cornered the market on Davis Swing Churns exhibiting four of the six sizes.

Exhibitors with items for purchase reported excellent sales. High quality butter churns, advertising signs, weather vanes, cheese safes, milk bottles, and "go withs" brought strong prices. A quart milk bottle exhibited by an anonymous exhibitor had been purchased earlier in the summer for $2,500.

This show has developed into a major market for buying and selling high quality dairy antiques and collectibles. Negative impacts on this show due to the economy or world events were not apparent.

Visitors were surveyed. Forty-six percent were attending their first time, while 20 percent had attended all five shows. They rated the 2002 show as follows: Fair — 0; Good — 20 percent; Very Good — 55 percent; Excellent — 25 percent. Ninety-five percent said they would return next year.

Dates for 2003 are Saturday, Sept. 20 through Thursday, Sept. 25, one day longer than this year.

THE ANTIQUE DETECTIVE

Anne Gilbert

Is This The Time To Sell Antiques, Collectibles?

If Christmas shopping and the recession have put a big hole in your bank account, this could just be the right time to unload antiques, collectibles and "junk."

Keep in mind that "beauty is in the eye of the beholder." The objects cluttering closets and garages can put money in your pocket. As one successful garage sale person told me, "Honey, people always buy junk...including me. Junk is irresistible."

At the top end of antiques is another theory that is proven; rare and costly antiques will always find a wealthy buyer or dealer.

Which means the average antique and collectible is left in limbo. In troubled financial times people crowd garage and estate sales hoping to either find a bargain or to parlay a two dollar purchase into a future $20 sale. How well the seller does depends on not only what he sells but where he sells it.

Many people do well with collectibles on the internet. Begin by seeing if there are items similar to yours listed, the asking price, and for how much do they actually bring.

Exposure is important and certainly the internet sites offer it.

Ever since Roadshow became a television happening, auction houses have been deluged with mail. So much so that they don't bother to answer unless the item is going to sell for big bucks. My own experiences with auction houses includes getting answers from Wm. Doyle Galleries. No answers in five different categories from Skinner. I like the way Butterfield and Butterfield, San Francisco, California, does it via the internet.

You scan a photo and e-mail it, with a letter describing the item. They e-mail back with an estimated value, and the rest is up to you.

Look in the antiques magazines for auctions. Items that fit into the auction houses specialties can do well. For instance medium range items in various collectibles categories do well at James D. Julia auctions in Fairfield, Maine. Toys, advertising items, and Victorian art glass are staples. Printed items, books, maps, and photographs do well at Swann Galleries in New York.

Don't be discouraged if you know you have an object worth more than a thousand dollars (you've researched), yet three auction houses have rejected it. The fourth may buy it.

Several years ago I submitted a Chinese calligraphy (book form), 18th century to three auction houses. It had been in the family for years, and I feared it would get damaged. The fourth auction house accepted it, although they didn't expect more than $1,000 for it.

Surprise! It sold for $25,000 after two Koreans fought it out.

Always insist on a reserve that means your object can't be sold under that price.

CLUES: Spend a few dollars on several of the Price Guides to get an idea of what your items could sell for. Warmen's, Kovel's, and Schroeder's are in most book stores. Be realistic about your treasures. Sentiment doesn't count. Expect less than half if you sell using their prices.

Unusual or one-of-a-kind antiques stand a better chance than mass-produced items.

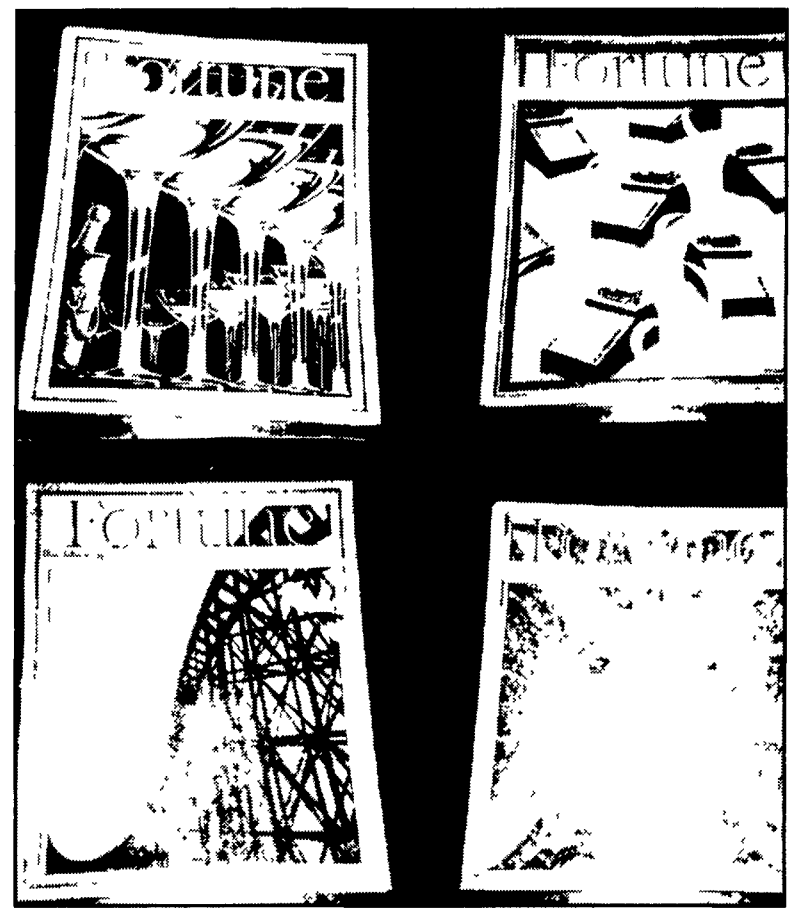
Exceptions include Modernism pieces, Art Deco, and 20th century toys. Be aware of what 20th century items are popular with buyers. Remember just about everything is being collected — but isn't selling for big money.

Old magazines can add up to good money depending on subject matter, condition and scarcity. Popular are those with old car advertisements or unusual covers. "Fortune" magazines from the 1930s-1940s can sell for $30 or more apiece. Covers and ads are taken apart by dealers and sold as art for $25 and up.

Those with art by famous illustrators such as Maxfield Parrish and Norman Rockwell are eagerly sought.

Take photos and small objects to the antique shows. You'd be surprised how much money you can make with little treasures. Dealers are always on the lookout.

Don't take junk to the shows. Have a garage sale for cheap, cheap prices. A good idea is a table with a sign reading "nothing over $1." People do love junk.



Fortune magazine pages and "Fortune" magazine covers.

Mojolica, Tile Auction A First For David Rago Auctions

LAMBERTVILLE, N.J. — David Rago Auctions launched two new auction series on Sunday, October 6, in their Lambertville, New Jersey galleries. Nick Dawes and Suzanne Perrault, both regular appraisers appearing on the popular PBS series, Antiques Road Show, each curated their own sale in Victorian Majolica and Art Tiles, respectively.

The in-room crowd was joined by telephone participants from across the nation, numerous absentee bidders, and a host of registered players on eBay's I-Collector. More than 250 people participated in the event.

Of the collection of more than 100 pieces of Majolica, among the most notable pieces include a particularly good Portuguese Palissy Ware cabbage-leaf coffeepot, circa 1880, which sold for $3,737. Another piece of Portuguese Palissy Ware, an unusual Portuguese Palissy Ware coffee pot, circa 1900, modeled as a rustic tree stump with lizard handle and spout and a woodpecker finial, fetched $2,070. Also of note is a richly decorated Delphin Massier Majolica Art Nouveau ewer, circa 1910, which sold for over $1,300. In addition, a French Choisy-Le-Roi Majolica conservatory stool, circa 1880, sold for double its estimate at $1,610.

Dawes, author of the standard work Majolica, and a former vice-president of Sotheby's, said of the sale: "I'm already looking forward to next year's auction which we hope to hold next spring. We are accepting consignments of Victorian Majolica in good condition." Mr. Dawes can be contacted directly at 212-473-5111 or HYPERLINK "mailto:nmdawes@aol.com" nmdawes@aol.com .

The all-tile session started with a stunning group of majolica tiles, seven rare Art Nouveau panels hand-painted by Carl Luber at the firm of Johann von Schwarz ca. 1900. All but one sold within the estimates. This was followed by a group of fine German and Belgian Art Nouveau tiles in multiple friezes, which also did very well. Two Villeroy & Boch tiles with fish brought $860, and a single fish tile by Ernst Teichert sold for $520. The majolica theme continued with American and European embossed panels in single-color glazes, several of which had been modeled by the sculptor Isaac Broome.

Several important hand-painted plaques were then offered, including a rare Rookwood Standard Glaze image by Grace Young ($3,737), and two barbotine-painted by Charles Volkmar, the first of which brought $8,625, a record for this artist, and the second $4,600. A handful of hand-painted 6" Dutch tiles by Rozenburg and Distel followed, all of which did well, in particular two snow scenes after du Chattel ($837) and Anton Mauve ($862).

The Arts and Crafts selection overall brought excellent prices, with two rare Grueby oak tree tiles selling for over $5,000 apiece. By the same token, an impressive architectural faience fountain by the same maker representing Bacchus, and covered in a spectacular matte green glaze, bought-in at $6000. Rookwood offerings met a mixed fate, with a variety of trivets and six-inch tiles selling in the $300 range, while a couple of large cuenca scenics and several architectural pieces failed to attract buyers. Other architectural faience fared better, with a rare offering of tiles designed by George Elmslie in the 1930s for Indiana schools selling during (2) and after (1) the sale. A stark Saturday Evening Girls trivet brought a surprising $575.

California tiles were very successful in general, with Claycraft, Batchelder, and Gladding McBean fetching high prices: a pair of Claycraft tall and narrow landscape panels brought over $2,000, and a Gladding McBean four-tile panel sold for $1500. Tile-top tables covered with California tiles from the 1920s and 1930s also proved popular, especially a six-tile table by the Taylor Tilery featuring Spanish dancers, which brought over $860.

This period was also represented by a great variety of makers, both from here and abroad. A rare North Dakota School of Mines trivet with rabbits sold for over $1200, and a pair of San Jose bookends went for almost $750. The popular Dutch maker De Porceleyne Fles was thoroughly represented with small and large tiles of animals, local costumes, and ships, going from $250 for a pair of 4 ¼" tiles, to $630 for a panel with fish.

A second grouping of Art Nouveau tiles did not fare as well as the first, with several lots of stencil- or squeezebag-decorated panels failing to sell.

Tile-collecting has grown steadily in this country during the last decade, from being a minor part of arts and crafts or art pottery collections, to a serious field in and of itself, with more than a dozen books published during that time.

For more information, contact Suzanne Perrault at the Perrault-Rago Gallery of David Rago Auctions, 333 N. Main St., Lambertville, NJ 08530, or telephone at (609) 397-1802.

Blanket Relegated To Attic Fetches $35,200

OTEGO, N.Y. - An early 19th century Indian blanket found in an Oneonta, N.Y., attic brought $35,200 at Hesse Galleries' November 2 auction.

The blanket was found among a group of ordinary quilts that had long ago been relegated to the attic. In worn condition, the blanket had been almost thrown away by the owners. Advertised by Hesse Galleries as an important American Indian item, it drew wide attention from collectors and dealers across the country. After spirited bidding from both audience and phone bidders, it sold to a prominent collector/dealer in Colorado.

Included in the auction was a Transitional child's wearing blanket that sold for $4,180.

A large offering of antique firearms were also sold. Leading this category was a presentation pistol dated 1861 and presented to Second Lt. Gen W. Wildrick, hammered down at $6,050.

A Winchester 1866 Yellow Boy rifle brought $6,710; a Revolutionary War Brown Bess musket sold for $3,080; a bayonet that fit the Brown Bess was sold separately for $247; and a 1766 Charlesville musket with original flint hammered out at $2,640.

A variety of other related objects complemented the sale, including period trunks, edged weapons, cutlery, canteen, and powder horns.

NCGA, ASA, AFBF Concerned About Compliance Infractions

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The National Corn Growers Association (NCGA), American Soybean Association (ASA), and American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) reaffirmed their support for developing pharmaceutical and industrial crops through agricultural biotechnology.

The groups expressed confidence that these new technologies can be introduced without jeopardizing the safety of the food supply. The groups' joint statement came following announcement that USDA is investigating possible contamination of crops in Nebraska by field trials of pharmaceutical corn.

According to reports, Animal Plant and Health Inspection Service (APHIS) inspectors have evidence that soybeans harvested on a farm in Nebraska were mixed with residue from volunteer corn (stalks from leftover seed in the field) following a field trial of genetically-altered corn conducted last year. APHIS determined that ProdiGene, the biotech company responsible for the trial, had failed to properly control volunteer corn plants that emerged when the field was planted to soybeans this year.

ASA President Dwain Ford said, "ASA is pleased that USDA's regulatory and monitoring procedures prevented the affected soybeans from moving beyond the single elevator where they were first stored, and that all soybeans that may have commingled with the ProdiGene corn product will be destroyed. The action taken by APHIS clearly displays the regulatory process is working."

The NCGA noted that it has worked closely with regulatory agencies for the past two years in developing its policies and regulations as they relate to testing and production of pharmaceutical proteins in corn. "It is very unfortunate that any company would allow an infraction of this magnitude to occur," said Leon Corzine, chairman of the NCGA Biotech Working Group. "NCGA has had numerous meetings with every company producing these proteins, including ProdiGene. NCGA supports using all scientific, management, and mechanical measures available to eliminate the potential for such occurrences."

"Plant-made pharmaceuticals offer tremendous benefits in preventing and treating diseases," said AFBF President Bob Stallman. "It is imperative, however, that these opportunities not be jeopardized by failure to adhere to regulations. We believe this strong enforcement action by APHIS should boost consumer confidence and ensure the stability of foreign as well as domestic markets."

Record U.S. Soybean Exports Exceed 1.1 Billion Bushels

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The American Soybean Association (ASA) has announced another record year for U.S. soybean exports.

On Aug. 31, the end of 2001/2002 Marketing Year, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported that accumulated U.S. soybean exports reached 29.9 million metric tons (mmt), the equivalent of more than 1.1 billion bushels (bu), up 86.6 million bushels from last year, an increase of 8.5 percent. This is the third year in a row that soybean exports have exceeded export levels in the previous year.

"About 40 percent of the total 2001 U.S. soybean crop was exported as whole soybeans," said ASA President Dwain Ford, a soybean producer from Kinmundy, Ill. "Soybeans greatly contribute to the U.S. balance of trade because soybean and soy product exports are the highest value U.S. agricultural commodity export with an annual value of nearly $7 billion."

ASA's activities to promote U.S. soybean exports are credited with influencing customer preferences for soy product usage in animal feed, cooking oil, and soyfoods. Through its network of 10 overseas offices, ASA manages the world's only international soy market development program that is responsible for promoting U.S. soy exports to more than 80 countries.

These activities are made possible by producer checkoff dollars invested by the United Soybean Board and various State Soybean Councils, as well as cost-share funding provided by USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service. These funding sources authorized about $24 million for ASA's export promotion activities during 2001/2002.

"ASA extends thanks to all U.S. soybean producers for their continued support of the national soybean producer checkoff program," Ford said. "Checkoff dollars are the critical component that ASA leverages with USDA's Market Access Program (MAP) and Foreign Market Development (FMD) cooperator funding to make possible ASA's export development programs."

In spite of the controversy surrounding biotech-enhanced products in some European countries, U.S. soybean exports to the European Union (EU), the largest combined market for U.S. soybean exports, exceeded 7.7 million metric tons/285 million bushels. That's 34 million bushels more than last year, an increase of 13.5 percent more U.S. soybeans exported to the EU.

In fact, during Marketing Year 2001/2002, U.S. soybean exports increased in nearly all major market areas except China, where new import regulations brought about a decline in exports of 42 mil. bu. or 20 percent.

Fortunately, exports to the Western Hemisphere more than made up for the loss in China. Exports to these customers, (which includes Mexico, Canada, Colombia, Costa Rica, Barbados, Ecuador, Venezuela, Trinidad, and for the first time in 40 years sales to Cuba), totaled more than 217 mil. bu., up 55.7 mil. bu., an increase of 34.4 percent. Exports were up six percent to Japan and Korea, and up seven percent to Taiwan, all longstanding customers for U.S. soybeans.

ASA currently operates foreign offices in Mexico City, Mexico; Brussels, Belgium; Istanbul, Turkey; Moscow, Russia; New Delhi, India; Tokyo, Japan; Taipei, Taiwan; Beijing, China; Seoul, Korea; and the Republic of Singapore. ASA has been promoting U.S. soybean and soy product exports since 1956.

A little money buys a lot of Action.

HYTEST® SEEDS
Corn Menu
HT4602Bt/RR
Roundup Ready CORN
at 102-day maturity is field tested and proven in the East to consistently deliver high tonnage with exceptional silage quality. Versatile for silage, high moisture or grain production. Multi-year NCGA Champion. (Available as conventional HT4602 and HT4602Bt/LL.)
TNT-106RR
Roundup Ready CORN
is a NEW 106-day "Top Nutrition and Tonnage" silage hybrid delivering high yield and dry matter production. Combine exceptional forage quality potential with Roundup Ready® herbicide tolerance for low cost weed control. (Other Eastern TNT silage hybrids: TNT-100RR, TNT-95RR and TNT-85RR.)
HT7712
is the benchmark for eastern silage production in 112-day maturity. This dual-purpose hybrid consistently delivers high tonnage combined with higher forage quality even under the toughest of growing conditions.
HT7806RR
Roundup Ready CORN
at 115-day maturity delivers exceptional high yield and silage quality potential with the added benefit of low cost weed control utilizing the Roundup Ready® production system. Versatile choice for silage, high moisture or grain production. (Available double-stacked as HT7806Bt/RR, YieldGard® as HT7806Bt and conventional HT7806.)
I'll HAVE THE HYTEST.®

Dairy cows prefer "Hybrids Built to Feed" from HYTEST® Seeds. Delivering high yields, more energy and consistently higher whole plant digestibility, HYTEST hybrids can increase milk production in dairy herds.

For your one seed source offering the latest genetic technology in top performing, high quality forage and row crop products, contact your local HYTEST Dealer or call us.

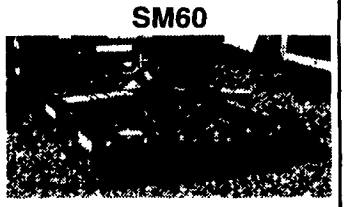
Universal Quick Attach Skid Loader Mower SM60



The SM60 skid steer mower from Servis-Rhino® and your skid steer loader can tackle a range of industrial, commercial, and agricultural mowing jobs

Cutting Width: 60"

The skid steer loader must be equipped with an operator front protective door Contact your skid steer manufacturer or an authorized dealer for equipping your loader with a protective door

Ultra Series Heavy Duty Skid Loader Plows

Trip Cutting Edge Design
The SnowWolf Ultra features a trip cutting edge design which allows full down pressure for incredible scraping ability in forward or backdragging situations It eliminates "false tripping" from snow load and will only engage if you actually strike an immovable object

Massive Construction
The SnowWolf Ultra is designed to take abuse from the largest skid loaders At approximately 100 pounds per foot of plowing width, you know the Ultra means business

Food for Thought
Did you know that a modern skid loader with a high speed transmission and a SnowWolf Ultra will outplow a pickup truck under most plowing conditions? A cleaner job, closer to the obstacles (without worrying about your fenders), and more acres plowed in the same amount of time!

Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc Offers This Low Cost Harrow The Flex-i-ble Tine Harrow

Aerates and scarifies to stimulate growth, improve moisture penetration Breaks up manure to speed decomposition, reduce parasites Works in seeds after reseeding Maintains rings and tracks 4 to 42 ft widths Adjustable penetration Low maintenance

HERBICIDE INCORPORATION: Independent research using black light photography proves the Fuerst Harrow behind your disk or cultivator gives you "near perfect" incorporation in one pass – better than implements costing several times more! Shreds trash as it prepares & levels seedbeds

BROADCASTING SMALL GRAINS AND GRASSES: University of Illinois found overseeding by broadcasting followed by a Fuerst Harrow a superior combination, out-performing equipment costing more than 10 times as much Pulled behind the broadcaster, it covers seed to desired depth in one time-saving operation

SHREDS STALKS: Shreds and spreads stalks in spring ahead of no-till and ridge-till planting

4 to 42 ft widths Flexes to cover every inch at 6-8 mph No maintenance Easy to use and store Insist on the original "Spreading Action" ® tines

There Are Many Things Concerning Your Corn & Soybean Crops Over Which You Have NO CONTROL...But You Can IMPROVE YOUR PLANTER PROFICIENCY SIGNIFICANTLY!

Binkley & Hurst Bros. Can Help! It's As Easy As 1, 2, 3!

1. Call our Planter Department today and schedule a thorough hitchpin-to-closing wheel evaluation!
2. Take advantage of "off-season" discounts on parts & labor
3. Rest easy, knowing that your planter is ready for next season!

★★★ If your questions are planter-related, we're here with answers! ★★★

Mr. Planter Owner:

Thank you for taking a minute to consider this offer

Binkley & Hurst Bros Inc is offering our annual off-season inspection and evaluation of your planter for the purpose of identifying worn, broken, or malfunctioning parts Many times, seemingly insignificant wear will affect the accuracy of your planter more than you realize If nothing else, it may be time to have your finger pickup meters checked on our test stand Also, new innovations, attachments and options are constantly being introduced which may be of interest to you for installation on your planter

Binkley & Hurst Bros parts and service personnel are specifically trained and informed planter specialists, ready to examine your planter with you! If you determine that the planting proficiency of your planter could be improved with our service, we would be happy to provide that service for you A technician will return to your farm with one of our well-stocked service trucks at a later date to assist you in doing the work. We encourage you to be part of the actual servicing so that any pointers or insight, which the technician may have for you with regard to planter operation, could be conveyed at that time

What does it cost?

If you set up an appointment for a planter evaluation, you will be charged a flat fee

4 or 6 row planter	$175.00
8 row planter	$200.00
12 or 16 row planter	$225.00

(Customers over 50 mile radius of Lititz, subject to mileage charge)

At time of inspection we will recommend to you any item needing attention, also at that time we will remove your seed meters to take in for testing if you so desire

Your cost of meter testing is $23.95. This includes testing, cleaning, & repair labor (parts not included)

If you have any questions, please contact the service department at 717-626-4705 or 800-414-4705

Thank you

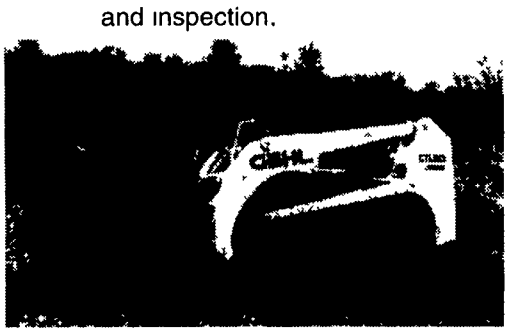
MORE CONVENIENCE
Cab can be quickly raised for clear access to the engine, allowing for fast maintenance and engine servicing In addition, the radiator quickly swings out for easy cleaning and inspection.



These brutes perform their best on soft boggy terrain where other machines would only sink. Traction, stability, comfortable ride and fantastic grade climbing capability. It's all here with the Gehl CTL.

- High-performance hydrostatic drive pumps enhance breakout capabilities
- Rubber tracks provide less ground pressure on muddy terrain, more digging power in the dry... no tires to go flat
- High ground clearance
- Big, comfortable cab for hours of productivity
- Easy maintenance with tilt-back FOPS/ROPS and swing-out radiator
- Pilot-operated joystick controls

GEHL. MODEL RB 2580 ROUND BALERS
Featuring the ALL-NEW Variable Open-Throat Power In-Feed System

GREAT BALING STARTS HERE

The top pivoting power in feed roll rides over the crop as it is pulled into the bale chamber An extension spring keeps the toproll under constant downward force

The spring tension increases as the variable throat opens from a minimum of 3/4 of an inch up to a maximum opening of nearly 7 inches The constant downward force of the pivoting upper powered in-feed roll, in combination with the fixed lower in-feed roll, both turning inward pinches the crop and forces it into the bale chamber The stripping roll strips crop off the belt and forces it down to the incoming crop Adjustable scrapers on the stripping roll and pivoting roll eliminate buildup

Wenger's Wins Environmental Achievement, Mentoring Awards

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Efforts by Wenger's Feed Mill, Inc. to protect waterways through development of better poultry and swine feeds earned the company an award for Outstanding Achievement for a Medium-Sized Business from Businesses for the Bay. In addition, Wenger's environmental coordinator, Bill Achor, was named "Mentor of the Year."

Wenger's is being honored for pioneering the use of phytase in its feeds. Adding phytase to poultry and swine feed reduces the amount of phosphorus in manure. Phosphorous is an essential nutrient, but can become a pollutant if excess amounts build up in the soil and groundwater.

"This technology is part of our long-term commitment to the community we serve and our overall corporate commitment to environmental stewardship," said F. Barry Shaw, president and CEO of the firm.

Wenger's has sought to improve nutrient management through its own feed, through customer outreach and education, and through investment in emerging technologies to process manure and minimize water and energy use.

Environmental Coordinator Bill Achor, who was named "Mentor of the Year," is a large part of Wenger's educational and outreach efforts.

Bill Achor serves as a volunteer mentor for nutrient management for Businesses for the Bay and was honored for his enthusiastic support of program. Through his membership in the South Central Pennsylvania P2 Regional Steering Committee, Bill has shared his expertise and has also encouraged other businesses such as Country View Family Farms and Orgo Systems, Inc. to join.

Here's why:

- Corrosion-resistant steel sides
- Indestructible plastic floor boards (HDPE)
- 12-year guarantee for FREE floor and sides if they fail

The Model 185 carries a 340 cu. ft. load with ease. We'd like to show you why this is the best-selling spreader in its class.

OPEN HOUSE

SCHICK ENTERPRISES & PLEASANT VALLEY FOODS INVITES YOU TO SEE THE NEXT GENERATION IN HOG FACILITIES

at

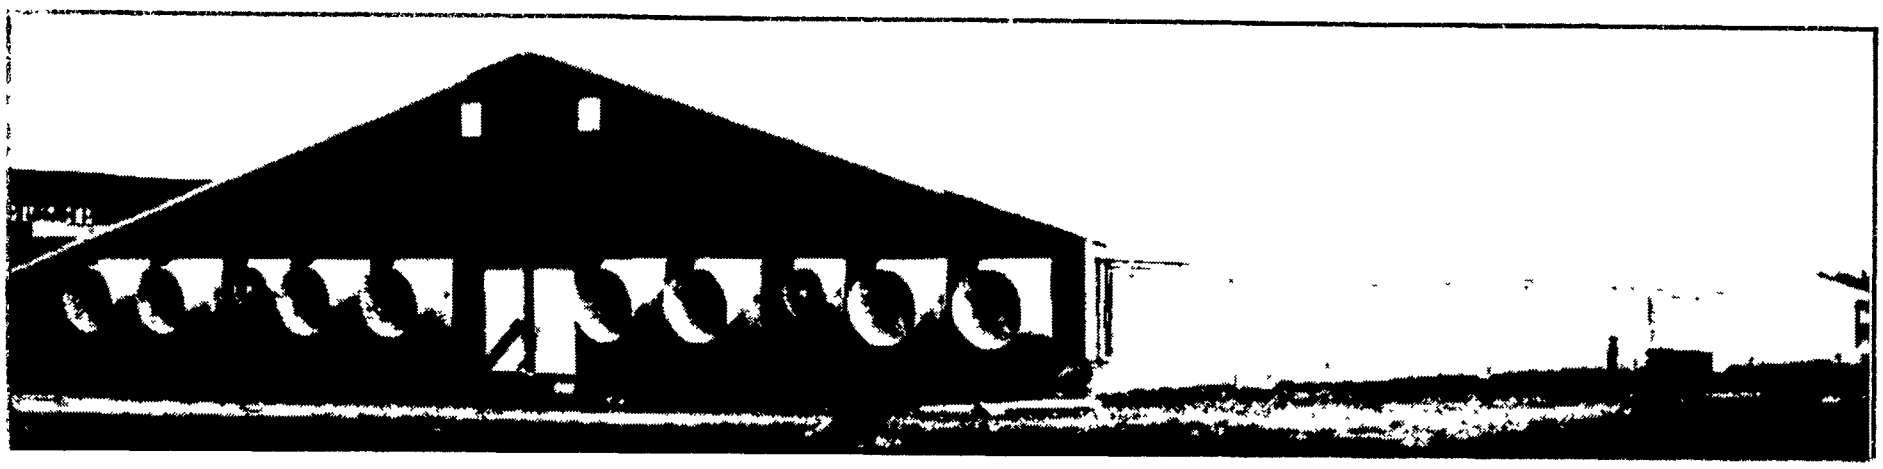
3030 Sunbury Road, Danville, PA 17821

owners

Stanley & Richard Crone

Friday, December 13 - 10 AM to 4 PM

LUNCH PROVIDED



SHOWCASING:

Two new 2,180-head swine finishing facilities prepared for a methane digester system with under-the-slats collection and processed manure storage system. Also featuring the patent-pending SORTALL hog managing system designed by Schick Enterprises.

FUTURE DIGESTER:

Generates electricity and heat for barns

★ Eliminates at least 90% of odors

SORTALL HOG MANAGING SYSTEM:

- Automatically sorts pigs by size from one pen to another
- Scale head is capable of communicating with PC
- Features new electronic eye for accurate weights
- Takes the guess-work out of separating pigs; minimizes sort loss
- Allows reduced labor and operating costs
- Large pen design improves animal comfort and meat quality
- Pigs are sorted quickly and easily to save time and labor on loading day
- Can be installed in existing facilities
- Proven design

Stanley Crone Building Site Directions

From Rt. 81: Take 81N to 901N to 54W, turn LEFT at traffic light before new bridge that goes across river into Danville, then turn RIGHT onto Sunbury Rd. Go 4.5 miles, building site is on your LEFT at top of hill. If you see a sign for Pine Hurst Acres, you went too far.

From Rt. 80: Take 54E to Danville. Stay on 54, cross river, 54 turns left at traffic light, go straight and then turn RIGHT onto Sunbury Rd. Go 4.5 miles, building site is on your LEFT at top of hill. If you see a sign for Pine Hurst Acres, you went too far.

Chesapeake Bay Restoration Leaders Highlight Successes And Outline Future Challenges

WASHINGTON, D.C. — At its annual meeting recently on the banks of the Anacostia River, members of the Chesapeake Executive Council marked the 30th anniversary of the Clean Water Act by celebrating recent accomplishments and recognizing future challenges facing Chesapeake Bay Program partners as they continue their work to protect and restore the Chesapeake Bay watershed in a time of constraining economic conditions and competing regional and national priorities.

During the meeting, Chesapeake Executive Council members — District of Columbia Mayor Anthony A. Williams; Maryland Governor Parris N. Glendening; Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection Secretary David E. Hess on behalf of Governor Mark Schweiker; Virginia Governor Mark R. Warner; U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Administrator Christie Whitman; and Chesapeake Bay Commission Chair Russell H. Fairchild — addressed issues critical to the health of the Chesapeake Bay including reducing nutrients entering the Bay, restoring and protecting the Bay's living resources and vital habitats, seeking funding opportunities for Bay protection programs, and more fully engaging local governments and the citizens of the Bay region.

In their remarks, Executive Council members recognized that restoring the Chesapeake Bay is a monumental task will not take place overnight. Rather, today's restoration efforts need to be accelerated, expanded and allowed time to produce long-lasting results throughout the Bay's 64,000-square-mile watershed. While the challenges facing the Bay are many, data released today show the resiliency of the Bay and potential for significant improvement:

- Preliminary data from aerial surveys of the Bay's underwater grasses show an unprecedented 27 percent increase from the previous year, with 85,252 acres of grasses covering the Bay's floor — the largest amount since baywide tracking began in 1978;
- Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and the District of Columbia have restored 2,283 miles of riparian forest buffers along rivers and streams in the Bay watershed, meeting a Chesapeake 2000 commitment eight years ahead of schedule.

With several provisions in the 2002 Farm Bill designed to assist farmers and protect the environment, the executive council also signed a Resolution to Enhance the Role of the United States Department of Agriculture in the Chesapeake Bay Partnership. The resolution aims to enhance the current partnership by exploring ways in which federal support for farmers can also be used to restore the Bay and its rivers.

As part of continuing Bay restoration efforts, the Executive Council released for public comment a draft of a Comprehensive Oyster Management Plan designed to improve dwindling stocks of one of the Bay's keystone species, and accepted a Local Government Participation Action Plan that works to further coordinate the Bay Program's restoration efforts with those of the 1,650 local governments in the watershed.

Further expanding and refining the first Local Government Participation Action Plan adopted in 1996, the 2002 plan has been developed to more fully coordinate local government protection and restoration programs with those under way within the cooperative Chesapeake Bay Program. With authority over many land use, storm water and wastewater management decisions in the hands of local governments, Bay Program partners believe expanded coordination between local jurisdictions and the Bay Program is key to the future health of the rivers, streams and lands of the Bay watershed.

The Executive Council also elected Virginia Governor Mark Warner as its new chair. Since the signing of the Chesapeake 2000 agreement in June 2000, Mayor Williams had served as the Executive Council's chair.

More information about the data released including bay grass abundance, forest buffer restoration and the oyster management and local government participation plans, is available online at http://www.chesapeakebay.net/press.htm.

Galvanized or Galvalume?

For metal roofing and siding, which is better, painted Galvanized or painted Galvalume?. Galvanizing is many times better if it's mill certified G100. Why is it better? Galvanizing tends to "heal" when scratched. The more galvanizing, the better. Everlast is ten times better at "healing" than galvalume because galvalume hardly "heals" at all when scratched. Also cut edges rust quickly on galvalume.

HOSTETTER GRAIN

Attention: Swine and Poultry Producers

Announcing

Crude Soy Oil Now Available

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer soybean oil as an animal nutrition product. Processing the soybeans ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

Crude Soybean Oil

A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications. Crude soy oil is a natural alternative to animal fats and provides needed energy in various rations.

Uses of Crude Soy Oil Include:
- Use as a high energy feed ingredient in swine and poultry diets
- Especially useful in sow lactation diets, pig starter and grow/finish diets
- Used as an added energy source in broiler, turkey and layer feeds
- Can be used for dust control purposes
- Can be used as a lubricant for feeding systems

Advantages of Crude Soy Oil:
- Use as a direct replacement for animal fat
- Vegetable based product
- Holding tank does not need to be heated if temperature is above 30 degrees, which reduces storage and handling costs compared to animal fat
- Bulk delivery partial loads available direct to farm by Keystone Mills
- Customer may pick up to save delivery costs

Other Soy Products Available:
- Keystone offers Golden Pro 46 XP which is 46% protein - 6-7% oil, Golden Meal 40 which is 40% crude protein with 18% oil

Keystone Mills Soybean Exchange Program
- We will take your soybeans in trade for Golden ProXP 46, Golden Meal 40
- Contact Keystone Mills for details on our soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products

Lycoming Co. - Franklin Twp, Close to Millville & Lairdsville 96 acre dairy farm can be remodeled and improved to make a nice comfort stall barn There are 3 stave silo's, large bank barn, implement shed and several other out buildings There is a 95% remodeled farmhouse and the setting is very nice The soils are Hartleton Silt Loam, Berks Silt Loam, and some Watson & Weikert Silt Loams There is a tract of woodland and lots of water for a pond since the springs were flowing real nice after last weeks rains

Centre County. This farm has level to gentle sloped fields that produce a good crop and is in high state of cultivation The barn was used for dairy cows till 2001 There are 2 silo's, beef or heifer barn, horse stables, milkhouse with 1,000 gal bulk milk tank, repair shop, garage, corn barn/implement shed and semi-private There is a 2 family residence with no electric Electric is available! This farm could easily be sub-divided into a farmette and 40+ acres and the balance used for grain farming - or put up another set of buildings and make 2 - 115 + acres each No matter how you plan to use this farm, it is a good buy with fall or spring possession

My listings sell...I sold the neighbors farm in three weeks.

Crossing Vineyards, Winery A Family Endeavor

Hand hoeing around the vines allows Tom Jr. to virtually eliminate herbicide. He plans to plant a mix of fescues and ryegrass as a cover crop that also improves weed control. Photo by Michelle Kunjappu

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU

WASHINGTON CROSSING (Bucks Co.) — "Growing grapes is no different than growing crops," said Tom Carroll Jr.

"It's agriculture. It is marketing, sales, science, food processing, and chemistry."

A former horse farm and a dairy farm before the Carrolls owned the property now boasts long rows of slender green shoots, clinging to wire supports, that are making their sure way upward.

A dream that had its beginnings when Tom Jr. was about 10 years old has become reality at Crossing Vineyard, Washington Crossing. "I remember being taken by the look of the vineyard and telling my parents, 'someday we should do that on our property,'" said Tom Jr.

Years later, with money saved, books and articles read, and experts consulted, Tom Jr. has his vineyard, a five-acre area patterned with straight rows of vines.

Self-Education

Although graduating with a double major in English and filmmaking didn't necessarily prepare Tom Jr. for an agricultural vocation, his enthusiasm and willingness to educate himself and general passion for the venture has filled in the gaps.

The aid of Penn State local agents and Penn State wine grape agent Mark Chien has been "invaluable," according to Tom Jr..

In addition, his mother, Chris, estimates that she has called 50 grape growers to discuss topics such as which rootstocks would work best in their area. "It's like a brotherhood of farmers," she said.

Winegrower Tastes Benefits Of Research, Hard Work

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster County) — For wine grape producer Jan Waltz, 2002 looks like a good year.

Since he first began growing grapes in 1997, Waltz has faced a steep learning curve, three dry summers, and a variety of other challenges.

But with favorable overall growing conditions, along with hard work and close attention to details, he expects a fine wine from this year's crop.

Waltz is the fourth generation of his family on this Manheim farm, which has been used mainly for field crops, livestock, and tobacco production. He started looking into wine grapes about six years ago, when a friend tuned him in to the possibility of starting a vineyard.

To help familiarize himself with the idea, Waltz traveled to famous wine-growing regions of California, including the Napa and Sonoma valleys. He noticed these areas had some of the same characteristics as his home — such as good soils.

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Plans for the 2003 Mid-Atlantic Fruit and Vegetable Convention Feb. 4-6, at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center in Hershey are well under way.

This year's convention date is a week later than usual, so be sure to take that into consideration when planning your winter vacation.

The date change was caused by a conflict in the Convention Center's schedule for 2003, but the Mid-Atlantic Fruit and Vegetable Convention will return to its normal time at the end of January in 2004.

Dr. Michael Orzolek and the rest of the program committee are working hard to put together another outstanding educational program for the 2003 convention. The vegetable, potato, and small fruit program will again include five concurrent sessions on all three days.

On the opening day, there will be half-day sessions on season extension technology, beans, wholesale marketing, sweet corn, potatoes, alliums (onions, garlic and leeks), and greenhouse vegetables, plus a

Top Ten List: Things Prospective Grape Growers Should Know

Chris Carroll
Crossing Vineyards
And Winery

WASHINGTON CROSSING (Bucks Co.) — We did three years of planning and research before planting our first vines at Crossing Vineyards and Winery in Washington Crossing, Pennsylvania.

We attended workshops, visited other vineyards, extensively tested and amended our soil, and enlisted the help of experts. Still, like many new vineyard owners, we were forced to make critical decisions without sufficient knowledge. If only we'd known then what we know now.

• Number Ten:
Choose Your
Site Carefully

Elevation is the single most important consideration in choosing a site for your vineyard. 1500-1800 feet above sea level is the upper limit for growing grapes. An elevation of 820-1500 feet is considered most desirable.

Drainage is also important. Grapes don't like waterlogged soil.

A southeast facing slope is best; 3-10 percent is preferable. Sloping ground helps to accelerate the dispersion of water and cold air.

• Number Nine:
To Vinifera Or Not To Vinifera

Your chance of success will improve if you plant the more cold-hardy vinifera varieties which have been grafted onto hardy, pest-tolerant root stocks.

If frequent, sustained temperatures below minus 5 degrees Farenheit occur more than once in ten years on your site, growing vinifera may not be realistic.

• Number Eight:
To Grow Tube
Or Not To Grow
Tube

Many grape growers swear by the grow tube, a protective sheath that covers the young vine during the first season to protect it from disease and pests.

Some disadvantages of the grow tube: promotes the growth of only one shoot; hardening off of the vine can be more difficult; can actually promote certain fungal diseases.

Again, making the proper choice depends completely on your site.

• Number Seven:
Metal Or Wood Posts

If we could do it over, we would use metal posts. They last forever, and the catch wires can be moved much more easily. Unless the aesthetics offend, we recommend metal posts and plan to use them in future plantings.

• Number Six:
Trellising Systems

Experts currently favor the divided canopy method. Some of the more popular training systems including Scott Henry, Smart-Dyson, Geneva Double Curtain.

After much research, we decided to use the VSP (Vertical Shoot Positioning) method. Since we now know that we have a high vigor site, we are considering Scott Henry for future plantings, which will be largely vinifera.

• Number Five:
Vine Spacing

This decision is a critical one. It affects how many vines can be planted on your site and how the grapes will eventually be harvested. If you decide to plant closer together to maximize the use of your ground, you might not be able to harvest mechanically.

We used an 8 x 5 spacing plan: 8 feet between rows, 5 feet between plants. An ideal row length is 600 feet.

However you choose to lay out your plants, be sure to allow 25-30 feet of usable turnaround space for your tractor at the end of the rows.

• Number Four:
Size Of
Initial Planting

So much can be learned about your site from the first planting. A good idea would be to limit it to two acres, an acre each of two different va-

"They have been very generous with me."

Some of Tom Jr.'s education was gathered as he spent three years in California on unrelated projects and jobs.

He came home from California with savings and asked his parents for five acres. Soon, however, "they were not only a part of it but into it — really into it," he said. "Before I knew it, Dad was out there plowing."

The waving green plants are testament to what hard work, research, and planning can do, according to Tom Carroll Sr.

"If novices can have the level of success that we have had, farmers are going to have a much bigger leg up with their knowledge" and understanding of the soil, he said.

"This is the hardest thing I've ever done in my life," said Tom Carroll Sr. "If we can do this, for farmers that know the soil and equipment, this is a home run.

"We have the utmost respect for farmers now," he said. "I'm proud to be called a farmer. We have such love for farming now, for the farmers we know.

"We may be the new breed of farmers (using computers, the weather station, and other technology), but I would be so proud to be called a farmer.

"We feel that what we're trying to do here could be used as a model and can convince others that "they can do it with limited agriculture experience," said Tom Jr..

"There's no fancy equipment," said Tom Jr., who purchased all the necessary equipment online.

Weeding, pest control, training, and trellising vines require a lot of "hands-on attention," which proved to be too much for one person.

Jaime "JJ" Juarez joined the vineyard staff a full-time employee. The assistant vineyard manager is also quickly becoming an assistant winemaking manager.

Crossing Winery is processing grapes from two or three other area growers for 2002 and 2003 and is planning to start integrating fruit from their own vineyards.

What's In The Soil

A focus of growing good grapes starts with "what is in your soil," said Tom Jr.

He began the process with a local extension agent to help him draft a program for weed control. "It all started with analyzing soil and checking soil structure and type," he said.

A backhoe's holes, dug in several places to measure soil structure in several areas, revealed the beneath-the-soil secrets of makeup of the proposed vineyard.

Soil samples began two years prior to planting. Ameliorating the soil to get the proper pH with lime was followed by the process of subsoiling, moldboard plowing, and disking the field.

Discovering that their soil hosted Penn silt loam type helped Tom Jr. decide which rootstocks to order. Too vigorous, and the vines will be too abundant and prevent the grapes from getting enough sunlight. Too weak, and production will not be up to potential.

They decided to cultivate an assortment of American varieties, French hybrids, and vinifera plants. Although

Winegrower Tastes Benefits Of Research, Hard Work

"A lot of people think you can only grow grapes in poorer soils," he said. "I realized a lot of grapes are grown in similar ag areas (to Lancaster County)."

Waltz began cultivating Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot, two popular varieties used for making red wine. He chose quality, virus-free vines from California and New York to plant in his well-drained silt loam fields. He now has a total of 10 acres in grapes.

The vines are supported by a high-tensile wire "Scott Henry" trellis system, named after the Oregon grape grower who developed it. In this type of trellis, the vines are trained to grow horizontally at two levels, with the goal of increasing fruit set while maintaining a thin profile of the vines and leaves to allow good air circulation. Rows are spaced eight feet apart.

The young vines come grafted onto rootstock that is best adapted for local growing conditions. The vines normally take three years to produce.

Waltz selected relatively slow-growing rootstock because of the native fertility of his soils, and the vines need minimal fertilization. Waltz applies small amounts of nitrogen in the spring and keeps an eye on micronutrient levels through soil tests.

There are no set guidelines for growing grapes in the area, according to Waltz.

"We went through a lot of trial and error," he said. "There's not any one book telling you how to do it in this part of the country."

Growing wine grapes involves constant learning, talking to other local growers, and traveling, Waltz said. Penn State and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture are also "really working to develop a better industry," along with the Pennsylvania Association of Wine Growers, of which Waltz is a state director.

Weeds are handled with a cultivator designed for running alongside the vine rows. Hilling soil around the grafts in the fall to protect them from freezing also helps control weeds the following spring. Waltz uses no herbicides.

For insects — mostly the grapeberry moth — he applies pesticide once or twice per season, mainly around the perimeters of the vineyard. Japanese beetles can also be a problem, but Waltz strives to keep spraying to a minimum, in part to protect helpful insects.

"There are so many beneficials that are important," he said.

Waltz applies fungicides on a more regular basis, rotating the chemicals as much as possible to manage disease resistance. Systemic fungicides have a longer lasting effect.

Marketing is a major part of a successful wine-growing business. It's crucial to research markets, even before starting to grow grapes, and to secure buyers before expanding, according to Waltz.

"If you want to grow grapes, you've got to have a market," he said.

Waltz's goal is "to maximize revenue per acre." He chose Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot, French nonhybrid

"vinefira" types, because they are the biggest sellers in the area. Most of Waltz's grapes are pre-contracted in the spring to local winegrowers. The price depends on the ability to deliver good-quality grapes.

Grape quality depends on a lot of factors, including pH and sugar content, but the most important criteria is taste. As September harvest time approaches, Waltz regularly tests all three.

"If you want good quality grapes, you have to wait until the best flavor," he said. "Make sure the taste is there, not just the right (pH and sugar) numbers."

Quality is affected by the heaviness of the fruit set. Thinning the fruit is often necessary earlier in the season. But rain during blooming time can "automatically do the thinning for you," Waltz said.

Three to six tons of grapes per acre is a typical yield for the varieties Waltz grows. He estimates that he harvested 4-5 tons per acre this year, a yield that was boosted with the help of some overhead irrigation. A ton of grapes produces about 160 gallons of wine, depending on the type and pressing method.

The grapes are harvested by hand, with the help of Waltz's friends and family. Mechanical grape harvesters exist, but Waltz said the machines can break canes and create the potential for crop losses.

It takes about 60 hours per acre to prune the canes in the winter. Along with the attention required during growing season and harvest, Waltz estimated a total of 250 hours of labor per acre each year to tend the grapes.

"I thought tobacco was a lot of work," he said. Beside the labor-intensive nature of growing wine grapes, "the timing is more crucial" as well, and the grapes are "not as forgiving."

A substantial start-up investment was required, including a tractor that can fit between the rows to cultivate and hill the rows.

Even with all the work and investment, the wine grape business holds promise, according to Waltz.

"It looks good at this point," he said.

As for the 2002 Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot wines being made from Waltz's grapes?

"Quality-wise, it's looking like it's going to be a real good year."

Waltz uses a small plow to hill the rows in the fall to prevent freezing of the grafts near the vine bases. The hills will also help control weeds next spring.

Potassium Critical Component In Maintaining Healthy Vines

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — You say your grapes don't look healthy? Harvest may be down?

The answer could be a simple lack of potassium in the vine's diet, noted several grape-growing specialists.

According to Dr. Tim Martinson, entomologist with the Finger Lakes Grape Program, and Hans Walter-Peterson, Cornell University Fredonia Vineyard Lab, vines are a major "sink" for potassium. Potassium hunger signs can make themselves seen readily in the plant.

Both spoke in mid-November this year at the Pennsylvania Association of Winegrowers (PAW) annual meeting at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster. They spoke to about 70 PAW members and agri-industry representatives.

According to Martinson, waiting to see signs for potassium deficiency may not the appropriate time, since the damage may already be done. Cornell focuses on maintaining potassium levels at optimum levels as the most critical component for fruit set and yield.

Growers who observe symptoms, including a scorched look on the leaf margin, marginal yellowing, and interveinal scorching could be seeing signs of potassium deficiency.

However, according to Walter-Peterson, a balance of proper soil pH and critical nutrients such as nitrogen could also improve plant vitality and fruit set.

Cornell bases its nutrient recommendation programs on potassium. They look at the standard components of a nutrient program for grape crops, starting with nitrogen (N), potassium (K), boron (B), calcium (Ca), magnesium (Mg), zinc, and other elements.

A magnesium deficiency could show up as yellowing at the edges of leaves or brownshots at leaf edge.

Iron deficiency, usually manifest in standing water problems, includes yellowing of the leaves and shoots. Boron deficiency could show up as chlorosis of the leaves. Boron is critical because without it, there could be poor fruit set.

Boron is critical for the floral parts of the plant. "Boron is inexpensive and easy to apply and easy to monitor," said Martinson. "It could have a huge difference in the type of crop you get."

Other problems could be pest- or fungus-related, including European Red Mite (yellowing or browning of leaves), Foliar Botrytis (browning of leaves), viral diseases such as tomato ringspot, stylet oil injury from application, drought stress, basil leaf sublethal tissue injury, herbicide injury, Paraquat drift, oxidant stippling on Ives, or other factors.

Diagnosing the problems is difficult simply because of other factors, such as the vine's inability to transport nutrients, for reasons that leave plant specialists mystified.

Also, the critical ratio of potassium to magnesium and calcium plays a huge role during the interaction of other nutrients. The target ratio on K-Mg-Ca should be 1.2:1:10. That relationship "will dictate potassium use," said Martinson.

Growers should take regular soil and petiole samples to ensure that what the plant has available in the soil also is transferred to plant tissue. During a dry weather season, simple drought stress could mimic foliar or pest problems.

A Family Endeavor

grapes from vinifera varieties are in biggest demand and command the highest price, they are not as hardy and productive in all areas, so the Carrolls decided to experiment.

"Grafting European vines onto different rootstocks enable us today to realistically and economically consider planting these varieties," said Tom Jr..

Part of the hard work was digging holes for the six-inch twigs, which arrived in April and were planted by hand, which translated into more than 4,500 holes — and days of hard labor. The tiny plants cost $1.50-$4, depending on rooted versus grafted and the variety of the plant. The plants came from California, New York, and Canadian nurseries.

"Another big part of the process is finding good nurseries," said Tom Jr..

"You have to be careful about putting in clean stock," said Chris.

Additionally, to ensure a successful planting, the entire 20-acre property is enclosed by 8-foot galvanized woven-mesh deer exclusive fence.

Making A Niche

As for marketing, "the key is finding a variety to make a niche to get on the world scene," said Tom Jr.. "that will come from more years of grape growing and more vineyards."

The historic property, along with the charm of the converted barn area, will lend itself to marketing the wine, they believe.

"With that history, we're going to stay with American roots," said Tom Carroll Sr. "Marketing will follow through with American history. We have a commitment to Americana concept in our brand."

Tom Carroll Sr. surveys progress on the vineyard and winery site. "After years of hard work, it came together and bloomed into this — it's an amazing thing to see happen."

Tom Jr. peers into vats newly filled with grapes from other growers in the area. The vats are insulated with a cooling jacket that allows for refrigerated solution to run inside the vat and control the temperature to the wine. This changes the rate of fermentation. "There's no stomping going on here," said Chris Carroll.

Sheds used before as runins for the horses now house equipment, and the barn's stalls have been converted to an area for tasting and wine sales.

The Carrolls are scheduled to plant an additional 10 acres next year. According to the Carrolls, the average size vineyard in the U.S. is five acres, while the average size vineyard in Europe is three acres. They believe that this proves that the endeavor is viable for a farmer with limited land.

Additionally, since grapes thrive in low-moisture situations — even thriving during the drought — means that a crop of grapes could offset other more rain-dependent crops that have not done as well during the growing year, they said.

Grapes will experience disease pressure in a wet summer, in fact.

Carroll Sr. hopes their operation would be considered a model for helping to offer a viable alternative to using land as opposed to development.

No Shortcuts

Quality is a focus of their efforts, said Chris. "It's all we're about. We have not taken any shortcuts. There is no real shortcut if you want to do it the right way. We're making the harder, more expensive decisions," she said, but the family considers the extra outlay and patience to be worth it.

Not using the first two years of grape harvest, for example, means that although those two crops are lost, growth of the vines and roots are encouraged. The plants can produce — although perhaps in diminishing quantity — for 35 years, according to Tom Jr..

"We are convinced and committed to the fact that you can produce wonderful quality grapes in Pennsylvania. We know it's so, we believe it's so, and we're putting our money where our mouth is," said Chris.

One aspect of grape growing that "appealed to me is the aspect of community and family — doing it on the property that I grew up on," said Tom Jr..

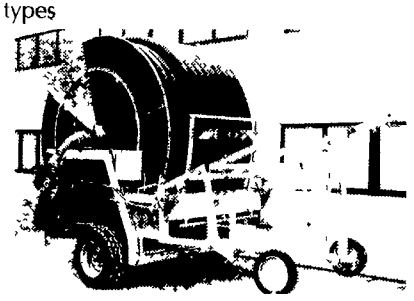
"I will not get bored by this," said Tom Jr. "It involves so many disciplines.

"I don't think it (vineyard and winery management) will ever get easy. It just happened that I found something that I love to do," said Tom Jr.

"TICO/FERBO HOSE REELS"

Now, a new generation of automatic hard hose reels that feature variable travel speed selection with automatic constant compensation to provide uniform irrigation over entire length of pass, and operate at low input pressure to easily, efficiently, economically irrigate or spread liquid manure

TICO, a leader in irrigation systems for over 30 years, also offers these other types



• WHEEL ROW
• GIANT SPRINKLER
• HAND MOVE • TRICKLE
• LIQUID MANURE AND WASTE WATER DISPOSAL

Also virtually all makes of couplers, fittings and gaskets, plus pumps, pipe, diesel, gas, and electric motors

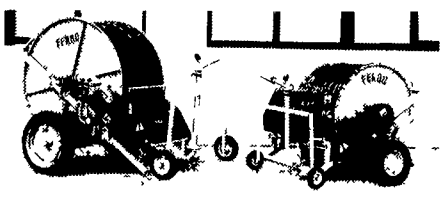
CHOOSE AMERICA'S PREMIER TRAVELER FROM TICO/FERBO

• 52 Different Models
• 5 Drive Systems • 15 Hose Lengths

From 30-630 gallons per minute output and with hose lengths from 395 ft up to 1650 ft Standard features include Automatic Speed Compensation, galvanized cart and stabilizer legs, turntable, pto wind-up and optional hydraulic legs and cart lifting



Economic Irrigation: With low input pressure requirements and constant speed irrigation, FERBO Travelers remain the leaders in low cost automatic irrigation There isn't another traveler available that is simpler to operate or less expensive to maintain

Waste Water Disposal: Our engine driven travelers are the simplest and most accurate on the market Our computer controlled speed regulation ensures 99% accuracy to meet Federal/State design criteria while our simple yet efficient engine/gearbox drive ensures low maintenance

Plus: We manufacture and market a complete line of Slurry pumps pump fittings, irrigation pumps wheel row, giant sprinklers, hand move, trickle center pivots

ROVATTI SLURRY PTO DRIVE PUMPS

Rovatti TL slurry pumps are high-pressure slurry pumps with a unique "bolt on" chopper system

The standard pump features a high efficiency open-vane impeller with an interchangeable wear ring and fixed cutting blade to handle all but the very toughest of straw, hay or other difficult residuals For these conditions, the chopper unit can be simply bolted to the pump where it is driven by the existing pump shaft, enabling it to handle virtually any waste products requiring chopping

A number of additional features make these the most versatile and reliable units on the market:

- Special permanently lubricated mechanical seal for longer life
- Over-sized bearings
- Lubricated chopper shaft bearings
- Chopper shaft shear-pin to reduce risk of damage to the shaft and impeller
- A range of four tractor pto pumps and four bare-shaft pumps with flows from 105-1000 gpm
- Replaceable wear ring
- 540 rpm or 1000 rpm speeds
- Finest grade cast iron for high efficiency
- Unique water-cooled gearbox for extended gear life

The pump is mounted on a heavy-duty wheeled cart with pto shaft, 6" quick-action suction fittings and 4" discharge fittings as standard.

Also, growers need to examine the pH of the vineyard and monitor that over time. "And over time, you can change things," said Martinson, by proper nutrient and soil pH management.

Hans Walter-Peterson of Cornell looked at nitrogen and other nutrient use of the vine plant. About a third of the nitrogen available to the plant is used for fruit and two-thirds goes to the shoots and leaves. For potassium, two-thirds goes to the fruit and a third to the leaves.

Potassium deficiency can show up in a dry year, with heavy cropload, in areas where the site has been leveled or topsoil removed, poor weed management, and after heavy application of dolomitic limestone.

Nitrogen reserves are critical for vine survival over winter, which provides 15 to 30 percent of the total N demand. And different types of nitrogen in chemical or solid-based form and chemical makeup dictate N availability.

Water can be one of the most limiting factors in vine physiology, noted Walter-Peterson. Foliar application of N during drought is only a short-term solution.

Correcting soil pH to provide optimum levels can take time. Walter-Peterson recommends no more than two tons of lime per year per acre. Look for the best ENV, or effective neutralizing value, on the lime bag label.

Martinson provided an overview of his work in the Finger Lakes Region. The area has about 10,000 acres of grapes and 70 wineries producing 50,000 tons of grapes per year. There are 42 varieties of grapes grown in the region.

Martinson, who provided a slideshow history of the region, said developing the Geneva hybrids was the "the best thing the state ever did."

The program helps a five-county area. The area supplies grapes to wineries to the tune of 11 percent of total production. There are 60,000-80,000 tastings per year and the area has seen a 10-20 percent growth in tastings. Half of the wineries are less than 10 years old but supply a large and growing tourist industry.

The Enology Research and Extension Center in Geneva provides a brewing technology lab with 150 research wines, the New York Wine Analytical Laboratory, and a new position created for an extension enologist.

Dr. Terry Bates, Cornell University Fredonia Vineyard Lab, spoke about soil characteristics and nutrient availability. Bates also provided an update on the Lake Erie Grape Growing Region, which includes 30,000 acres that are involved in Concord grape production. Concord, Niagara, and some hybrids are primarily grown.

About 25 percent of the product is converted to wine (the largest state, not including California) and 75 percent of the field growth is Concord grape variety. Seventy-five percent of all field-grown grapes are processed.

A lot of production, Bates noted, is in the concentrate market, in competition with California.

The region near Lake Erie can provide great grape-growing conditions but severe snowfalls. "We live and die by the lake," said Bates. "But it enables us to grow grapes."

The Fredonia Lab Research Complex encompasses 30 acres three miles from the lake. Many of the growers are making major efforts to use mechanical harvesters and also for pruning and thinning. One grower paid for the machine twice in the first year in labor savings, noted Bates.

The PAW business meeting included an overview of the strategic plan under way. Included was information provided on crop insurance and plant disease management.

New board members elected include David Hoffman, president; Ed Jansen, CPA, treasurer; and Nelson Steward, Rick Masser, David Othmer, Sherry Sowers, Richard Blair, Karl Zimmerman, and Kari Skrip, directors.

Top Ten List

rieties. We have been advised not to plant less than an acre of a single variety.

• Number Three:
Ordering Plants

To get the best selection, place your vine orders at least a year in advance.

Be sure you have a market for the grapes you choose to plant.

French Hybrid and Native American grape varieties are more cold tolerant, yield more tonnage and are easier to grow, but they command a far lower price per ton, and the demand is much less predictable.

• Number Two:
Labor Needed
In The Vineyard

Caring for an acre of grapes requires 200 man hours per season. This can be a critical factor in deciding how many acres to plant.

Seasonal workers for planting, pruning and harvesting can be difficult to find.

• The Number One Thing A Prospective Grower Should Know:
Bring Plenty of Money.

Whatever budget you've established for the development of your vineyard, triple it!

A final word. Viticulture is as much an art as a science. And no matter how much the experts differ, they all seem to agree on one thing. There is no subsitute for a grower's understanding of his site, his microclimate, and his soil.

Direct Marketing Conference Jan. 27-29

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. — Dan Pawlowski, president of the New York State Farmers' Direct Marketing Association, announces that the 2003 New York State Farmers' Direct Marketing Conference is Jan. 27-29 at the Saratoga Sheraton, Saratoga Springs, N.Y. This conference, entitled "Planting the Seeds for Change," will feature three days of educational sessions for direct marketers, followed by a post conference bus tour to farm markets through the Saratoga region and into western Massachusetts.

The theme of the conference was chosen as a response to this year's series of weather related disasters — record warmth in April, cold and late season frosts, hail storms, and record-breaking rainfalls.

"I know that if I hadn't started going to the New York State Farmers' Direct Marketing Conference and learning how I could direct market my apples and diversify my business, this year's weather would have put me out of business. Instead I learned that by adding extra enterprises to my farm operation, like farm birthday parties, a gift shop and agri-entertainment activities, my farm could survive a disastrous year," said Isabel Prescott of Riverview Orchards in Rexford, N.Y.

Joe Peck, agricultural humorist and author of "A Cow in the Pool and Udder Humorous Farm Stories," will open the conference on Jan. 27. Peck's keynote address will be followed by five consecutive sessions that will aid direct marketers to begin their business, expand their business, and improve their business.

Learn More About Vineyards In Pa.

Mark L. Chien
Wine Grape Agent
Penn State
Cooperative Extension

I am the wine grape agent for Penn State Cooperative Extension. Officially, I cover a 16-county region in southeast Pennsylvania, although my work has taken me to every corner of the state and the surrounding region.

I'm guessing that a lot of regular Lancaster Farming readers are not aware of the presence of a wine industry in Pennsylvania. Most of the wineries are small, family owned and operated businesses that tend to be off the beaten path, often in scenic corners of the commonwealth.

Since the Farm Winery Act of 1968 allowed for the establishment of small wineries, the numbers has grown to its current 70 wineries. Along with those wineries are more than 100 independent vineyards that supplement the wineries' own vineyards. Just for the record, these vineyards, in almost all cases, are separate from the vast sea of process grapes that grow along the shores of Lake Erie, whose juice is used to make juice and jelly products.

The wine industry in Pennsylvania is very small compared to some of the more traditional ag commodities, but it is increasing both in size, recognition, and economic significance. The vineyards produce about 4,000 tons of grapes each year that are processed into almost 600,000 gallons of wine. That sounds like a lot, but in reality it's about the production output of a medium-size California winery.

Wine is a very attractive value added product for the agricultural community in Pennsylvania. A ton of grapes produces juice valued at $1,800. Once that is processed into wine, it can easily reach a value of more than $8,000.

Vineyards and wineries offer other assets to state and localities such as agritourism, jobs, and opportunities for associated hospitality industries such as hotels and restaurants. One has to only consider the billions of dollars in revenues that wines bring to areas such as Washington, Napa Valley, and Oregon to realize the potential impact that this industry can have on the state. Its also a high-profile, glamour product that brings respect and polish to the state's image.

Because of their relatively high return on investment, vineyards can also be used as an agricultural hedge against unchecked urban growth. There are a lot of good reasons for vineyards to prosper in Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania has a rich history in grape cultivation. The first commercial vineyard in America was planted by Pierre Legaux along the banks of the Schuylkill River near Philadelphia. Grapes thrived in the southern counties before spreading north to Lake Erie. Of course, prohibition in the 1930s put an end to wine production and it wasn't until 1968 that the modern wine industry began.

Pennsylvania has a variety of features that make it uniquely suited to high-quality wine production. First and most importantly are its soils. Both along the Erie belt and in the warmer confines of the Piedmont Plateau in southeast Pennsylvania, the soil types tend to be well drained and very suitable for the cultivation of the prized vinifera grape varieties (for example, Chardonnay, Riesling, Merlot, Cabernet Sauvignon, etc.) from Europe. The climate, especially below the Appalachian ridges, appear to be moderate enough to sustain these more delicate European varieties.

The wine industry has just experienced two of the best vintages in memory. These exciting wines will prove the value and potential of grape growing in Pennsylvania.

The vineyard and winery communities are also getting support now from key partners, such as the state legislature and Penn State. Researchers are working on problems related to wine grape production. And the state government is increasing its funding for marketing and research. The wine industry itself has just recently created a commodity board that places a program charge on wines produced in Pennsylvania. These funds are used to promote our wines and for education and research.

The wine industry is on the move. It has so much to contribute to the overall welfare of the commonwealth and the agricultural community. As I drive around the beautiful hills and valleys of my 16 counties, I envision vineyards as far as the eye can see. We have everything we need to make this a reality. We just need to do it.

Assembly Shines To New York Wines

ONEIDA, N.Y. — The Assembly has passed legislation sponsored by Assembly Agriculture Committee Chairman Bill Magee (D-Nelson) that clarifies the right of tourist tasting centers operated by duly licensed winners or farm wineries to sell wine on Sundays. This bill, which has passed the Senate, who also sponsored by Senator John R. Kuhl (R-Hammondsport).

"This is an important piece of legislation for New York's wineries as a large and growing percentage of the sales from these stores are due to tourists and travelers on Sundays," Magee said.

Although these satellite stores have been selling wine on Sundays for 16 years pursuant to legislation that was passed in 1984, it was just recently that the New York State Liquor Authority issued an opinion that clouded the issue and this bill addresses that issue.

"The wine and grape industry is an important and growing segment of New York agriculture and we must do everything we can to continue to encourage its growth," Magee said. "Obviously, if these stores had been forced to close, it would have had a resoundingly negative effect on our wineries and grape growers."

"This legislation will safeguard the current investment by winery growers in promoting New York wines, but will also keep the wine industry well positioned for years to come," said New York Farm Bureau President John Lincoln.

THE HILLSIDE CULTIVATOR

A versatile tool with many uses. It's unique feature is it's ability to move soil uphill as the tractor is moving either direction on the side of a hill.

- Rolling cultivators cut and tear weeds from the soil.
- Cultivators have a slight ridging effect toward the row but are not as damaging to soil structure as a rototiller.
- The angle at which the cultivator units operate is hydraulically adjusted from the tractor seat. This is to avoid covering plants from the upper side of the row.
- This type of cultivator works in a no-till situation moving through moderate plant debris without clogging.
- Two heavy s-tines loosen soil behind the tractor wheels.
- Many adjustments allow for cultivating narrow rows and those up to a width of 48".
- The rolling cultivators do a good job of covering small weeds along the edges of plastic and maintaining soil on the edge of raised beds.

New Holland Vegetable Day Jan. 20

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Greenhouse tomatoes, weed, insect and disease control in vegetables, and asparagus production are just a few of the more than a dozen topics that will be covered at the New Holland Vegetable Day Jan. 20.

The meeting is sponsored by the Eastern Lancaster County School District and Lancaster County Cooperative Extension.

Greenhouse growers will want to catch the sessions on "Perennial Production" and "Mum Varieties and Production."

A panel of local growers will talk about their experiences with beneficial insects for greenhouse tomatoes. Raspberry production and food preservation will round out the program.

Category pesticide credits will be available at some sessions. One core credit will be offered.

The meeting will be conducted Monday, Jan. 20 at Yoder's Restaurant in New Holland. Yoder's is located along Rt. 23 at the eastern edge of New Holland.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. Cost for the day is $10 per person if you preregister by Jan. 15, or $15 per person at the door. Lunch is provided.

For more information, contact Jeff Stoltzfus at (717) 354-1522. To register, send the enclosed form along with a check for the appropriate amount to Adult Farmer Program, 126 Eastern School Rd., New Holland, PA 17557.

How To Join PAW

KEMBLESVILLE (Chester Co.) — Join your fellow wine-grape growers in the most active organization that addresses your cultivating needs in Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvania Association of Winegrowers (PAW) works closely with Pennsylvania State University and the Pennsylvania Wine Association to enhance your wine-grape-growing efforts.

The Pennsylvania Association of Winegrowers began as the Southeast Grape Association (SEGA) and was the first organization of its kind in Pennsylvania, welcoming members as early as 1974. Its members now include wine-grape growers, wineries, media and academic and industry representatives.

During the early 1970s, Pennsylvania witnessed an increase in wine-grape growing that was doubling yearly. Answering this statewide call for a grape growers' organization, a group of 25 growers joined together in 1974 to form the Southeast Grape Industry Association. In its nearly 30-year existence, the group has remained focused on its original objectives:

1. To promote the growing and processing of grapes and grape products.
2. To collect and disseminate information concerning grape growing and processing by publication, news release, and forum.
3. To coordinate the collective purchasing of supplies.
4. To encourage research in viticulture and grape processing.
5. To represent the grape industry in the region.
6. To encourage the wine-producing industry in the region.

Dinner Raises More Than $20,000 For Lab

FAIRPORT, N.Y. — New York oenophiles popped their corks celebrating earlier this month when a '99 bottle of Pinot Noir from a Finger Lakes winery went for more than $1,000 during the Fifth Annual Wine Country Auction to benefit the Cornell Vinification and Brewing Technology Laboratory at Geneva.

"It's another sign that Finger Lakes reds have arrived," said Scott Osborn, owner of Fox Run Vineyards in Geneva, N.Y. "The '99 reserve Pinot was one of the best Fox Run has ever made. I'd wager it is also the highest price ever paid for a five-liter bottle of New York state wine."

Harris Wilcox and his son Craig auctioned 39 items to raise more than $20,000 during the benefit for the laboratory, at Casa Larga Winery in Fairport, N.Y. Items at the auction included a mixed case of '99 Merlot and '99 Cabernet Sauvignon from Shalestone Vineyards, the opportunity to blend and taste sherries with winemaker Glenn Curtis at Widmer's, a case of Gold Medal selections of '00 Rieslings from Dr. Frank, dinner for four at Red Newt Winery, and others. All of the items in the auction were donated by New York wineries, breweries and associated industries.

The money raised in Friday's auction was augmented by $224,000 in funding from last year's state budget that was secured by members of the New York Legislature, some of which will go to the lab.

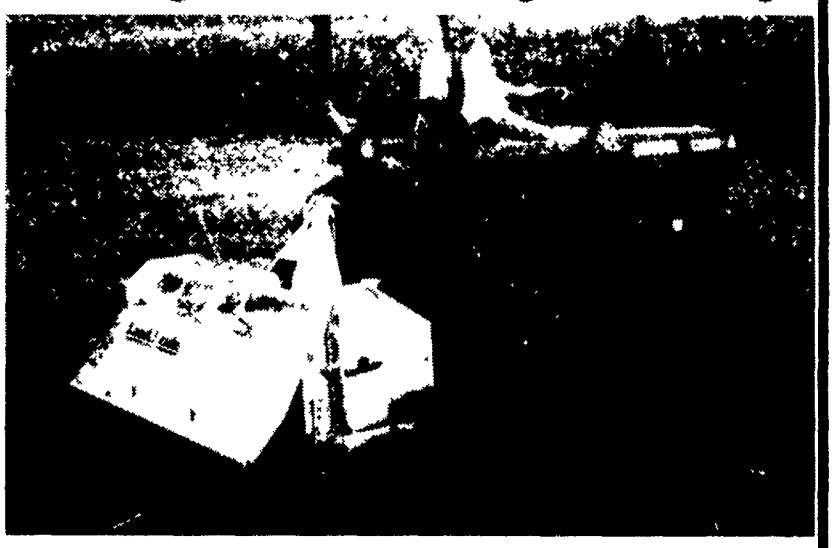
Land Pride

No Doubt ... The Best Rotary Tiller Money Can Buy.



Land Pride's Reverse-till Rotary Tiller is perfect for gardens, farms, orchards, landscaping, nurseries and commercial use. Its reverse tilling action and coil spring "sifting" tines create a ready-to-plant seedbed in fewer passes than a conventional tiller.
